Judge Russell's Strong Campaign.

(Communicated.)

(From The Atlanta Georgian.)

It is nothing less than truth, and nothing more than fair to say that the political campaign conducted by Hon. Richard Russell, of Winder, has been one of the most phenomenal ever prosecuted by any candidate for public office in the south. While Mr. Russell is essentially a poor man with a narrow margin of this world's goods, his four competitors have been without exception men of large wealth and of tremendous influence. While Mr. Russell has had no daily, and scarcely a weekly paper behind him in his race, each of these gentlemen has had either a powerful daily or one or two strong and influential weekly papers as their advocates and champions.

With a large family, with an exacting business, and almost entirely without organization, Judge Russell has prosecuted simply in the might and main of his colossal energies one of the most vivid picturesque and effective canvasses ever made in the state of Georgia.

He has spoken in every section of the state. On many days he has made as many as eight speeches between the rising and setting sun. His expenses made in traveling are doubtless the smallest ever recorded by a candidate in this or any other southern state, and yet it is simply honest to say that this indefatigable man of the people has worked his way by colossal energy and by keen, strong tongue and a vigorous, active brain, and an absolutely dauntless heart up into the front rank of the state campaign.

When Judge Russell's canvass was begun there was scarcely a man in Georgia who under his breath did not laugh it to scorn. No man laughs it to scorn in this day, and it is generally conceded by the wise and alert politicians that when the final ballots are counted, Judge Russell's vote will be found far up into the thousands, and dangerously close to the vote of the best men in the race.

The simple English-American spirit of fair play extorts from the average man an expression of admiration and of respect for the career of a hard, square fighter like this, and The Georgian, who loves Georgia and loves Georgians wherever they be who illustrate the best qualities of the state, cannot fail, while taking no sides in the present campaign, to write a meed of praise and of admiration for as gallant, as dashing, and as effective a fighter as has ever fought in the ranks of a Georgia political campaign.

JUDGE BROYLES SETTLES FEUD BETWEEN CHILDREN

All of the cotton mill town, situated near Bellwood avenue and Julian street, appeared at the police matinee on Saturday. The principals in the act were the Catro children and a Mr. Moore. The weapons de combat were stones from the yards of these two families. The cause of the riot was that old, old story. "Fathers afraid to fight it out, so let children do the deed."

On Thursday night the Catro side of the feud claim Pink Preast and Stanford Preast, Harry Moore and Will Adams battered their home for one hour, without ceasing. Then Pink Preast comes to the front. "I was in Marietta."

The Moore feudist takes it up at this point, Catro's babies throw stones at every one who passes on the street, one party even deigned to designate that if the judge passed that way they would treat hi min like manner.

But feuds end not here. Language, such horrible language, was brought into the testimony. The little Catro children, ages 6 months, 1 year, 2 years and 5 years, were accused of using the most obscene utterances. But more horrible still. They threw rocks at a corpse. The culmination point of the feud.

Judge Broyles was asked to settle the matter, County Officer Dunbar making the appeal. This is what was said:

"I think the Moore and Catro children, the whole lot of you, ought to be put in an orphanage. If I had the power I would send them there. You people ought to be ashamed of yourselves. If necessary," speaking to a county officer, "call out the fire department next time and shoot water on them. Mr. Moore, why don't you and Catro go behind the barn and have it out? I don't think you ought to let your children do this way."

"I would, judge, but Catro's 'fraid," replied Moore.

"Well, I'll fine Pink Preast, Harvey Moore and Will Adams $5 and costs each."

Warm Discussion Expected at Bar Association Meeting.

Other Matters of Large Legal Import Will Be Considered at the Meeting Next Week at Warm Springs, Georgia.

Columbus, Ga., July 11.—(Special.)—A feature of the report of the committee on judicial administration and remedial procedure, to be read before the Georgia Bar Association at its annual meeting at Warm Springs next week, that will probably cause a lively debate, is the recommendation that all city courts in the state be abolished, and superior courts established in lieu thereof.

The report of the committee, which has already been printed and distributed among the members of the association for their consideration, contains several other features that will probably provoke interesting discussion. The report of the committee, of which a number of the ablest lawyers of Georgia are members, is as follows:

Report of Committee.

"Your committee regards the relief of the supreme court of Georgia as the paramount question to be considered by it. While some members of the committee favor the establishment of a court of appeals, the majority of the committee do not think such court necessary, but believe the relief can be obtained more effectually in another way, or at any rate, they believe that if the suggestions herein made can be enforced, the necessity for the court of appeals will not exist for some time to come.

"The committee therefore makes to the association the following recommendations:

Uniform Procedure and Practice.

"That all city courts in the state be abolished, and in lieu thereof superior courts be established, sufficient in number to transact the business; that in counties or cities where more than one court be required—establish two or more Never Again Will There Be Such a This.—"Your Own Terms at Is the Rule In this Sale.—6

The Constitution man called at the Wester Music Co.'s store yesterday, and in reply to the question "Is the sale a success?" Mr. Wester replied: "Success? Well, if you had seen our store Monday morning, July 2, when we had 114 pianos in stock, and will just count the number we have remaining, your question will be answered.

"You know we have leased a new store which was to be ready for us July 16th, but delay in remodeling work, our lease expiring on present quarters, as well as on the warehouse on Marietta street, forced us to choose between carting over 100 pianos to the storage house or cutting prices and closing them out.

"We preferred the latter course. By giving the buyers the benefit of the loss in profits we save ourselves an endless amount of trouble and expense, enables us to open our new home with a new stock, and makes every purchaser in this sale our everlasting friend.

"And the people were not slow in taking advantage of our offerings. The fact that we are selling on an average of ten pianos daily bears out that statement. Nor would such a thing be possible unless we carried out every promise and statement made in our advertisements.

"On Tuesday of this week, we sold twenty-one uprights, two squares, four organs and a piano player. We think that establishes the record for Atlanta and the south.

"Let me show you what we have been doing, just how we are selling pianos in this sale.

"Here, for instance, is a nice piano, fully guaranteed, that we usually sell at $275. This one is marked to sell at $153.

Americus.

Americus, Ga., July 11.—(Special.)—The marriage this evening of Miss Lucile Clegg and Mr. Emmett Clements was one of the most brilliant of the season in Americus.

The rites were solemnized at the Clegg mansion on Lee street and witnessed by a great assemblage, representing the society of many Georgia cities. Miss Robert Paul, of Darien, was maid of honor, while the groom entered with his brother, Mr. Felton Clements. The rites were solemnized by Rev. O. P. Gilbert, of the First Baptist church. Afterwards the several hundred guests were entertained at a brilliant reception.

The social prominence of the bride and groom rendered the occasion one of interest in society circles of southwestern Georgia. Mr. and Mrs. Clements will go east upon an extended wedding trip.

A Tragic Finish.

A watchman's neglect permitted a leak in the great North Sea dyke, which a child's finger could have stopped, to become a ruinous break, devastating an entire province of Holland. In like manner Kenneth McIver, of Vanceboro, Me., permitted a little cold to go unnoticed until a tragic finish was only averted by Dr. King's New Discovery. He writes: "Three doctors gave me up to die of lung inflammation, caused by a neglected cold; but Dr. King's New Discovery saved my life." Guaranteed best cough and cold cure, at all drug stores. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

HE STOLE GEMS WORTH $50,000

Robbery Committed in London--Alleged Thief Held in New York.

New York, July 11.—A man who described himself as James Stellman, an engineer, 24 years old, of Brooklyn, was arrested today on a charge of complicity in a $50,000 diamond robbery, which occurred in London on March 14, 1905. According to the police a man named Samuel Lockett is at present serving a 5-year prison term in England in connection with the crime, having been arrested in Liverpool, England, soon after the robbery took place.

The victim of the robbery was a salesman for a firm of French jewelers who was in London on behalf of his house. He carried sample diamonds and other jewels to the value of $50,000 in a small hand satchel. It is alleged by the police that Stellman and Lockett followed the salesman about and when the salesman entered a drug store in London and laid the satchel down the satchel was changed for one looking identically the same. The loss was not discovered until later.

Petroleum as Plague Disinfectant.

Bombay, India, July 11.—Dr. Turner, health officer of Bombay, today successfully demonstrated the extraordinary efficiency of crude petroleum as a plague disinfectant. It is believed that his experiments have materially ad-

"The committee therefore makes to the association the following recommendations:

Uniform Procedure and Practice.

"That all city courts in the state be abolished, and in lieu thereof superior courts be established, sufficient in number to transact the business; that in counties or cities where more than one court be required—establish two or more superior courts; that courts be held in each county quarterly, instead of semi-annually as now; that the circuits be so arranged as to enable the judge of each to hold the four courts here mentioned; that the grand jury assemble only twice a year and the other two courts be held without such grand jury.

Appeal From One Jury to Another.

"Your committee recommends that an act be passed carrying into effect article 6, section 4, paragraph 6 of the constitution, which authorizes the general assembly to provide for an appeal from one jury to another. When this was the statute of Georgia the evil consisted in the failure of a bona fide trial in the first instance. To meet this evil your committee recommends that the law be safeguarded so as to require a real trial in the beginning. This might be done by providing that there could not be an appeal by consent, that the attorney representing the appellant should be required to certify that the case had been properly prepared and tried honestly, without the reservation of any evidence or authority which was in his possession, and that he believed justice had not been done by the verdict, and believed same would result from another trial. Of course, the appellant should be required to pay the cost, and give bond, or file an affidavit of inability to do so in all civil cases. The presiding judge then should have the authority to refuse the appeal should it appear that the case had not been tried in the first instance.

"Your committee is persuaded that a large per cent of the cases that now reach the supreme court would not reach it if this right of appeal existed.

New Trial.

"Your committee recommends that section 5474 of the civil code, which provides that the judges of the several superior courts shall have the power to correct errors and grant new trials; and also section 5482, authorizing the judge to exercise a sound discretion in granting or refusing new trials, where the verdict is decidedly and strongly against the weight of evidence, be so amended as to require such judges to grant new trials in cases where the preponderance of evidence is distinctly and strongly against the weight thereof and the principles of justice.

Justice Courts.

"Your committee recommends that the laws of the state be so changed as to prohibit any case from reaching the supreme court which originated in a justice court, unless there is some constitutional question involved.

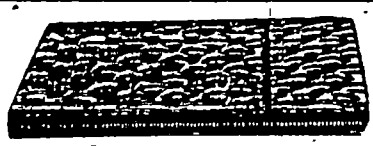

"It is thus seen that the recommendations involve a change of the constitutional as well as the statutory law; but this committee believes that if the changes are made, the system would be very much improved, and the supreme court of the state very much relieved. Respectfully submitted,

SUPREME COURT NEEDS RELIEF

That Is the Opinion of the Lawyers of Georgia.

Committee Named To Take Steps Looking To Legislation for Relief of Tribunal—Court of Appeals Favored by Lawyers.

By Isma. Dooly.

Warm Springs, Ga., July 19.—(Special.) The distinctively interesting features of the second day's session of the twenty-third annual convention of the Georgia Bar Association were the addresses of William Travers Jerome and Judge Andrew Cobb in the morning, and that of Judge James Blount in the evening. Besides the business side of the morning's sessions following Jerome's address, there were several interesting papers read.

Alexander Akerman, of Macon, dealt with the subject, "The Power of Municipal Courts." He was followed by R. E. Dismukes, of Columbus, whose subject, ably handled, was "The Law of Bank Checks." The report of the committee on judicial administration and remedial procedure was the occasion of lively discussion, Judge William Strickland presenting the report.

To Relieve Supreme Court.

In pursuance of a motion which was unanimously adopted president Hammond appointed a committee composed of Judge John R. Hopkins, Judge S. B. Adams, Judge Spencer Atkinson and Arthur Gray Powell for the purpose of obtaining legislation looking to the relief of the supreme court. The entire bar association is united in the belief that the legislature should establish a court of appeals.

Judge Andrew Cobb appeared before the association, at the morning session and made a statement, showing the overcrowded condition of the court and its dockets. The condition was startling to all the lawyers who heard the speech. The committee appointed by President Hammond was conceded to be the strongest that could have been selected.

At the afternoon session the following papers were read: Alexander Smith, on "Should the Bankruptcy Law Be Repealed," and W. W. Gordon, of Savannah, on "Defects of Our Criminal Procedure and Remedies Therefor." "Some Legal Aspects of the Philippines," was the theme of the brilliant address made by Judge James H. Blount, of Macon. It was a valuable contribution to the association and was replete with facts of history.

At the concluding sessions Friday, ex-Chief Justice Logan E. Bleckley, W. A. Wimbish, James H. Gilbert, J. Carroll Payne and Sheppard Bryan will be among the speakers.

WARM SPRINGS, GA., July 18.—(Special.)—It is not an easy task for the man in the "public eye" to satisfy entirely in a brief address the opinions formed of him by an assemblage of people who have waited for three days to hear him talk, for in this section of our great republic the people require not only thought, but grace of expression, in the man of public life.

There is an inherited taste for eloquence, and the women and men alike wince almost at a discord in speech from one who is brought forward as a figure in this period of time, this time of complex activities in all the great movements of the day.

A Man of Strength.

When, therefore, William Travers Jerome, of New York, accepted the invitation to address the members of the Georgia Bar Association and came heralded by his friends and the press, he could not have made the impression he did this morning had he not been the man of strength, distinction, individuality, and mental equipment, these qualities impressed not only in his high class, clear-cut and manly address, delivered this morning, but in the man's very presence.

It would be difficult to write of the impression made by the speech without recurring to the man, so complete did it seem an expression of him, and not having met Mr. Jerome, I write of the impression he made through his speech, and through the influence I have felt in what is his very pleasing presence, which compels an interest even on the part of the casual observer.

A Man of Poise.

As he approached the platform this morning, escorted there by S. P. Gilbert, chairman of the Georgia Bar Association, and before he had ceased to bow his acknowledgement, there was most impressive about the man his very keen eye, a reserve and deliberation of manner, indicative of the superb poise which, it is easy to see, well balances Mr. Jerome and his every utterance.

It was therefore a trifle amusing to mention in his introductory remarks, he said he had "promised to be good before he left home; that he would not say anything he ought not to say."

Nothing To Take Back.

Savannah, Ga., August 6.—(Special.)—The Chatham county democratic executive committee met this afternoon to arrange for the state primary on the 22d. It was determined that polls shall be open from 7 a. m. until 7 p. m. and that there shall be five ballot boxes, one for each of the four city districts and one for the country district. All the boxes will be located at the court house, as has been customary here for some years. The committee will meet again Saturday at 4 o'clock to select managers and clerks for the primary.

Each of the six congressional candidates, four for short term and two for long term, were assessed $25 each.

STATE GOSSIP CAUGHT IN CAPITOL CORRIDORS

LOGAN BLECKLEY, for the past eighteen years the deputy clerk of the supreme court of Georgia, has announced his intention of becoming a candidate for the position of clerk of the court of appeals, should the people at the election on October 3, next, ratify the proposed amendment to the constitution creating this court.

Logan Bleckley is the son of that distinguished Georgia jurist, Judge Logan E. Bleckley, who for many years was the presiding judge of the supreme court, his many opinions, couched in ornate language and recognized throughout the United States as eminently sound as to the legal doctrines expounded.

Said a lawyer to a Constitution reporter

"When the act to create the court of appeals was passed, I'll warrant that a large percentage of the lawyers in this state, if they gave thought to the officers of the proposed court, thought of Logan Bleckley's peculiar fitness for the office. He is known personally by every lawyer in the state, and it is safe to say that he will be endorsed for the position by practically the whole bar of the state.

"It is not because he is the son of one of the most distinguished jurists of this country that he is thought of in this connection, nor to his uniform courtesy, but due to the fact that he is the most efficient man for the position that I know of. I am told that the excellent system of keeping the records of the supreme court was devised by Mr. Bleckley, who can, without a moment's hesitation, lay his hands upon any record or paper in the office of the clerk of the supreme court."

Georgia Marble Wins Prize.

Georgia has been awarded the grand prize for her marble displays at the Louisiana Purchase exposition.

State Geologist Yeates was also awarded two medals—one for his office as commissioner to the exposition from Georof gold nuggets; one for displays of the Blue Ridge Marble Company, at Nelson; one for the Long Blue Granite Company, at Elberton; one for the Woodward Lumber Company, of Atlanta, for displays; and one to S. P. Jones, assistant state geologist.

Negro Must Serve Term.

Yesterday the supreme court handed down a decision in regard to Buck Mitchell, Tom Tanner, and Bill Tuggle. They were sentenced for twelve months. On March, the 4th of this year, these negroes, together with four others, Luther Martin, Daye Roberts, James Huff, and Luther Landrum, were caught by County Officers Mathieson, Williams, Walters and Cheshire for gaming. The last four mentioned pleaded guilty, and were given $50 and costs, or eight months. Judge Rodgers acted as attorney for the others, and appealed the cases to Judge Pendleton, who rendered the same decision in the matter as Judge Calhoun. It was then taken to the supreme court, and the sentence was still sustained. This will make the negroes, when they have finished serving the twelve months, have been in custody for seventeen months, they having consumed five months appealing their cases.

C. H. Lowe, a deputy warden at Milltown convict camp, has captured a negro convict, who gives his name as Will Rouse and who is thought to be one of the two escapes who stole an engine in south Georgia and fled.

Mr. Lowe has written the prison commission to this effect. The negro when captured was attired in convict garb, is about 28 or 30 years of age, had on one shackle, is a dark mulatto, weighs 150 pounds and has a scar over his right eye. He refuses to state whence escaped.

Comptroller Wright was pleased yesterday to receive a squib from a friend which contains an extract of the history of "Pickett's Famous Charge at Gettysburg." It was written by the wife of General Pickett.

The part referring to Captain expert capacity. But Mr. McLendon is a lawyer—and the commission already has one lawyer member.

It is contended by some of those who have discussed the matter here that it would be a great stretching of the words and the meaning of the commission law to select a lawyer for the position which should go to a practical railroad man. True, Mr. McLendon's activities in his profession have been mostly along the line of corporation law, he having for a number of years been attorney for the Plant system, but whether being a railroad lawyer qualifies a man for membership upon the commission as a "practical railroad man" is a question over which there is likely to be a wide difference of opinion.

Merry Fight Over Judgeships.

A Macon lawyer is authority for the statement that there are no less than forty candidates for the three positions upon the not yet created court of appeals. Nobody has yet undertaken to compile a list. Some of these gentlemen, or their friends, are clamoring to have the three nominations made at the convention the coming week.

They may have influence enough to accomplish this, but there are many whose interest is in the creation of the court rather than in any man's candidacy who are strongly opposed to the convention taking action. Some of these have suggested that the best plan would be for the convention to adjourn to a date after the state election in October, when the amendment creating the court will be submitted to the people for ratification. These men hold that if a nomination is made next week there is bound to be a scramble for the three places, which will jeopardize the ratification of the amendment.

It has been the policy of those not themselves candidates for these judgeships to encourage the candidacy of all possible aspirants on the theory that the more men personally interested, the greater will be the chance of securing the ratification of the amendment. And they think if the convention nominates next week the result will be a lukewarmness the speed of the natural slant system, and the latter is also more legible. Professor J. H. Smith, in charge of the business department of the Boys' High school, will have charge of the introduction of the new system of handwriting, and will give the city school teachers such instructions as may be necessary at normal school meetings.

All told, there are 320 teachers in the Atlanta public schools, and their fitness and capability is best attested by the stand which scholars take in other institutions of learning and in the business world after completing their course in our public schools.

The Boys' High school, of which Professor W. M. Slaton is principal, has the most flattering prospects of its history before it.

Never have the three departments into which the school is divided, consisting of the classical, business and technical departments, been so thoroughly equipped for educational work.

To the classical department Professor J. V. Hodges has been added as assistant instructor in science and English. Professor Hodges is a teacher of unusual attainments.

Every department of the school has been thoroughly equipped, both as to instructor and apparatus. In the science department the laboratory method of instruction is used, giving the students practical instruction as well as theoretical.

The classical department of the school will more than sustain its reputation of years past, more than which need not be said, it having long been recognized as a fact that a graduate of the Boys' High school is qualified without further preparation to take an advanced stand in the classes of the state university, or in the institutions of any other state.

The business deparment, under the direction of Professor J. H. Smith, will be better prepared than ever to equip boys for commercial life. It is the boast of this school that its graduates from this department are qualified to embark without further preparation into successful mercantile careers, and many of the trusted employees of large business concerns of Atlanta went from the doors of this school to the business houses in which they are now employed.

Technological Department.

The technological department of the school is on an equal footing with the excellent standard maintained by the two other departments. It is fully equipped

THERE'S PERIL LURKING IN THE CONVENTION AIR FOR THE APPEALS COURT

It is Proposed for Convention to Reassemble to Name Candidates for Bench After Amendment is Ratified.

MACON, GA., September 3.—(Special.)—There is danger for the court of appeals bill lurking in the convention air.

It is confidently stated here that Mr. Smith and his friends will oppose any action on the part of the convention looking to the nomination of candidates for the court of appeals prior to the ratification of the constitutional amendment creating the court by the people.

It is generally conceded that if candidates were nominated by the convention tomorrow, prior to the ratification of the amendment, it would defeat the bill.

But another programme has been arranged, it is said, which, if carried out, may prove equally disastrous to the new court so much needed to relieve the supreme court of its heavy and overgrown burden.

It is stated the plan is not to name candidates, but to pass a resolution providing that if the amendment providing for the court of appeals is ratified, the same convention which meets tomorrow to nominate Hoke Smith shall reassemble to nominate three candidates for the court of appeals.

The object of this, it is said, is to await the ratification of the amendment and then to nominate three partisan Hoke Smith men for the new court of appeals.

This programme has been freely discussed on the streets of Macon today, and there has been no little criticism of it.

"That's about the most strenuous ring politics possible," was the general comment.

The general opinion was that if this course is pursued it will result just as effectively in defeating the bill for the court of appeals as would nominations by the convention prior to the ratification of the amendment.

THREE WOMEN [illegible] WIN SUITS

Everybody in a Good Humor.

Macon, Ga., September 3.—(Special.)—They are all here from all parts of Georgia, and the lobby of the Hotel Lanier looks like it used to look around the old Kimball when there was a convention contest in sight.

Despite the fact that there is nothing in the shape of a lively contest before the democratic state convention which assembles at noon tomorrow in the Macon auditorium, there are perhaps more people here longing for something to turn up than have gathered at a state convention under similar circumstances in years. There are plenty of them here who wish not only that every railroad commissioner would resign, but that every other state house officer and every county judge and solicitor would get out of the way and give them a chance, and yet good feeling is a drug on the market. Everybody seems to be in a good humor.

Practically every detail of the programme for tomorrow's convention appears to be outlined and there is little to talk about tonight outside of the question of the state court of appeals. That seems to be the subject that is agitating every one's mind more than anything else, and that is the only question upon which there appears to be any doubt as to what the convention will do. It is definitely settled that the convention will not nominate candidates for the court of appeals in advance of the ratification of the constitutional amendment, but will it adjourn to meet subject to the call of the chair for the purpose of nominating candidates after the amendment has been ratified? That is the question that is agitating many of the candidates and their friends here tonight. Friends of the court of appeals are here in large numbers and some fifteen or twenty or twenty-five of the candidates for the bench of that court are also electioneering with the delegates to the convention, for they believe that the same convention is to be called to make nominations. They generally express the fear that such action by the convention will endanger the court of appeals bill, but they are all first and foremost for the establishment of the court and practically all of the candidates are putting that above their personal ambition.

The Platform.

Next to the court of appeals the platform is perhaps occupying most attention, and there is considerable curiosity as to what it will have to say. It is generally known here that the platform was prepared and brought to Macon by Editor James R. Gray, of The Journal, who will be chairman of the platform and resolutions committee, subject to such changes as the committee may demand. It is currently talked that the platform will in a general way deal with practically all the reforms which Hon. Hoke Smith has demanded in the course of his campaign. It is said it will demand full government regulation of railroads and of the trusts and will indorse Bryan for president. It is also understood that the platform will demand a reduction of interstate rates, will demand the port rate and will practically call on the members of the present state railroad commission to resign.

Of course it will have a disfranchisement plank, there is no doubt on that score, but it is believed it will be set forth in very general terms. In fact Mr. Bulloch, who is to be chairman of the committee on resolutions, has already announced that the platform will be very brief and will not go into details on the disfranchisement bill.

But another programme has been arranged, it is said, which, if carried out, may prove equally disastrous to the new court so much needed to relieve the supreme court of its heavy and overgrown burden.

It is stated the plan is not to name politics possible," was the general comment.

The general opinion was that if this course is pursued it will result just as effectively in defeating the bill for the court of appeals as would nominations by the convention prior to the ratification of the amendment.

45 WAR SHIPS ARE REVIEWED BY ROOSEVELT

President Reviews Greatest American Fleet Ever Assembled.

EIGHT NATIONS' ATTACHES WITNESS GREAT ENSEMBLE

Oyster Bay, September 3.—Under skies that broke brilliantly blue before a whistling westerly gale, which swept down Long Island sound and blew out to sea, the clouds and tempestuous rain which this morning threatened to immeasureable mar the spectacle, President Roosevelt today, within hailing distance of his summer home, reviewed the most magnificent naval fleet ever assembled under the American flag. Forty-five of the most splendid types of fighting vessels afloat lay at anchor in three columns as the naval yacht Mayflower, which just a year ago was written into history as the meeting ground of the peace plenipotentiaries of Russia and Japan, passed up and down the lanes, the president an applauding spectator on the bridge.

The Mayflower's journey was made amid a continous boom of saluting cannon and gun after gun spoke the navy's honor to the commander-in-chief of all America's military forces.

Distinguished Guests.

President Roosevelt had as his guests on board the Mayflower the secretary of the navy and several other government officials, members of the senate and house committee on naval affairs and the naval attaches of eight of the powers of the world. There was something of an object lesson in this gathering of a representative array of the American navy, about one-third of the fighting forces being in the review.

When the parade of the Mayflower was over and the president had looked with critical eye at each of the flag-dressed vessels, his yacht came to anchor and he received on board the commanding officers of the fleet. Then followed a gala luncheon at which the Knowing ones say the platform will call for elimination from the counsels of the party of all who are connected with corporations or special interests of any kind and again that there will be a demand for the South Carolina primary plan, which eliminates the convention and calls for running the race over between the two highest candidates.

Place for Hooper Alexander.

Chairman A. L. Miller, of the convention of tomorrow will not make an extended speech; he has practically stated he would leave that to Congressman T. W. Mr. Hardwick, it is stated, was tendered the chairmanship of the convention, but declined it. While he accepted the temporary chairmanship he declined to become even a member of the state committee, he says, and will urge that Hooper Alexander, of DeKalb, be made vice-chairman.

Quite a number of state house officials who will be renominated at tomorrow's convention are here tonight talking with

Hugh Foreman was cut across the left eye, but was not tossed from the machine. Jack Cutler, Jr., was sent flying through the air, but was not hurt. The only uninjured one in the machine was the dog "Dry."

According to Hugh Foreman, who was in the car, the accident happened in front of the home of T. L. Seely, out on Peachtree road. The auto was going at the rate of some 15 miles and hour when it hit the incoming car.

Mr. Foreman says that a negro woman was on the street getting ready to take the street car for town. Seeing the fast coming machine and the street car at the same time she was frightened and did not know just which way to move and in her anxiety to get out of the way got into the way. As a result Mr. Currier, who was doing the driving, dodged her, but struck the street car while doing so.

The mobile was a complete wreck after the accident. The handsome Franklin was torn all to pieces, the front of it being particularly damaged.

Mrs. Cutler is the wife of Jack Cutler, of Macon, one of the best known men in that city and in the state. He is the general freight agent of the Georgia Southern and Florida road. Before her marriage to Mr. Cutler Mrs. Cutler was Miss Bell, the daughter of Mrs. Emma Bell, of 288 Peachtree street.

WITNESS GREAT ENSEMBLE

Oyster Bay, September 3.—Under skies that broke brilliantly blue before a whistling westerly gale, which swept down Long Island sound and blew out to sea, the clouds and tempestuous rain which this morning threatened to immeasureable mar the spectacle, President Roosevelt today, within hailing distance of his summer home, reviewed the most magnificent naval fleet ever assembled under the American flag. Forty-five of the most splendid types of fighting vessels afloat lay at anchor in three columns as the navy yacht Mayflower, which just a year ago was written into history as the meeting ground of the peace plenipotentiaries of Russia and Japan, passed up and down the lanes, the president an applauding spectator on the bridge.

The Mayflower's journey was made amid a continous boom of saluting cannon and gun after gun spoke the navy's honor to the commander-in-chief of all America's military forces.

Distinguished Guests.

President Roosevelt had as his guests on board the Mayflower the secretary of the navy and several other government officials, members of the senate and house committee on naval affairs and the naval attaches of eight of the powers of the world. There was something of an object lesson in this gathering of a representative array of the American navy, about one-third of the fighting forces being in the review.

When the parade of the Mayflower was over and the president had looked with critical eye at each of the flag-dressed vessels, his yacht came to anchor and he received on board the commanding officers of the fleet. Then followed a gala luncheon at which the officers, the government officials, the attaches, senators and congressmen were guests together with a number of the personal friends of the president.

Flanking the war vessels which glistened in purest white under the direct rays of the sun and against a low-lying back of the sound of sorm-black clouds along the horizon, was the greatest fleet of private yachts, small boats and pleasure craft probably that has ever been drawn together in such a small compass. Each of these was decorated with signal flags from stem and stern and added materially in the painting of a marine spectacle unparelleled in the history of the American people.

Boom of Many Guns.

This was the stirring scene which greeted the president as the Mayflower steamed out from Oyster Bay shortly after 11 o'clock. It was just 20 minutes past that hour when the reviewing yacht came within range of the flagship Maine, which stood at the head of the center column of the fleet. There came a flash of flame and a puff of gray smoke from the starboard, saluting cannon of the flagship, which was the signal for the other vessels to join in a unanimous salute of twenty-one guns. It required twenty minutes for the Mayflower to run down the first lane. Then she put about and came up on the outer edge of the most westerly column of the ships. Reaching the head of the column again the Mayflower turned once more to the west and took a tour outside the torpedo boat line, coming eastward to the Maine's position once more and then cast anchor.

Paris, September 4.—A meeting of all the French bishops and archbishops took place here today, and excited intense interest owing to the fact that the prelates will decide whether the break between the church and state is immediable or whether it is possible to find a way of obeying the law, as well as preserving the church's interest. The number of distinguished ecclesiitics attending is not certain, but it is believed eighty bishops are present under the presidency of Cardinal Richard, the archbishop of Paris. The deliberations are strictly secret, and the discussion is to last four days.

Judge Proffitt Feels Confident.

Elberton, Ga., September 4.—(Special).—From all over northeast Georgia comes reports of unprecedented activity in behalf of Judge Proffitt for a place on the new court of appeals. This candidate's friends say that beside the well-known age and experience and natural and acquired ability of Judge Proffitt the fact that it is time for this section to be represented in state political affairs will give to him a leverage which will easily land him on the new bench. From all over the state assurances of support are coming in, and Judge Proffitt feels gratified and deeply grateful for it.

NOTHING DONE ON NEW COURT BY CONVENTION

Resolutions in Regard to Nominations of Justices Laid on Table.

QUESTION OF PROCEDURE UP TO STATE COMMITTEE

After the People Have Ratified the Appeals Court Bill the State Committee Will Take Up the Matter of Nominations.

Macon, Ga., September 4.—(Special.)—The warmest debate of the entire convention came on the question of the state court of appeals. The resolution, as reported by the committee on platform, provided that the same convention should reassemble and name candidates in the event of the ratification of the constitutional amendment creating the court.

Chairman J. R. Gray stated that this resolution was not a part of the platform and practically withdrew it when the discusion began. R. J. Guinn, of Fulton, offered a substitute providing that the state executive committee should take charge of the matter, and that a primary for court of appeals judges should be held at the same time with the regular election in October.

Congressman Hardwick, of the tenth, then denounced the original resolution as putting the convention in the anomalous attitude of calling for ballot box nominations, and then trying to do it by a convention to which the authority had not been delegated.

"Are you going to forswear yourselves?" he asked, and the crowd cried, "Never, Mr. Hardwick, declared, he

Guinn, of Fulton, offered a substitute providing that the state executive committee should take charge of the matter, and that a primary for court of appeals judges should be held at the same time with the regular election in October.
Congressman Hardwick, of the tenth, then denounced the original resolution as putting the convention in the anomalous attitude of calling for ballot box nominations, and then trying to do it by a convention to which the authority had not been delegated.
"Are you going to forswear yourselves?" he asked, and the crowd cried, "No!" Mr. Hardwick declared he would go down fighting before he would see the convention eat its own words.
Considerable of a wrangle then followed, in which various members of the convention took part, advocating one plan or another. The convention generally seemed to be favorable to some sort of a majority rule nominating justices of the court of appeals—but they did not care much what was done on this subject. They principally wanted to Hear Hoke Smith, and there were calls for Hoke from all parts of the hall, while the various delegates were trying to make themselves understood on the court of appeals question. Finally amidst what promised to be an interminable wrangle, the delegates voted to lay the whole proposition relating to the court of appeals on the table. This was done by a rising vote, after an effort was made to start the call of the roll of counties. The action of the convention in tabling the whole question relating to the court of appeals means that no action is taken in advance of the action of the people in passing on the constitutional amendment. After the amendment has been ratified and it was strongly indorsed by today's convention, the question of procedure is left to the state executive committee, which may or may not call a primary. All party questions in connection with nomination for the court of appeals are left to the state executive committee. This action is eminently satisfactory to all friends of the court of appeals bill, as well as to the candidates for that court of whom some twenty-five or thirty were here today. It is probable that a primary will be called immediately following the ratification of the amendment, and following the primary the executive committee will arrange to place the democratic candidates in the field for the November election.

WILL DISCUSS APPEALS COURT

All Candidates to Meet at Capitol on Saturday.

They Will Talk Over the Question of Ratification and Nominations. Chairman Miller, of New Executive Committee, Invited to Meet With Them.

In order to arrive at some proper understanding of the status of the state court of appeals matter, and what should be done regarding nominations, a meeting has been called of all candidates and prospective candidates for this court to be held in the supreme court library next Saturday, September 8.

Here is the call which has been issued for this meeting:

"Atlanta, Ga., September 5, 1906.—In view of the conditions surrounding the questions as to the adoption of the constitutional amendment and as to how and when nominations should be made for the judgeships of the proposed court of appeals, the suggestion that it would be advisable to have a meeting of all who may be candidates for such judgeships, to consider such conditions, has met with the favor of several of the candidates and other friends of the measure; as has also the suggestion that Hon. A. L. Miller, chairman of the democratic executive committee and president of the Georgia Bar Association, be invited to attend such meeting.

"For this reason and to put the matter in practicable shape, I have been asked to request that all candidates and prospective candidates for such judgeships and Judge Miller meet at the supreme court library, at the capitol, on Saturday, September 8, at 12 m.

BACKBONE OF HOT SUMMER BROKEN BY FALL WEATHER

CLOUDY weather and rain are predicted to follow today in the wake of the cool spell which struck Atlanta yesterday.

The mercury dropped to the 64 point yesterday morning and while according to the records this was nothing unusual, it came as a delightful change after some of those long hot spells and close, sticky days which were August's contribution.

So cool was it during the early morning hours that all Atlanta and Atlantans were more than glad to have a covering of some kind to draw up over them before the breakfast bell rang, and this sort of thing hasn't happened since—since the memory of man runneth back to the late May or early June days.

There is a high barometer hanging over the New England states and the northeastern section of the country and storm signals have been displayed down about the Bahamas, Cuba and the coast of Florida. The effect of this combination was to draw the cool air in the direction of the storm from the north and Atlanta being located in the middle as the great distributing center of the atmosphere as well as the railroad shipping and commercial traffic, the mercury took a pleasant drop.

This cool weather proved several things. Among the happiest proofs was that autumn is at hand, the backbone of the hot summer weather is broken past all remedy and the tropical season and the state fair and other fall events are fast approaching. "Not but that we may have some hot days," said Forecaster Marbury, "for some of the most unpleasant sometimes arrive in September. But it is not likely that we will have any of those long hot spells for the season of the year has arrived which is entirely against such unpleasant periods and cool weather may be expected as a matter of course."

One of the effects of the first cool spell in the early autumn is the return of the vacationers from seashore and mountains. As this kind of travel has broken all records in Atlanta and the south this summer it is very probable that the coaches on the incoming trains and the Atlanta depots will soon be crowded with the return of those who hurried away with the coming of the hot season. This will be particularly true of thousands of babies which left Atlanta this summer to remain until the last of the warm weather was over.

While rain is among the probabilities for Atlanta today and special mention is made of any severe storm so it is not likely that Atlanta will share in any of the high winds and hurricanes that are predicted for the east coast of Florida and Georgia. As a general thing these storms wear themselves out at sea before penetrating very far into the inland country. There was little of special interest in yesterday's weather map except that rains were reported general in the south with heavy rains in portions of Georgia, Alabama, Florida, Mississippi and Texas, the precipitation at Columbus, Ga., being 5.80 inches. Heavy washouts were reported by the railroads in this section, one washout being at Shiloh, and necessitating the deporting of through passengers to Atlanta by the Southern Railway around by Opelika and West Point over the West Point Route.

HERE IS LINE-UP FOR JUDGESHIPS

Candidates Who Are Making Race for Appellate Court.

There Are Twenty-One Actively in Race and Six Others Are Expected In—Meeting of Opposing Candidates at the Capitol Will Be Interesting.

Every section of Georgia is represented in the list of candidates for the state court of appeals, under the constitutional amendment providing for that court, which is to be ratified in the coming October election.

There are already twenty-one actual, active and out-and-out candidates for these three judgeships, while there are six or seven others who might be called tentative candidates—that is, they have been generally talked of, but have not yet formally entered the race, so to speak.

Here is a list of the twenty-one candidates who are known to be in the race:

Henry C. Peeples, Atlanta; Judge A. G. Powell, Blakely; Benjamin H. Hill, Atlanta; Judge W. R. Hammond, Atlanta; Judge Howard Van Epps, Atlanta; Judge C. G. Janes, Cedartown; Judge Fred C. Foster, Madison; Emerson H. George, Madison; George S. Jones, Macon; Thomas F. Green, Athens; Judge Frank Harwell, LaGrange; Judge D. M. Roberts, Eastman; T. J. Chappell, Columbus; Judge W. M. Henry, Rome; Judge P. P. Proffitt, Eberton; Judge W. C. Hodnett, Carrollton; O. H. B. Bloodworth, Forsyth; B. S. Willingham, Forsyth, and C. S. Reid, Palmetto.

Here are six others who have been prominently talked of in connection with the race and some, if not all, of whom may get into it:

H. H. Perry, Gainesville; I. E. Shumate, Dalton; R. T. Fouche, Rome; E. P. Davis, Warrenton; Judge James K. Hines, Atlanta, and Judge R. B. Russell, Winder.

The candidates and prospective candidates for the court of appeals have been called to meet in the library of the supreme court at the capitol on Saturday, September 8th, at 12 o'clock, noon, for the purpose of discussing the status of the court of appeals bill and the question of the nomination of candidates.

Chairman A. L. Miller, of the state democratic executive committee, has been invited to attend the meeting.

DESOTO SWEPT

CRENSHAW RUNS AS INDEPENDENT

In Race for Railroad Commissioner Against M'Clendon.

Asked That His Name Be Put on the Election Blanks, and Request Was Made Just in Time—Attorney General Hart's Decision in the Case.

T. C. Crenshaw, of Holly Springs, Cherokee county, is a candidate for railroad commissioner to succeed Commissioner Joseph M. Brown.

Mr. Crenshaw has not only announced as an independent candidate against S. G. McLendon, but he has succeeded in getting his name placed on the election blanks which will be sent out today by Secretary of State Phil Cook for use in the coming October election.

There is an interesting story back of this. Mr. Crenshaw has been talked of for some time in connection with the railroad commissionership, but his candidacy did not get before the state convention. Talk of Mr. Crenshaw originated chiefly as the result of the fact that he held a position as railroad commissioner for six years under appointment by Governor Atkinson, as the railroad member of the board.

Mr. Crenshaw called at the office of Secretary of State Phil Cook Wednesday and demanded that his name be put on the election blanks to be sent out for use in making the official returns. Mr. Cook was absent at the time, and his assistant, Goode Price, told him he would have to await Mr. Cook's return. Later Mr. Crenshaw saw Mr. Cook and reiterated his demand. Secretary Cook said that he was ready to put the names of candidates of any party on the blanks, but did not know that under the law he had the right to put on the name of an individual.

Decision From Judge Hart.

However, Secretary Cook asked Mr. Crenshaw to file with him a formal statement that he was a candidate, and desired his name printed on the election blanks.

This was done and Secretary Cook took the matter up with Attorney General John C. Hart, asking him what he was to do in the matter. Judge Hart rendered an opinion stating that under the law the question confronting Mr. Cook was one of practicability only. If practicable to put the name on the blank he should do so; if not, he could leave it off.

Secretary Cook then communicated with the state printer and found there was just time to get Mr. Crenshaw's name on the blank, which was done.

It appears, according to this view of the case, that any individual who wants to run for any office is entitled to have his name placed on the election blanks sent out by the secretary of state, provided he gets it in in time. The blanks were printed yesterday, and will be distributed over the state today, so that there is no further chance at this time for any other independent candidates to get their names on them.

PRIMARY FOR JUDGES CALLED FOR OCTOBER 3

No Single-Shotting Allowed and Candidates Must Tell What They Spend.

STATE COMMITTEE NAMES C. H. HALL, JR. SECRETARY

Committee Pronounced Against Use of Money in Elections—Will Not Accept Proxies at Future Meetings—Absent Members Must Explain.

A primary election for the nomination of three judges of the new court of appeals will be held on October 3, along with the regular election for statehouse officials, in which primary no "single shotting" of candidates will be allowed, and as a result of which no candidate can be declared the nominee of the democratic party until he has first filed with the chairman of the state executive committee an affidavit showing in detail his expenses in making the race and where he got the money.

Such, in brief, was the action of the state democratic executive committee at its meeting held in the convention hall of the Piedmont hotel yesterday at noon.

The resolution providing for the primary was introduced by Reuben Arnold, of Atlanta, one of the committeemen at large, and was finally adopted as amended, after considerable discussion.

Committee Is Organized.

More than three fourths of the new state executive committee were present the names of all candidates for said three offices, and no ticket shall be counted by the managers of the election if either more or less than three candidates are voted for, the intention of this resolution being to prevent single-shotting of candidates.

"Be it further resolved, That each candidate whose name shall be placed upon the ticket shall make such deposit and comply with such requirements as the subcommittee to which the matter of arranging the details of said election is left shall require.

"Be it further resolved, That the ticket to be voted at said election shall contain the names of all the candidates who have entered their names with the subcommittee to be appointed by the chair, and that the voters shall strike from it the names of every candidate except the three intended to be voted for.

"Be it further resolved, That the chair appoint a committee of five to arrange all details of said election not covered by this resolution, and arrange for the assessment upon the candidates to pay the expenses of said election, of which committee the chairman of this committee shall be ex officio chairman.

Must Tell What They Spend.

"Be it further resolved, That no candidate shall be declared to be the nominee of the party at this election until he files with the chairman of this committee an affidavit setting forth a detailed statement of the amount of money expended in his race, from what source the money came, and in detail how it was expended.

Against Use of Money.

The following resolution by N. A. Morris, of Cobb, was unanimously adopted without discussion:

"We hereby declare our purpose to faithfully enforce the provisions of the platform adopted by our democratic state convention on September 4, prohibiting the use of money or other thing of value to employ workers at the polls, or in advance of the election, as well as the buying or selling of votes.

"And it is furthermore directed that no man shall be eligible to be declared the nominee of the democratic party in Georgia for any office where it is made to appear that in connection with his candidacy, he has violated the provisions hereinbefore set forth."

Letters from two of the candidates, Judge Howard Van Epps, of Atlanta, and Judge P. P. Proffitt, of Elberton, making suggestions as to the manner of conducting the primary, were read for the information of the committee.

More than three fourths of the new state executive committee were present at this, the first meeting. In addition to this the appearance of about nfteen out of the twenty candidates for judgeships on the new court of appeals, and candidates for other offices, created a lively scene in the lobby of the hotel, just before the meeting.

Hon. Hoke Smith met and mingled among the members of the committee, but did not attend the meeting.

The committee was called to order at noon by Judge A. L. Miller, of Macon, chairman.

Hall Permanent Secretary.

H. H. Cabaniss, of Atlanta, was, on motion of Hooper Alexander, selected as secretary. But later just before the meeting adjourned Mr. Cabaniss resigned the position as secretary, and Charles H. Hall, Jr., of Macon, law partner of Congressman Bartlett, was elected permanently to that position.

There was a good quorum of the committee present and it soon got down to business.

Reuben Arnold, of Atlanta, introduced the resolution providing for the primary for judges of the new court of appeals on October 3, and providing for the appointment of a subcommittee of five to arrange for the details of this primary.

Sid Holderness, of Carroll, and R. L. Greer, of Macon county, objected to holding the primary on the same day on which the amendment is to be submitted to the people for ratification, on the ground that such action would have a tendency to defeat the amendment.

This objection was overruled by other members on the ground that this is the only time at which it can be expeditiously and satisfactorily done, and especially because of the great expense, something like $20,000, attached to holding a primary in Georgia.

Boykin Wright, of Richmond, offered an amendment, which was accepted, providing the machinery for making the returns of the primary and declaring the result.

After further brief discussion the primary resolution was then adopted by practically unanimous vote.

The Primary Resolution.

The Arnold resolution providing for the court of appeals primary, complete as amended, is as follows:

"Be it resolved by the democratic executive committee of the state of Georgia. That on the 3d day of October, 1906, a primary election be held by the democratic party of the state for the nomination of three judges for the proposed court of appeals. The qualification of voters shall be that defined in the platform of the party as fixed by the recent convention at Macon.

"Be it further resolved, That the subcommittee of five hereunder appointed shall confer with the several democratic conducting the primary, were read for the information of the committee.

Committee to Send Out Form.

After some discussion started by Hooper Alexander, of DeKalb, as to the source of the funds to pay for the printing of the democratic ticket to be used in the regular election, Chairman Miller stated that the committee would simply send out a form of democratic ticket to the chairman of each county committee and that all tickets to be used in the regular election in each county would be furnished as heretofore by the candidates for local offices.

Mr. Alexander also offered a resolution condemning the practice of assessing candidates for state house offices by county committees, and providing that such assessments should be prohibited. After brief discussion, in which it was shown that assessments were only made for primaries, and were usually ignored by the candidates, Mr. Alexander's resolution was killed.

Amendments on Ticket.

H. H. Dean, of Hall, who held the proxy of Howard Thompson, moved that the constitutional amendment providing for a state court of appeals, be declared a party measure, and that only the provision "for" such amendment be printed on the democratic ticket.

Mr. Morris, of Cobb, and others, declared that such action would be unfair to a large number of democrats who opposed this and other constitutional amendments, and that they should be given a chance to vote on either side of the question.

The committee then adopted Mr. Morris' substitute providing that the democratic ticket shall contain both sides of each constitutional amendment, or both "for" and "against" the amendments.

No Proxies Hereafter.

Several proxies were presented at the meeting, and those holding them were allowed to participate in the deliberations. But just before the close of the meeting a resolution by Mr. Alexander was adopted, providing that hereafter no proxies will be accepted at meetings of the committee. The resolution provided that not only must the members attend in person, but if any member is absent from two consecutive meetings without good excuse, his resignation is considered offered.

Henry Greene, of Chatham, presented a lengthy petition asking the state committee to take up the contest for solicitor general of the Atlantic circuit, in behalf of Livingston Kenan, who claims that N. J. Norman was not legally nominated. This question was settled by the state convention at Macon in favor of Mr. Norman, and after a lengthy discussion of the petition presented by Mr. Greene, the committee decided by unanimous vote that it had no jurisdiction to deal with the matter.

HAZING CAUSES DISMISSAL.

gia. That on the 3d day of October, 1906, a primary election be held by the democratic party of the state for the nomination of three judges for the proposed court of appeals. The qualification of voters shall be that defined in the platform of the party as fixed by the recent convention at Macon.

"Be it further resolved, That the subcommittee of five hereunder appointed shall confer with the several democratic county executive committees to the end that the election managers who shall at the various precincts in the state hold the election for the ratification or the rejectio nof the proposed amendment to the constitution, creating the court of appeals, shall at the same time and in a different box, hold a primary election for the three judges of the court of appeals.

Declaration of Result.

"The places and hours for holding such primary election shall be the same as those fixed for general elections. At the close of the election the managers shall proceed publicly to count the votes for said judges and declare the results.

"They shall certify the result of said election and transmit the following day such certificate with the tally sheet or poll list together with the ballots cast and all other papers relating to such primary elections to the democratic executive committee of the county, which shall meet at noon the day after the election in the court house to consolidate and declare the returns.

"The chairman of the county democratic committe eshall then forthwith certify and transmit the said consilidated vote of the county to the secretary of the state executive committee, who, with the state chairman, shall count and consolidate the votes of the several counties of the state and declare the result not later than —— days after said election.

"If in any instances, the regular election managers will not agree to serve, then the subcommittees hereunder appointed shall on the said day through the committee hold the election with managers of its own selection in such precincts in which the regular election managers will not serve.

Plurality Rule to Govern.

"Be it further resolved, That at said primary election the three candidates receiving the highest number of votes shall be declared the nominees of the democratic party for such positions, as judge of the court o fappeals. We depart from the majority rule in this instance only because of the short time elapsing between the primary and election and the great expense and inconvenience to the voters of holding a seperate primary for judges of the court of appeals alone, disconnected with any other election.

No "Single Shotting."

"Be it further resolved, That the tickets to be voted at said election shall contain

Student Dropped by University of Alabama.

Tuscaloosa, Ala., September 12.—(Special.)—A firm stand has been taken by the university faculty on the question of hazing, and the determination to stamp out the so-called evil is most pronounced. A member of the sophomore class was this morning dismissed on his own admission of this offense, and according to President Abercrombie the same punishment will be meted out to all others who are found guilty of hazing the new students.

Rev. M. A. Jenkins Is Called.

Dublin, Ga., September 12.—(Special.)—The Baptists of this city are afraid that they will lose their pastor, Rev. M. A. Jenkins, he having been called to the pastorate of the First Baptist church of Hopkinsville, Ky. He is now at Asheville, N. C., taking his vacation, and it is not known whether or not he is seriously considering accepting the call. Mr. Jenkins is greatly beloved by the members of his flock and by the people of the city generally, and it is the universal wish of all that he will decline the call.

Savannah, Ga., September 12.—(Special.)—The second largest merchant vessel that has ever visited this port to receive a cargo is the German-American steamship Hanover, which has just arrived with a cargo of kainit, part of which is to be discharged here and the rest at Charleston. The ship is 427 feet long and drew 26 1-2 feet when she entered this port. She has accommodations for passengers, unlike the Mississippi, which was the largest vessel ever to visit Savannah.

PRIMARY FOR NEW JUDGES TO BE CALLED OCTOBER 3

State Committee, It Is Said, Will Take That Action Wednesday—Meeting of Candidates Held, But No Action Taken—State Capitol Gossip.

THE new state democratic executive committee will meet at the Piedmont hotel, in Atlanta, next Wednesday at noon, under call issued by Chairman A. L. Miller, of Macon, for the purpose of taking action regarding the nomination of candidates for the state court of appeals.

There appears to be no doubt about the fact that the state committee will call a primary for nominaions for judges of the court of appeals to be held October 3, the same day as the regular state election. This was practically announced as a fact yesterday by parties who assert they are in a position to know something about what will be done.

It is stated the executive committee will make a request of the managers in the regular election to keep separate boxes for this primary, and the expense, which under these circumstances will be small, will doubtless be borne by the candidates.

The amendment creating the state court of appeals will, it is expected, be ratified in the general election on the same day. Then the nominees for judges of the court of appeals will be regularly elected at the election for congressmen, which will take place early in November.

Candidates Take No Action.

Fourteen of the twenty-five or more candidates for judgeships on the state court of appeals met in the library of the state supreme court yesterday, in response to call, and, after variously discussing the matter for about an hour, adjourned without taking any action.

It was, as one of those present remarked, a unique meeting. Seldom have opposing candidates for an office met in convention to determine upon some agreeable and harmonious course of action, for that was considered to be the object of the meeting, both as to the proposed constitutional amendment and as to the method of nominating candidates.

The views of those present were found to be somewhat conflicting and after day will be payable on the next business day.

To Elect New Colonel.

The officers of the Third infantry regiment will elect a new colonel and two new majors at an election to be held tomorrow night in Augusta, the headquarters of the regiment. Captain John D. Twiggs will be chosen colonel of the regiment, but the names of the two new majors who will be elected at that time have not yet been made public. The new officers were nominated for these positions by Colonel W. G. Obear, inspector general of state troops, who has had charge of the reorganization of the regiment.

Mark Johnston Thanks Friends.

Hon. Mark Johnston, in the following card, thanks those who supported him in the recent state primary:

"Editor Constitution: Adequate words fail when I would express my appreciation, my gratitude, to the 69,961 democrats who supported me in the late primary. To know that practically 70,000 men, citizens of my native state, the biggest half of whom know me personally, are still blind to my faults overwhelms me, and all that I can say will ever appear to me but a feeble response to their kindness.

"Two defeats are inclined to cause one to be skeptical as to one's chances for success; an unhappy state of affairs, truly, and at a critical point in my political life, when above all else I need tranquillity. However, the matter may be amicably arranged, I may meet with success; I may be happy yet two years hence, and happily this is my belief, this is my judgment, as my vote of 1906 is neraly double that of 1902. But the looking back over it all is frightful and so irremediable: I feel as if I had traveled over miles and miles of desert earth.

"Now that the days have scattered the cobwebs which for a time obstructed my clear perceptions, I am stupefied at the enigmatic inscrutable dexterity so adroitly and secretly employed in trimming my sails by these modern political geniuses, the gentlemen of the great New England book trust. But I will not cavil. I will adjourned without taking any action.

It was, as one of those present remarked, a unique meeting. Seldom have opposing candidates for an office met in convention to determine upon some agreeable and harmonious course of action, for that was considered to be the object of the meeting, both as to the proposed constitutional amendment and as to the method of nominating candidates.

The views of those present were found to be somewhat conflicting, and, after several propositions had been made and rejected, it was finally decided, upon motion of Ben Hill, to adjourn, thus leaving the matter exactly where it stood before the meetings, so far as the candidates are concerned.

There was one thing upon which the candidates present were unanimous, and that was that the constitutional amendment providing for the new court should be ratified. Individually, each of those present pledged his support to the amendment, and stated he would do all possible to influence friends and acquaintances to vote for it.

Judge A. L. Miller, of Macon, chairman of the state democratic executive committee, though invited, was not present at the meeting. He sent the following letter, which explains itself:

"Macon, Ga., September 7, 1906.—Logan Bleckley, Esq., Atlanta, Ga. My Dear Bleckley: Your letter of the 5th only reached me this morning, on account of my absence at Tom Felder's convention yesterday morning, and my spending the evening in Atlanta. In reply, I beg to say that I cannot be in Atlanta tomorrow as requested, to attend the proposed meeting of candidates for the court of appeals.

"Let me say, however, that if the gentlemen who meet together on that occasion desire to make any suggestions to the state committee, and will reduce the same to writing, it will give me great pleasure to present the same to the committee upon its assembling next Wednesday in Atlanta. With sincere regards, I am, faithfully yours,

This letter was read at the meeting, but no action being taken, the whole matter is left to the state committee to do with it as it sees fit.

Following are those who were present at the meeting: Ben H. Hill, Atlanta; Judge A. G. Powell, Blakely; Judge D. M. Roberts, Eastman; B. S. Willingham, Forsyth; Judge P. P. Proffitt, Elberton; Judge W. R. Hammond, Atlanta; Thomas F. Green, Athens; Judge C. J. Janes, Cedartown; T. J. Chappell, Columbus; Frank Harwell, LaGrange; E. P. Davis, Warrenton; H. C. Peeples, Atlanta; Judge M. S. Henry, Rome, and Judge Fred C. Foster, Madison.

The Gordon Monument.

Upon the return of Governor Terrell from New York it has been decided to call a meeting of the John B. Gordon Manument Association for the purpose of taking active steps to complete the work of erecting an equestrian statue of G-neraly double that of 1902. But the looking back over it all is frightful and so irremediable: I feel as if I had traveled over miles and miles of desert earth.

"Now that the days have scattered the cobwebs which for a time obstructed my clear perceptions, I am stupefied at the enigmatic inscrutable dexterity so adroitly and secretly employed in trimming my sails by these modern political geniuses, the gentlemen of the great New England book trust. But I will not cavil, I will not wail. Rebellion on my part shall not enter here, although the gentlemen of the great trust set their nefarious plans to defeat me, secretly, in the dark places as preying vultures, unworthy of the light, build their obscure nests in deep, dusky caverns; yet I will not revolt.

"To be a party to any disturbance, to jeopardize the present tranquillity would be a crime; but for the 70,000 friends who supported me, the wise 70,000, my heart will never fail to pulse sympathetically.

MARK JOHNSTON.

"Atlanta, Ga., September 8, 1906."

Railroad Commission.

The state railroad commission will hold its next regular meeting on Wednesday next, September 12. At that time, so far as is now known, the only questions of interest to be considered are the rates on marble from the north Georgia quarries, and the complaint of the people of Boston, Ga., who have asked for lower freight rates, claiming the right to the rates given Quitman and points similarly situated. While none of the commissioners have said anything about it, it is pretty well settled that none of them will comply with the request of the recent state convention that they tender their resignations.

Weaver Declines.

J. Calvin Weaver, of Thomaston, has written the adjutant general's office declining to accept the position of second assistant surgeon of the Second infantry regiment on account of a lack of time to devote to its duties. No appointment has yet been made to fill the vacancy.

New Company in Georgia.

The Dixie Fire Insurance Company, of Greensboro, N. C., a new company in the field, has entered Georgia for the purpose of doing business in the state. This company, in accordance with law, today deposited $10,000 in bonds as a guarantee fund with State Treasurer R. E. Park.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Moore Memorial Chapel.

Editor Constitution: It was my privilege to be present last Wednesday as an invited guest at the dedication of the Moore Memorial chapel at the Methodist Orphans' home in Decatur.

While I have been a very frequent visitor and a friend to the home since ls adherence to government ownership as a political issue, Mr. Bryan simply stated his individual opinion, adding: "I do not know that the country is ready for this change; I do not know that a majority of my own party have ." Then he gave his own views rather briefly, in favor of government ownership, taking occasion to refer to conditions in Germany where there is a system of state ownership such as he regards preferable to a comprehensive system of federal ownership, with all its centralization possibilities.

It is well to bear these things in mind, especially in view of the St. Louis dispatches which make it appear that Mr. Bryan has "weakened" from his New York position on railroad ownership, and that he has done this "out of deference to the south."

As we see it, there is no back down or weakening on Mr. Bryan's part. He did not declare himself for immediate government ownership when he made that New York speech; he said nothing that would indicate a purpose or desire on his part to make government ownership the paramount issue in 1908. Others have endeavored to put him in the attitude of doing that, but Mr. Bryan's own words do not do so. He then said that unless the regulation of railroads by the federal and state governments proves effective, the country will probably come to government ownership, and he says the same thing now.

Mr. Bryan's prophecy in this regard is certainly entitled to respect. He is not the first man who has made such a prophecy nor is he likely to the last. No matter on which side of the railroad ownership issue one may be, it is easy to conceive the possibility of conditions under which a majority of the American people would declare for government ownership.

As for the suggestion that Mr. Bryan has "weakened in deference to the attitude of the south"—that seems to be simply the conclusion to which one enterprising newspaper reporter has jumped. That reporter has probably been reading the learned dissertations of northern editors on southern sentiment—something about which the wisest of them will acknowledge they know little.

These editors have said the south is strongly against government ownership , therefore, strongly against Mr. Bryan's supposed views. As a matter of fact, there has been very little agitation of the railroad ownership question at the south. The populist party favored government ownership of all railroads, and populist leaders like Mr. Watson have endeavored to keep the fires alive. But most and in good river and harbor improvements. No one expects that the possibilities of Georgia's waterways will be developed overnight. Complete results can only be attained by gradual, harmonious and unremitting endeavor.

The Court of Appeals.

Under the decision of the state executive committee, at its meeting yesterday, the three judges to comprise the new court of appeals will be selected at a special primary to be held at the time of the regular state election, October 3d. Provision is made for separate boxes at the regular polling places, but the election officers will also preside over the primary contest, unless in some special instance this should be found impracticable.

However, such instances are not anticipated, nor is there any reason for clash of any kind. It will be a comparatively simple matter to hold the primary in the manner and at the time indicated, and the plan adopted by the state committee will, we believe, meet the approval of all the candidates as well as the voters.

If not being found practicable at this time to put into effect the majority nomination plan outlined by the recent convention, the old plan of nomination by a plurality vote will hold in this judgeship primary. Three judges are to be chosen; the three men receiving the greatest number of votes will be declared the nominees, to be formally elected in November.

With a view to preventing "single-shotting" of favorites, the rules of the committee call for the throwing out of every ballot which does not bear the names of three candidates. In other words, every man who casts a ballot in the primary must vote for three of the candidates; he should vote for the three whom he regards best qualified for the office, and most voters will do this.

The constitutional amendment providing for the creation of the new court will doubtless be ratified by the voters. Out of the rather long array of able lawyers who are candidates, there will be no difficulty in selecting three who will honor the bench and will start the new court on a life of usefulness.

A Mistake in Names.

In its issue of September 8 The Constitution published a local news item concerning the attempted suicide of a man who had been placed under arrest the day before by Patrolman Mashburn.

The information given by the arresting officer led to the statement that Junior Order of American Mechanics Elect Officers.

Augusta, Ga., September 12. (Special.) The thirteenth annual convention of the Junior Order of United American Mechanics closed here this afternoon, after electing officers and choosing Barnesville as the meeting place next year.

The chief business of public interest transacted was the unanimous adoption of a resolution opposing immigration. The federal government was memorialized and called upon to take action against the importation of foreigners to our shores. It was declared inexpeident that we should open our gates to "outcasts of the old world, in most cases vagabonds and the scrapings from among lawless peoples." The resolution opposes the bill which is to be introduced into the next Georgia legislature. Each legislator is to be presented with a copy of the resolutions and the state councillor is to appoint a committee of seven to appear before the legislature in opposit the bill.

PRIMARY FOR JUDGES CALLED FOR OCTOBER 3

No Single-Shotting Allowed and Candidates Must Tell What They Spend.

STATE COMMITTEE NAMES C. H. HALL, JR. SECRETARY

Committee Pronounced Against Use of Money in Elections—Will Not Accept Proxies at Future Meetings—Absent Members Must Explain.

A primary election for the nomination of three judges of the new court of appeals will be held on October 3, along with the regular election for statehouse officials, in which primary no "single shotting" of candidates will be allowed, and as a result of which no candidate can be declared the nominee of the democratic party until he has first filed with the chairman of the state executive committee an affidavit showing in detail his expenses in making the race and where he got the money.

Such, in brief, was the action of the state democratic executive committee at its meeting held in the convention hall of the Piedmont hotel yesterday at noon.

The resolution providing for the primary was introduced by Reuben Arnold, of Atlanta, one of the committeemen at large, and was finally adopted as amended, after considerable discussion.

Committee Is Organized.

More than three fourths of the new state executive committee were present the names of all candidates for said three offices, and no ticket shall be counted by the managers of the election if either more or less than three candidates are voted for, the intention of this resolution being to prevent single-shotting of candidates.

"Be it further resolved, That each candidate whose name shall be placed upon the ticket shall make such deposit and comply with such requirements as the subcommittee to which the matter of arranging the details of said election is left shall require.

"Be it further resolved, That the ticket to be voted at said election shall contain the names of all the candidates who have entered their names with the subcommittee to be appointed by the chair, and that the voters shall strike from it the names of every candidate except the three intended to be voted for.

"Be it further resolved, That the chair appoint a committee of five to arrange all details of said election not covered by this resolution, and arrange for the assessment upon the candidates to pay the expenses of said election, of which committee the chairman of this committee shall be ex-officio chairman.

Must Tell What They Spend.

"Be it further resolved, That no candidate shall be declared to be the nominee of the party at this election until he files with the chairman of this committee an affidavit setting forth a detailed statement of the amount of money expended in his race, from what source the money came, and in detail how it was expended.

Against Use of Money.

The following resolution by N. A. Morris, of Cobb, was unanimously adopted without discussion:

"We hereby declare our purpose to faithfully enforce the provisions of the platform adopted by our democratic state convention on September 4, prohibiting the use of money or other thing of value to employ workers at the polls, or in advance of the election, as well as the buying or selling of votes.

"And it is furthermore directed that no man shall be eligible to be declared the nominee of the democratic party in Georgia for any office where it is made to appear that in connection with his candidacy, he has violated the provisions hereinbefore set forth."

Letters from two of the candidates, Judge Howard Van Epps, of Atlanta, and Judge P. P. Proffitt, of Elberton, making suggestions as to the manner of conducting the primary, were read for the information of the committee.

Committee to Send Out Form.

More than three fourths of the new state executive committee were present at this, the first meeting. In addition to this the appearance of about fifteen out of the twenty candidates for judgeships on the new court of appeals, and candidates for other offices, created a lively scene in the lobby of the hotel, just before the meeting.

Hon. Hoke Smith met and mingled among the members of the committee, but did not attend the meeting.

The committee was called to order at noon by Judge A. L. Miller, of Macon, chairman.

Hall Permanent Secretary.

H. H. Cabaniss, of Atlanta, was, on motion of Hooper Alexander, selected as secretary. But later just before the meeting adjourned Mr. Cabaniss resigned the position as secretary, and Charles H. Hall, Jr., of Macon, law partner of Congressman Bartlett, was elected permanently to that position.

There was a good quorum of the committee present and it soon got down to business.

Reuben Arnold, of Atlanta, introduced the resolution providing for the primary for judges of the new court of appeals on October 3, and providing for the appointment of a subcommittee of five to arrange for the details of this primary.

Sid Holderness, of Carroll, and R. L. Greer, of Macon county, objected to holding the primary on the same day on which the amendment is to be submitted to the people for ratification, on the ground that such action would have a tendency to defeat the amendment.

This objection was overruled by other members on the ground that this is the only time at which it can be expeditiously and satisfactorily done, and especially because of the great expense, something like $20,000, attached to holding a primary in Georgia.

Boykin Wright, of Richmond, offered an amendment, which was accepted, providing the machinery for making the returns of the primary and declaring the result.

After further brief discussion the primary resolution was then adopted by practically unanimous vote.

The Primary Resolution.

The Arnold resolution providing for the court of appeals primary, complete as amended, is as follows:

"Be it resolved by the democratic executive committee of the state of Georgia, That on the 3d day of October, 1906, a primary election be held by the democratic party of the state for the nomination of three judges for the proposed court of appeals. The qualification of voters shall be that defined in the platform of the party as fixed by the recent convention at Macon.

"Be it further resolved, That the subcommittee of five hereunder appointed shall confer with the several democratic [illegible] conducting the primary, were read for the information of the committee.

Committee to Send Out Form.

After some discussion started by Hooper Alexander, of DeKalb, as to the source of the funds to pay for the printing of the democratic ticket to be used in the regular election, Chairman Miller stated that the committee would simply send out a form of democratic ticket to the chairman of each county committee and that all tickets to be used in the regular election in each county would be furnished as heretofore by the candidates for local offices.

Mr. Alexander also offered a resolution condemning the practice of assessing candidates for state house offices by county committees, and providing that such assessments should be prohibited. After brief discussion, in which it was shown that assessments were only made for primaries, and were usually ignored by the candidates, Mr. Alexander's resolution was killed.

Amendments on Ticket.

H. H. Dean, of Hall, who held the proxy of Howard Thompson, moved that the constitutional amendment providing for a state court of appeals, be declared a party measure, and that only the provision "for" such amendment be printed on the democratic ticket.

Mr. Morris, of Cobb, and others, declared that such action would be unfair to a large number of democrats who opposed this and other constitutional amendments, and that they should be given a chance to vote on either side of the question.

The committee then adopted Mr. Morris' substitute providing that the democratic ticket shall contain both sides of each constitutional amendment, or both "for" and "against" the amendments.

No Proxies Hereafter.

Several proxies were presented at the meeting, and those holding them were allowed to participate in the deliberations. But just before the close of the meeting a resolution by Mr. Alexander was adopted, providing that hereafter no proxies will be accepted at meetings of the committee. The resolution provided that not only must the members attend in person, but if any member is absent from two consecutive meetings without good excuse, his resignation is considered offered.

Henry Greene, of Chatham, presented a lengthy petition asking the state committee to take up the contest for solicitor general of the Atlantic circuit, in behalf of Livingston Kenan, who claims that N. J. Norman was not legally nominated. This question was settled by the state convention at Macon in favor of Mr. Norman, and after a lengthy discussion of the petition presented by Mr. Greene, the committee decided by unanimous vote that it had no jurisdiction to deal with the matter.

HAZING CAUSES DISMISSAL.

gia. That on the 3d day of October, 1906, a primary election be held by the democratic party of the state for the nomination of three judges for the proposed court of appeals. The qualification of voters shall be that defined in the platform of the party as fixed by the recent convention at Macon.

"Be it further resolved. That the subcommittee of five hereunder appointed shall confer with the several democratic county executive committees to the end that the election managers who shall at the various precincts in the state hold the election for the ratification or the rejectio nof the proposed amendment to the constitution, creating the court of appeals, shall at the same time and in a different box, hold a primary election for the three judges of the court of appeals.

Declaration of Result.

"The places and hours for holding such primary election shall be the same as those fixed for general elections. At the close of the election the managers shall proceed publicly to count the votes for said judges and declare the results.

"They shall certify the result of said election and transmit the following day such certificate with the tally sheet or poll list together with the ballots cast and all other papers relating to such primary elections to the democratic executive committee of the county, which shall meet at noon the day after the election in the court house to consolidate and declare the returns.

"The chairman of the county democratic committe eshall then forthwith certify and transmit the said consilidated vote of the county to the secretary of the state executive committee, who, with the state chairman, shall count and consolidate the votes of the several counties of the state and declare the result not later than —— days after said election.

"If in any instances, the regular election managers will not agree to serve, then the subcommittees hereunder appointed shall on the said day through the committee hold the election with managers of its own selection in such precincts in which the regular election managers will not serve.

Plurality Rule to Govern.

"Be it further resolved, That at said primary election the three candidates receiving the highest number of votes shall be declared the nominees of the democratic party for such positions, as judge of the court o fappeals. We depart from the majority rule in this instance only because of the short time elapsing between the primary and election, and the great expense and inconvenience to the voters of holding a separate primary for judges of the court of appeals alone; disconnected with any other election.

No "Single-Shotting."

"Be it further resolved, That the tickets to be voted at said election shall contain

Student Dropped by University of Alabama.

Tuscaloosa, Ala., September 12.—(Special.)—A firm stand has been taken by the university faculty on the question of hazing, and the determination to stamp out the so-called evil is most pronounced. A member of the sophomore class was this morning dismissed on his own admission of this offense, and according to President Abercrombie the same punishment will be meted out to all others who are found guilty of hazing the new students.

Rev. M. A. Jenkins Is Called.

Dublin, Ga., September 12.—(Special.)—The Baptists of this city are afraid that they will lose their pastor, Rev. M. A. Jenkins, he having been called to the pastorate of the First Baptist church of Hopkinsville, Ky. He is now at Asheville, N. C., taking his vacation, and it is not known whether or not he is seriously considering accepting the call. Mr. Jenkins is greatly beloved by the members of his flock and by the people of the city generally, and it is the universal wish of all that he will decline the call.

Steamship Hanover at Savannah.

Savannah, Ga., September 12.—(Special.)—The second largest merchant vessel that has ever visited this port to receive a cargo is the German-American steamship Hanover, which has just arrived with a cargo of kainit, part of which is to be discharged here and the rest at Charleston. The ship is 427 feet long and drew 26 1-2 feet when she entered this port. She has accommodations for passengers, unlike the Mississippi, which was the largest vessel ever to visit Savannah.

Forming Alumni Clubs.

Athens, Ga., September 12.—(Special.)—A movement has been started for the organization of alumni clubs among the graduates of this department throughout the state and it is the intention of the department to bring them into permanent and highly beneficial organizations. Tomorrow in this city the local graduates of the law school will meet and perfect the organization of the first club in the system that is to be perfected throughout the state.

ar the discussion of the question in the recent campaign was but passing phase of politics—one to be forgotten with the end of the mpaign: and, what is of graver import, there are evidences of effort in some quarters to make it appear that the port rate, as ret e presented to the commission, was in the interest of At- nta against the interests of other cities and towns of the state.

This adverse sentiment is of the kind that feeds on veiled re- rt and sinister suggestion. Inaction on the part of the friends the port rate is likely to be taken by critics as evidence of lack interest or as acknowledgment of the truth of their criticism. ot only, therefore, is there nothing to be gained by delay, but ery day's delay militates seriously against the port rate ever ing granted.

It is for these reasons that The Constitution believes we ould have the port rate NOW.

The Campaign of 1906.

he Southern League campaign of 6 has, all in all, been a splendid cess. Seven of the eight teams t started in, fired with the cer- ty of gathering to themselves the mpionship flag have had their es shattered, but even the "fans" philosophers enough to take it in good grace. Nothing short of e scheme by which there may be t leaders and eight championship s would satisfy the early season ectations of those wise in baseball fortunately for the great lon ame no such scheme has yet been invented.

he fact is the greatest charm about eball is that uncertainty which is chief characteristic. The fate of ame turns on the unexpected hit he poorest batter, the inexplicable bble" of the star fielder, the tching victory from defeat by some k-witted play never before seen the diamond. And so it is with fate of the clubs striving for the mpionship. The lov- of the game have no complaint. course Atlanta would have liked eedingly well to pull down that nant, but it was not in the cards s year. With practically the same pride in our navy, but let us also realize that we are "mighty poor Americans" if we do not also feel that the army and navy are only minor parts of our national equipment—that our greatness rests upon the character, industry and efficiency of our people in civil life; that neither army nor navy can shape the character of the nation or prevent degeneracy. The best and most discriminating American patriotism will seek to continue the greatness of the American people not so much by warships as by the cultivation of the highest civic virtues and by the development of the best type of manhood.

Patriotism is as essential a quality in times of peace as in war—indeed, it is sometimes seen in its most valuable and sensible manifestation when it undergoes strains and exerts its ingenuity to keep the horizon clear of hostile clouds and to suppress the element, present in every country, which is ever on the pugnacious alert for a chance to "mix it up" with some other nation.

It is patriotism that causes us to labor and maneuver that our educational systems shall be excelled by those of no other land; it is patriotism that has demanded from men in public stations a full measure of fidelity to trust and sincerity to conviction; it is patriotism, no less than self-interest, that sets to work the cunning and the energy of the true developer—the man who opens up idle lands, who sets spinning the wheels of new factories and who, as the modern blazer of trails, dares to tread strange and unfamiliar paths, if thereby the prestige and the wealth of his state and country may be advanced a degree.

In the last analysis, it is patriotism that is the keynote of the American character. It is that quality in the national temperament which will ever keep it sane and wholesome, acting as an immovable barrier between political charlatanry and moral obliquity and standing as a stone wall against the entire nation ever going radically wrong for any fatal period of time.

amount of misbelief to emanate from these isolated exceptions. Not one of them should be, for an hour after its discovery or for any conceivable reason, tolerated.

Council and the sanitary department are under serious obligations to the people of Atlanta in this regard. The consumers expect that their interests will be scrupulously safeguarded, and they stand ready to confirm whatever steps may be deemed advisable to insure such security.

The matter is one of too serious a nature to admit of paltering or postponement. The time for EFFECTUAL action is in the IMMEDIATE present.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Judge Ray Not a Candidate.

Editor Constitution—Please permit me to thank my numerous supporters for a place on the court of appeals, should the amendment be ratified, in your valuable paper. Since the race is to be made for the position before there is such an office I withdraw, as I cannot conceive of running for an office that does not and may not exist. I think the office should seek the officer at all times.

I am in favor of the amendment establishing the court of appeals; but think the chance for its passage has been materially injured by having the nomination for judges take place the same day of the election for ratification.

I am very thankful for the many friends in every section of the state that voluntarily offered me their support and shall gratefully remember them. Had the nomination been subsequent to the ratification, I would have cheerfully remained in the race, as a great number of citizens from every county in the state (except three) are asking me to make the race.

Regretting that my ideas are such that I cannot consistently make this race under the circumstances and trusting that my many friends who have been so active in my intrest will view the situation as I do, I remain

Thankfully yours,

The Law of Suggestion.

Editor Constitution: The very interesting story in today's Constitution from Washington, Ga., is not so mysterious as your correspondent would have your readers believe. The "divine healer" uses force that is universal and can be utilized by any one who understands or accidentally stumbles upon and unconsciously utilizes the "law of suggestion."

JONES' MEETINGS ATTRACT CROWDS

For Plastering Bill Beards With Advertisements, Liquor Firm Is Scored.

Cartersville, Ga., September 18.—(Special.)—The Sam Jones meetings at the tabernacle are now in full blast and there is every indication that they will be more largely attended and more interesting than any that have ever been held since the tabernacle was built.

The trains coming in in the forenoon on the Seaboard and the Western and Atlantic were extra long ones and were loaded down with people. The southbound train on the latter road consisted of eleven coaches and there was an extra run from Atlanta. Sam Jones preached yesterday morning from the text "Man Cannot Live by Bread Alone," etc. It was a masterly effort and hit at the sinners promiscuously. An Atlanta liquor firm which had plastered the local bill boards with flaming advertisements came in for a scoring that was truly red-hot. Last night Rev. Walter Holcomb, a young preacher who has demonstrated exceptional powers as an evangelist, preached on the sin of David. His discourse was pronounced one of the best heard here in many a day.

The music has been especially fine. Professor E. O. Excell, of Chicago, and Professor Collisum have led the choir, which is a large one, Mrs. Pyron presides at one of the pianos and Mrs. Norton at the other, while Rev. French Oliver, when he is not preaching, presides at the organ.

If the weather continues pretty it will be no surprise to people who are well acquainted with the history of these meetings if a crowd numbering from 15,000 to 25,000 attend the services next Sunday.

RUSSEL TO RUN FOR JUDGESHIP

His Assessment Paid Without His Knowledge or Consent.

Judge Richard B. Russell has been made a candidate for one of the judgeships on the new state court of appeals without his knowledge or consent.

In other words Judge Russell's friends have put him to the race, and it was stated yesterday by Walter R. Brown, who was Judge Russell's close friend and adviser in his recent race for governor, that Judge Russell would not know that he is a candidate until he sees the announcement in today's papers.

Nevertheless, his assessment of $100 was paid yesterday to Chairman A. L. Miller, of the state executive committee, and his name will appear as a candidate on the democratic ticket to be voted in the primary of October 3.

Judge Russell, it is said, has received letters from all parts of the state urging him to make the race, but he decided to keep out of it.

Mr. Brown has also received letters from many pas of Georgia suggesting that he urge Judge Russell to enter the race for the court of appeals, and stating that because of Judge Russell's well-known ability many voters whose ballots were cast for other candidates for governor would be glad to give him their support for this position.

Judge Russell is one of the best known men in the state, and there is no doubt about the fact that he will make a strong race.

Congressman From Ninth Sends Formal Letter of Acceptance.

Gainesville, Ga., September 18.—(Special.)—Congressman Thomas M. Bell has given out the following letter of notification and acceptance:

"ainesville, Ga., August 30, 1906.—Hon. Thomas M. Bell, Gainesville, Ga.—Dear Sir: It is our pleasant duty to notify you that you were duly nominated by acclamation as the democratic candidate for congress from the ninth congressional district of Georgia to the sixtieth congress, at the congressional convention held this day at Gainesville, Ga.

"We sincerely trust that you will accept this honor at the hands of the people of the ninth district, whom we represent in thus notifying you of your nomination.

"We desire to express our sincere appreciation of your services since you have been in congress, and we most heartily commend you for same. We feel that no district in Georgia has a better representative, and it is a genuine pleasure for us to know that the interests of the people are in safe hands while you hold the commission from them that you do.

"We feel further that you are in better position to serve us now than you were when first nominated, for the reason that experience is very valuable to all—and we know that you have made the most of it since you have represented us at Washington.

"In this connection we feel that you need special commendation for securing for the ninth district the first appropriation for a government building ever made to this district, and this, too, during your first term. Also we wish to commend you for what you are doing in interesting the proper authorities of our federal government in the development of our agricultural interests, and in securing for many of our most worthy citizens many private pensions. All these things only go to convince us more and more that we have made no mistake in selecting you to represent the ninth district in the national halls of congress.

SIXTEEN OUT FOR APPELLATE COURT

Judge, Reid In a Communication, Declines to Enter the Race.

Palmetto, Ga., September 18.—(Special.) At the last moment the name of Judge Richard Russell was added to the list of candidates for the appellate court tonight, and the list, as completed at 6 o'clock, contains sixteen names. Those have paid the required fee to Judge A. L. Miller are as follows: Thomas J Chappell, Frederick C. Foster, Thomas F. Green, W. R. Hammond, Frank Harwell, W. M. Henry, Benjamin H Hill, Charles G. Jones, George S. Jones, H. C Peebles, A. G. Howell, P. P. Pruitt, D. M. Roberts, Richard B. Russell, Howard Van Epps, Barlow S. Willingham. The matter of getting the election held properly has required unusually hard work, the exercise of patriotism more than services for pay does not prove attractive to election managers, who must serve without the usual fees. Middle Georgia will put up a solid front for George Jones, and Judge Russell's announcement, while creating talk, has not made any changes.

Judge Reid Out of Race.

Editor Constitution: I desire to state through your columns that I have concluded, after careful consideration, not to enter the race for one of the judgships of the proposed court of appeals.

And I desire also thus publicly to acknowledge my obligation and to express my gratitude to that large number of friends from all sections of the state who have assured me of their support. Such loyal and generous friendship excites my most sincere feelings of appreciation. Respectfully, C. S. REID.

rief Sketch of Life.

He had the happy faculty of interweaving fancy with fact and his speeches were always oratorical gems.

"He took the law course after graduating and left the university the following year with a legal 'dip.' He cast about him for a location and selected Atlanta.

"He came here young and fresh from school, to practice law and win fame and fortune. Like hundreds of other brilliant and worthy young men, he did not immediately succeed. Clients did not rush over him in their eagerness to retain him and for a long time he found it an uphill struggle. No one who has not endured it can imagine the bitterness of the beginning when a young man leaves college with exceptional honors to win his way in a profession already overcrowded with no success. The waiting for clients, the longing for an opportunity to prove himself worthy, the struggle to keep up, and to keep up appearances without any income—these things are known alone to those who have passed through them. And there are many now among the brightest lights at the bar and the most successful attorneys, who have experienced them. They know just how young Van Epps' Code Supplement, in which the laws of Georgia are codified, bringing the code of 1895 down through the century. He is now engaged in annotating the reprint edition of Georgia Reports, a work of great magnitude; 29 volumes of this work have already issued from the press. At the present time, Judge Van Epps is engaged in the preparation of an elementary treatise on "Banks and Banking," especially as applied to banks in this state, together with a full treatment of the law of notes, bills of exchange, bills of lading and collateral securities, with which banks are accustomed to deal. His life is extremely laborious. Mr. Robert Lee Avary, who shares an office with him, declares: "Judge Van Epps has more capacity and disposition for hard work than any man I ever saw; he is nothing less than an inspiration to others."

In 1896 he was elected president of the Atlanta board of education, but resigned after a few months in consequence of the demands of his legal practice. He was for many years the president of the board of trustees of the Southern Medical college, and upon the consolidation of that institution with the Atlanta Medical college int the new organization now known as the Atlanta College of Physicians and Surgeons, he was elected vice president. Upon the death of President N. J. Hammond, in 1893, Judge Van Epps was elected president of the board of trustees of the college, a position he now holds. He is also vice president of the American Bible Society, in New York, and of the American Sunday School Union, in Philadelphia. No man is more devoted to his profession, and while ever ready to do his duty as a citizen, political honors have no charms for him.

Judge Van Epps is one of the sixteen candidates for a place on the court of appeals, if the act creating that court is ratified by the people in October next. He says in reference to this subject:

"I have a simple creed as judge: I say of myself that I am absolutely without prejudice in reference to any individual or business interest in the state. Corporations, wealthy men, obscure and friendless men may be absolutely assured that I will be without any sort of feeling in the cases that may come before me, except to do right and enforce the law as I find it. Those who know me well will understand how solemn and sacred a statement this is. With a view to reaching, so far as finite intelligence may enable a man to do so, the real justice of the cause, I pledge myself to an attentive and patient hearing and consideration of the arguments and briefs of counsel whom clients have honored by their selection, and a decision rendered only after the most conscientious and thorough inquiry. ***

EX-CHIEF JUSTICE BLECKLEY'S OPINION ON JUDGE VAN EPPS' CANDIDACY

Clarkesville, Ga., August 21, 1906.—Hon. Howard Van Epps, Atlanta, Ga. Dear Sir: Your announced candidacy for a place on the bench of the new court of appeals induces me to say a few words in behalf of your election. Though I prefer to speak directly to you, I have no wish to put any seal of confidence on what I say. The time, mode and manner of publication are left to your own discretion.

Three facts operate upon my mind to make it upon public grounds wholly distinct from considerations of private friendship. The first is your broad, clear and vigorous judicial faculty. Your discernment of legal truth is apt, ready, strong and safe. By nature you have a large and liberal judicial endowment.

The second and third facts relate to the apt and ample cultivation which this natural basis for judicial functions has received to develop and expand it. For many years you presided over the city court of Atlanta, perhaps the richest city court of the state in point of range and variety of business; and to this experience you have added that of a maker of law books more extensive (I believe) than that of any other Georgian, living or dead. The analytical work done by you in indexing and annotating the Georgia Reports has been a rare and admirable training for judicial service in a court of review. This training may be expected to bear fruit, choice in quality and rich in abundance, should you be elected. That the people will have the enlightened self-interest to make you a member of the court, I sincerely trust.

I wish you the most complete success both in becoming a judge and in being a judge. Very truly yours,

LOGAN E. BLECKLEY.

OPINION OF EX-ASSOCIATE JUSTICE CANDLER.

August 22, 1906.—Judge Howard Van Epps, Atlanta, Ga. Dear Sir: I have just received your letter, announcing your candidacy for a place on the court of appeals, in the event of the amendment to the constitution, proposed by the general assembly, being approved by the people at the October election.

The need for this new court is so apparent to all thinking men, that I need not dilate upon it here. Not less urgent and important is the need that the men who compose it shall measure up to the full stature of judicial learning and ability. An acquaintance with you extending over thirty years, and an intimate knowledge of your professional and personal character, convince me that you are admirably qualified for high judicial office, and I earnestly hope that your fellow-citizens may see fit to elect you to a place on this court, if the same should be created.

JUDGE HOWARD VAN EPPS.

His Friends Say He Is a Certainty for the Court of Appeals—A Brief Sketch of His Life.

Robert Adamson, writing for this paper in 1895, used the following language:

"It is said of Judge Howard Van Epps that he has written that queer, unreadable signature of his to more judgments than any other Georgia judge has rendered.

"It is said of him that he has told more good stories and scattered more sunshine in the paths of his lucky companions than any three occupants of the Georgia bench combined. And it is also claimed that he has found time during this industrious official career to win more social popularity than any of his fellow judges enjoy. Furthermore, he has devoted himself to a lovely family with a beauty and tenderness calculated to revive faith in the reality of domestic bliss. In addition, he has acquired a broad, general culture, a knowledge of men and books, and has proved his right to wear the title of learned and dignified.

"Nor is this all; his popularity with the members of the bar is one of the finest tributes to his success. Nowhere is his fame more securely fixed than in the hearts and minds of the hard working attorneys who, almost daily, for ten years, have plead in his court. They like for him to preside when they have a case in court, and like to meet him in social life; they like to meet him around his own fireside.

"Altogether, his career in Atlanta has worn the hue of brilliancy, and the gradual steps by which he has gone into an enviable place in his profession have been marked by personal effort and individual merit. And the best point of it all, it seems to me, is that his success has been self-made and stands as a tangible illustration of what will and brains and pluck can do."

Judge Van Epps says he was born in Eufaula, Ala., some years ago, but that he had the happy faculty of interweaving fancy with fact and his speeches were always oratorical gems.

"He took the law course after graduating and left the university the following year with a legal 'dip.' He cast about him for a location and selected Atlanta.

"He came here young and fresh from school, to practice law and win fame and fortune. Like hundreds of other brilliant and worthy young men, he did not immediately succeed. Clients did not rush over him in their eagerness to retain him and for a long time he found it an uphill struggle. No one who has not endured it can imagine the bitterness of the beginning when a young man leaves college with exceptional honors to win his way in a profession and meets with no success. The waiting for clients; the longing for an opportunity to prove himself worthy, the struggle to keep up, and to keep up appearances without any income—these things are known alone to those who have passed through them. And there are many now among the brightest lights at the bar and the most successful attorneys, who have experienced them. They know just how young Van Epps felt. This was a time when Judge Van Epps was not as ruddy and robust as he is now. The strain of care, the worry, the doubt, the mental anxiety, took the color from his cheeks and almost the strength from his frame.

"One day he appeared in the city court to represent a client. Judge Cowart was presiding. It was a criminal case—not a big one—but enough to give scope to the eagerness and enthusiasm of the young attorney. He spoke with all the earnestness of his soul, feeling that not only the liberty of his client, but that to a great extent his own future hinged upon the effort he made. Judge Cowart saw something in the speech which the jury did not see and immediately appointed Van Epps the

JUDGE RUSSELL WILL CONSIDER

Has Not Finally Decided, but May Be Candidate for Appeals Court,

Judge R. B. Russell, of Winder, who recently made the race for governor, and whose friends have put him in the race for one of the judgeships on the state court of appeals without his knowledge or consent, came to Atlanta yesterday fully determined not to permit the use of his name, and had already prepared a card along that line.

He found, however, as has been stated that his assessment of $100 had already been paid by his friends, and that his name would appear on the democratic ticket for the primary of October 3.

Nothwithstanding this, it was with great difficulty that his friends persuaded him not to publish the card he had prepared, and upon their urgent solicitation he decided to take the matter under advisement. For the present, therefore, and until he shall make definite announcement as to his purpose, he gave the following interview to the press:

"I had stated to hundreds of partial friends," Judge Russell said, "who had asked me personallyand by letter to be a candidate for judge of the court of appeals, that I could not even consider the subject. I thought the matter was concluded so far as I was concerned, and was, therefore, surprised beyond measure when I heard that the necessary assessment of $100 had been paid by friends and my name thereby entered on the official democratic ballot as a candidate. This was done without my knowledge or consent, and I [illegible] of the position. It would honor me or any other citizen to faithfully fill the office of judge of the court of appeals, if the people should establish it.

"I appreciate more than words can express the hundreds of unsolicited assurances of support I have received, largely from those who supported my distinguished successful opponent for governor. But I am not prepared to say what I shall do. The recent death of my little boy makes it impossible for me to make any effort whatever to reach the voters, and my mind has been so completely on other things that I thought the time for paying the assessment had passed. I am in no sense a candidate, but in deference to my friends I shall take it under advisement and let the public know whether or not I shall allow my name used—if indeed I can prevent it.

"I should highly esteem the honor of an election, but I do not desire to embarrass anyone by my candidacy."

JUDGE MILLER FIXES BALLOT

Sixteen Candidates Out for Court of Appeals.

Three, and Only Three, Men Can Be Voted For, Eliminating All Single Votes—The Primary Will Occur With Regular Election.

Macon, Ga., September 20.—(Special.)—Judge A. L. Miller, chairman of the state democratic executive committee, announced the official form of the ballot to be used in the election for judges in the appellate court at the primary set for October 3 today, and from the instructions accompanying the form it will be seen that there can be no single-shot vote. Three men, and only three, must be voted for. If the ballot is to be counted at all, this instruction must be carried out.

The primary will be held along with the regular elections, but in separate ballot boxes. The expenses will thus be made less than if it were to be made an independent affair. The ballot form is as follows:

GRAVEYARD FIGHT AIRED IN COURT

Undertaker Committed to City Court for Assault Upon Doctor.

Growing Out of a Dispute Over the Design of a Vault at Rose Hill Cemetery, Undertaker Burghard Used Buggy Whip on Dr. Roland Hall.

Constitution Bureau, 467 Second Street, Macon, Ga., September 20.—(Special.)—The first statements from the principals involved in the fight Saturday at Rose Hill cemetery in which Undertaker L. H. Burghard used a buggy whip on Dr. Roland Hall, were made in police court this morning by the men themselves. They were long and involved old quarrels in which it was revealed that the two men had been out with each other for a long time. It wound up with a dismissal of the charges of fighting against both men and the undertaker was committed to the city court on his own recognizance under charge of assault and battery.

The accounts as given by both men revealed that Dr. Hall had termed Mr. Burghard a scoundrel and a meddler into his business affairs. This arose out of a request from Oscar Dooly for a better grade of brick in a valut which was being made for the transfer of a body. When the undertaker was informed as to the term which had been used by the city sexton, he went to the cemetery and meeting Dr. Hall at the gateway he demanded that Dr. Hall stop abusing him to his friends. It all occurred before the removal of the body was in progress and at a distance from the point of interment.

Here, after some words, the one said he was attacked while he was making an effort to avoid a difficulty and the other said he had hit no lick until he was forced to so. Dr. Hall was slightly injured, while Mr. Burghard came out with little damage.

At police court numbers of prominent people were witnesses and the whole morning session was taken up. The question of the quality of brick used in the grave was thoroughly thrashed out and the attorneys making the defenses were busy for a long time.

Smiths Convicted of Enslaving Black Who Was With Roosevelt.

Cape Girardeau, Mo., September 21.—The jury in the Smith case today returned a verdict of guilty against Charles M. Smith and Charles M. Smith, Jr., and the five tenants of their farms on the eleventh count in the peonage cases. The eleventh county of the forty-four indictments refers to John Reed, the negro who was with President Roosevelt in Cuba and escaped from the shack on the farm by saving his way through the floor at night. He was the strongest witness for the government. Sentence has not yet been passed. Judge Krum filed a motion for a new trial.

DENTAL SESSION IS CLOSED.

Work of the Convention Was Closed Yesterday at a Meeting of the Resolutions Committee.

The National Dental Association, through its committee on resolutions, completed the work of the convention yesterday by preparing resolutions of thanks to the various local committees, the press of the city and the hotels. J. F. Thorpe, of St. Louis, a member of that committee, being delegated to perfect the papers and transmit them to the points objective.

"I have been attending the conventions of the association every year since I became a member, immediately after my graduation, and with a single exception I feel safe in saying that the session just completed was the happiest, the most satisfactory and the most thoroughly complete of them all. The Buffalo meeting was a feature in the life of every one who went near the roaring, singing, ranging, sighing noise of Niagara Falls. The residents of that section exerted themselves in every possible manner to please the visitors. But, it may have been the genial, warm Indian summer sunshine down here—I shan't attempt to say what it was—anyhow, there was something that made our meeting just closed the equal in the minds of many of the Buffalo meeting. It will require some little time to perfect the resolutions, as the papers must, after they have been drawn, be sent from member to member for observation, changes and signatures.

"There were but three of us present this morning, but the gist of the papers was practically agreed upon."

CHAPPELL GETS MANY LETTERS

Friends Assure Him of Their Support in His Candidacy.

Columbus, Ga., September 21.—(Special.)—Judge Thomas J. Chappell, the Columbus candidate for the judgeship of the proposed court of appeals, is receiving assurance of support from his friends in all sections of the state. His mail is quite a heavy one now that the day for the primary is approaching, and the letters from his friends in other counties are of a confident tone that is gratifying to the people in Muscogee, his home county.

It is quite probable that Judge Chappell will have the solid vote of the Chattahoochee circuit, in every county of which he has practiced law, and in the cities and towns over the state where he is personally known his friends are expecting that he will receive a handsome vote.

Under the ruling of the state democratic executive committee three candidates for judge must be voted for, else the ballot will not be counted. There is much speculation as to what other two candidates will receive a plurality in Muscogee. It is probable that the vote will be divided among quite a number of candidates.

Executive Committee Meets.

Columbus, Ga., September 21.—(Special.)—A meeting of the Muscogee county democratic executive committee was held this morning, Chairman J. B. Key presiding. W. Cecil Neill was elected permanent secretary of the committee. W. C. Woodall was elected as temporary secretary in Mr. Neill's absence from the city. On motion of R. W. Page the committee directed that the primary for appelate judge in Muscogee county be held in connection with the regular election on October 3 and under the same rules, and that the chairman be requested to confer with the ordinary of the county and arrange for the managers and clerks of the regular election to conduct the democratic primary for judges at the same time and place. The managers and clerks are asked to do this without compensation, as the new committee has not yet raised any funds, and it would be unjust to call on the candidates for appellate judgeships to pay the expenses of the primary in each of the 146 counties in the state.

URGENT NEED IS SHOWN OF COURT OF APPEALS

THE legislature, with practical unanimity, has submitted to the people, for ratification at the general election on October 8, an amendment to the constitution, creating a court of appeals. The immediate and urgent need for such a court is manifest to all who are familiar with the conditions that caused the legislature to do this.

Under a provision of the constitution of this state, inserted to insure speedy justice to suitors, failure of the supreme court to decide a case before the close of the second term after it has reached that court would be EQUIVALENT TO A DISMISSAL OF THE CASE. There is imminent danger that this provision will operate as a denial of justice to many. The business of the supreme court has increased to such an extent that it will be impossible to decide all cases in the required time.

Some time ago, in order to prevent this result, the court found it necessary to deprive counsel of the important privilege of being heard in oral argument, except in a limited class of cases. Yet the court will begin its October term with nearly 300 cases of the last March term not disposed of—enough to occupy nearly the whole, if not all of its time until the next March term. The cases thus far entered for the October term have increased the number on the docket to more than 700; and the docket of that term will be greatly augmented by the continual coming in of criminal cases and others in which fast writs of error are allowed. If the cases docketed for that term and for the next March term are as many as those of the last October and March terms, viz., 1,156, THERE WILL BE NEARLY 1,500 CASES WHICH SHOULD BE DISPOSED OF OR HEARD BY THE SUPREME COURT BETWEEN THE BEGINNING OF THE NEXT OCTOBER TERM AND THE END OF THE MARCH TERM.

Ten years ago, when three judges were added to the supreme court, the cases docketed for the October and March terms amounted to 778. The dockets for the last two terms show an increase of about 50 per cent. The increase during the ten years preceding that period was in about the same proportion. THE SUPREME COURT DECIDES IN A YEAR MORE CASES THAN ARE DECIDED IN THE SAME TIME BY THE SUPREME COURTS OF THE FOUR STATES OF VIRGINIA, WEST VIRGINIA, NORTH CAROLINA AND SOUTH CAROLINA COMBINED.

The congested condition of the business of the supreme court is not due to any lack of industry on the part of its judges. They work almost continuously throughout the year, even during the recesses of the court. In a few years several judges have failed in health, some have died, and some have resigned, on account of overwork. Men are not physically capable of doing satisfactory work at all times under such conditions.

How It Affects the Public.

The public is the sufferer from the congested condition of the business of the court. The view of most people is that if there is need of a supreme court for the rich man, there is need of it for the poor man. A case involving less than $100 may involve all that a man has.

It has been suggested, as a means of relief, that those city courts from which cases can be taken to the supreme court, now numbering about about seventy, should be abolished. The city courts have been created to meet the demand for the speedy trial of cases and the necessity caused by the rapid increase of poulation and business; and the creation of additional city or other courts will continue as long as that increase continues. It is a mistake, however, to suppose that city courts are the main cause of the great increase of cases in the supreme court. It has been found, from an examination of the dockets of the supreme court, that less than nine per cent of the increase in the last ten years came from city courts.

The Only Practicable Relief.

Whatever may be the merits of the different plans of relief suggested, the fact remains that the need of relief is immediate and urgent; and the only immediate means of relief available is that provided for by the amendment creating the court of appeals. If the amendment is adopted, that court will begin work next January, with cases transferred to it by the supreme court. WHY SHOULD RELIEF BE DELAYED INDEFINITELY BECAUSE OF THE SUPPOSED ADVANTAGES OF SOME OTHER PLAN, WHICH HAS NO REASONABLE PROSPECT OF ADOPTION? EVEN IF SUCH A PROSPECT EXISTED, A DELAY OF AT LEAST TWO YEARS WOULD BE NECESSARY BEFORE THE CONSTITUTION COULD BE AMENDED SO AS TO INAUGURATE ANY OTHER PLAN OF RELIEF.

If the court of appeals should prove to be unsatisfactory, the people could soon abolish it. If experience should show that changes in the law relating to the court are desirable, the amendment creating the court contains provisions which allow the legislature to make changes without an amendment to the constitution. This amendment, however, was carefully prepared, and it has the full approval of the ablest judges and lawyers in the state.

Features of the Court of Appeals.

The court of appeals would not be an intermediate court, from which cases could be taken to the supreme court and which would thus further delay litigation and add to its expense. It would be the court of last resort in all cases within its jurisdiction. It would be a court alone for the correction of errors in law and equity, as is provided in regard to the supreme court. Its jurisdiction would include all criminal cases not involving capital punishment. Its jurisdiction in about the same proportion. THE SUPREME COURT DECIDES IN A YEAR MORE CASES THAN ARE DECIDED IN THE SAME TIME BY THE SUPREME COURTS OF THE FOUR STATES OF VIRGINIA, WEST VIRGINIA, NORTH CAROLINA AND SOUTH CAROLINA COMBINED.

The congested condition of the business of the supreme court is not due to any lack of industry on the part of its judges. They work almost continuously throughout the year, even during the recesses of the court. In a few years several judges have failed in health, some have died, and some have resigned, on account of overwork. Men are not physically capable of doing satisfactory work at all times under such conditions.

How It Affects the Public.

The public are vitally interested in this. A decision of the supreme court applies not merely to the case decided, but the law gives it the force of a statute, and it controls all other cases involving a like state of facts. It may declare a statute unconstitutional. Its construction of a deed or contract may affect thousands. It is in the highest degree important that the decisions of such a court shall be well considered, and that it shall have sufficient time for investigation and deliberation.

It must have time to prepare decisions which shall stand permanently as correct expositions of the law and guides for the courts and the people.

Remedies Discussed.

There have been and are different theories as to what is the best remedy for the state of affairs which caused the legislature to submit to the people the amendment providing for a court of appeals. For a number of years efforts have been made to secure relief in other ways. The people are not going to abolish the provisions of the constitution which limits the time allowed to the supreme court for the decision of cases. Supreme courts in states in which there is no such law have fallen years behind in their work. Such delays are often ruinous. Parties and witnesses die, property involved depreciates in value, many become insolvent, and many are forced to make disastrous compromises, while awaiting a decision. If this provision of the constitution was necessary to prevent such delays, it is now more necessary than ever, and certainly it will not be repealed in order to allow delays.

Some think that no cases should be allowed to go from the superior courts to a higher court unless a large amount is involved. Repeated efforts to obtain legislation on that line have failed, and there is no reasonable prospect that there will ever be such legislation. It has always been the policy of this state to allow the poorest suitor an opportunity to obtain justice in its highest ment creating the court contains provisions which allow the legislature to make changes without an amendment to the constitution. This amendment, however, was carefully prepared, and it it has the full approval of the ablest judges and lawyers in the state.

Features of the Court of Appeals.

The court of appeals would not be an intermediate court, from which cases could be taken to the supreme court and which would thus further delay litigation and add to its expense. It would be the court of last resort in all cases within its jurisdiction. It would be a court alone for the correction of errors in law and equity, as is provided in regard to the supreme court. Its jurisdiction would include all criminal cases not involving capital punishment. Its jurisdiction in civil cases would include those originating in city courts and those brought to the superior courts from county courts, justices' courts and other courts except the court of ordinary.

Should a constitutional question arise in a case in the court of appeals, however, and a decision of the question be necessary to a determination of the case, the court would have to submit that question to the supreme court for instruction, and would have to follow the instruction given. It could of its own motion submit other questions to the supreme court for instruction. In order to prevent conflict of decisions, it is provided that the decisions of the supreme court shall bind the court of appeals as precedents. Except in the particulars stated, it would be a second supreme court.

Provisions for Speedy Hearing.

Its procedure would be more speedy than that of the supreme court. A feature which should greatly commend the court to popular favor is the provision that all cases reaching the court during a term and before it has closed the docket of the term shall stand for hearing at that term. As the law now stands in regard to the supreme court, cases not reaching the court by a fixed time before the term must be placed on the docket of the succeeding term, unless they are of the class for which fast writs of error are allowed, and in this way they may be delayed for many months. In its practice and procedure and in all other respects, except as otherwise provided in the amendment, the court of appeals will be governed by the laws relating to the supreme court, so far as they can be made to apply.

Extent of Relief.

The court of appeals would take more than a third of the cases which would otherwise go to the supreme court, and EVEN THEN THE SUPREME COURT WOULD BE CALLED ON TO DECIDE AS MANY CASES AS ANY OTHER SUPREME COURT IN THE UNITED STATES.

RUSSELL TO RUN FOR JUDGESHIP

Former Candidate for Governor Decides to Make Race.

Judge R. B. Russell has yielded to the urgent requests of his friends and has decided to make the race for the court of appeals, though, as he states, he will not have time to make any canvass of the state.

Since he has had the matter under consideration at the request of friends he has received numerous letters and telegrams urging him to run, and yesterday he wrote the following card in which he announces that he is in the race:

"Winder, Ga., September 24.—To the White Voters of Georgia: Without any consultation or intimation to me some of my over-partial friends paid the assessment necessary to place my name on the official democratic ballot for the primary October 3. This, per force, entered my name for one of the three judgeships of the proposed court of appeals. The first knowledge of this fact came to me through the daily press.

"Sitting in the shadows of a bereavement, which took from our home circle my youngest son, nothing was further from my mind than public office. I had no desire to tax my friends or obtrude myself upon the public, but in consideration of personal appeals consented to take the matter under advisement. Since the entry of my name by my friends my heart has been touched by the hundreds of voluntary letters and telegrams from all sections of the state requesting that I consent to the use of my name. These require an answer.

"I am not unconscious of the high honor of the responsible position to be filled and if the voters in the primary of October 3 nominate me I will gratefully devote all my energies to giving the people of the state the best service in my power.

"Present conditions make impossible any canvass on my part. Grateful for the many expressions of confidence and support I have received, I leave the matter in the hands of the voters. If elected I shall feel much honored in being permitted to devote the best years of my life and my past judicial experience to the service of Georgia on this new court. If, on the other hand, you choose three of the many distinguished candidates to the exclusion of myself in this unsolicited presentation of my name, it will cause no complaint. Yours truly,

"RICHARD B. RUSSELL."

Negro Pugilist's Blow on White Man's Head Causes Death.

Buffalo, N. Y., September 24.—Following a prize fight held Saturday night at Titus hotel, Woodlawn Beach, Richard Munson, 20 years old, one of the contestants, died today. Injuries to the brain resulting from a blow behind the left ear are said to have caused the young man's death.

Walter Robinson, a negro, his opponent, was arrested.

COLONEL JIM DOUGLAS WINS HANDICAP, DAY'S FEATURE

Jockeys Hudlin and J. McIntyre were set down for the rest of the meeting by Judge Hamilton for rough riding. Jockey W. McIntyre was suspended for five days by Starter Dade.

Judge Hamilton today reinstated Jockeys Cherry, Hice and Riley, who were set down for keeping late hours.

JUDGE HENRY ENTERS THE RACE

Launched Candidacy for Appellate Civil Judgeship.

Rome, Ga., September 24.—(Special.)—Judge W. M. Henry, for twelve years judge of the superior court of the Rome circuit, is actively in the race for one of the three judgships of the court of appeals.

In advocacy of his candidacy, Judge Henry has issued the following announcement, which will be read with great interest by his hosts of friends throughout the state of Georgia:

"To the People of Georgia: I am a candidate for the nomination as one of the judges of the court of appeals. I am in the prime of mature middle life. As to my qualifications and fitness for that important office, I beg to refer you to the statements and indorsements of the bar of this county and circuit, where I have lived all my life, practiced law for many years, and served for twelve years as judge of the superior courts, as well as to the statements and indorsements of other gentlemen, official and otherwise, whose opportunities to know me as man, lawyer and judge, have been the best.

"For nearly forty years northwest Georgia, that splendid part of the state lying north and west of the Chattahoochee river, has had no one of her sons upon the supreme bench. That bench is now graced by six able and distinguished lawyers from other parts of our commonwealth. As you know, the court of appeals will have three judges. This section of the state does not ask to furnish all of these, but does respectfully ask to furnish a part of them.

"You have observed that, under the terms of the resolution providing for this primary election, you can and must vote for three men, in order to have your ballot counted. May I not hope to have my name one of the three on your ballot? If so, I shall gratefully appreciate your support, and, if elected, I will show that appreciation, in the best way possible, by diligently using every power I have, of brain and heart, to make Georgia a just and efficient judge. Sincerely yours,

W. M. HENRY.

HARNESS RACES AT CINCINNATI

Bystander, Outsider, Is Easy Winner of 2.13 Pace.

Cincinnati, September 24.—The fifth grand circuit meeting opened here today with a good crowd in attendance. Sweet Marie, who broke her own record at Columbus last week, was the especial attraction of the day. Sweet Marie was driven by A. P. McDonald in an attempt to break her record of 2:02. The best she could do was 2:04 3-4.

The 2:13 pace brought out a field of seventeen. Carrie B. was the favorite in the betting. In the first heat Queen of Clubs bolted into the outside fence, carrying Miss Gay and Country Boy with her and interfering with five other horses. Three were distanced in this heat, but the judges decided that the accident was unavoidable and allowed all horses to start in the second heat. Bystander, an outsider, won the first heat in easy fashion. Carrie B. was again made the favorite in the second heat, but Bystander beat her in a hard drive by a head. The third and final heat went to Bystander. In this heat Miss Gay, driven by Thomas T. Murphy, was run into by Country Boy, driven by Cox. Both men were thrown from their sulkies. Murphy sustained a broken collar bone, but Cox was uninjured. Only four horses started in the 2-year-old division of the Horse Review futurity, and Blue Hill was an easy winner in straight heats. In the 3-year-old division Governor Francis was an easy winner in straight heats.

The track was lightning fast.

THEATERS.

The main fact of interest about Wonderland is that it serves to bring back to Atlanta Mary Marble and Little Chip.

They are the real fun makers of the whole production, and their efforts throughout the evening won the generous and indulgent tribute that the local theatergoers voluntarily accord to these two who have entertained them so often.

Despite the request of Mayor Woodward that all good Atlantans should remain at home after nightfall, the house was well filled, and the audience a most representative one. They applauded the songs and dances of the two stars, ad-

JUDGE BLECKLEY TO A. G. POWELL

Distinguished Jurist Writes Strong Approval of His Candidacy.

Hon. A. G. Powell, of Blakely, one of the well known candidates for the new state court of appeals, who is in Atlanta for a day or two in the interest of his campaign, has just received an interesting and characteristic letter from Judge Logan E. Bleckley in which that distinguished jurist strongly indorses his candidacy for this position.

Judge Bleckley's letter, which will be read with interest, is as follows:

"Clarkesville, Ga., September 21, 1906. —A. G. Powell, Esq., Blakely, Ga., Dear Sir: During my service of about twelve years on the bench of the supreme court, I studied the mind of lawyers, as well as the cases they argued before me. This experience assured me that as musicians widely differ in musical touch, so lawyers differ in legal aptitude, or what may be called their legal touch; many of them being moderately gifted, some highly gifted, and a few very highly gifted. The three grades or orders are analagous to the grammatical degrees of positive, comparative and superlative—'good, better, best.'

"The best legal minds are readily distinguished and easily recognized as soon as, with tongue or pen, they touch upon any complex or difficult topic of law, whether in oral argument, their professional documents and writings or merely in conversation. Whenever the superlative lawyer expresses himself his light is set upon a candlestick; it is hidden under a bushel only when he is silent.

"In view of your candidacy for a seat on the bench of the proposed court of appeals, allow me to say, I have seen your light shine with resplendent brightness. I can bear testimony to your being one of the elect few among the members of our profession. You are a genuine lawyer, with a true insight into the nature of law and its real import, both in letter and spirit. With ample opportunity for judicial service I am sure you will not fail to prove yourself a great judge.

"Though my letter is addressed to you, it is really intended for other readers, and I request you to publish it.

"My works shall correspond with my faith. In the coming primary I am confidently and cordially for you.

"LOGAN E. BLECKLEY."

HON. THOMAS F. GREEN FOR JUDGE OF THE NEW COURT OF APPEALS

HON. THOS. F. GREEN, of Athens, Ga.

Hon. Thomas F. Green, of Athens, is now considered one of the foremost candidates in the race for a position on the new court of appeals in this state, should the people adopt the amendment creating the court at the election next Wednesday.

From every section of the state, from personal friends, from acquaintances and from men who know him only by reputation, come assurances of hearty and active support in his race. The people have been doing some investigating on their own motion and they have found that the candidate put forward by the Athens bar with its unanimous indorsement, is one of the ablest and best lawyers in the state, well qualified in every way for the position he seeks.

Mr. Green has been at the bar for the past seventeen years, having graduated from the University of Georgia in 1889. His experience as a lawyer has been wide and varied. He has been given an insight into all branches of the law, as well as a thorough knowledge of the procedure of all the courts. His mind is naturally judicial, and he possesses every qualification for a judge. He is wise, conservative, careful, upright.

In addition to an unquestioned ability, he possesses a character unblemished, and an advocate at all times of sobriety and morality. His position in the community in which he lives is attested by the solid front of the people of Athens in support of his candidacy.

Mr. Green is at present lecturer on federal law in the law department of the University of Georgia, a position held up to the time of his death by the late Chancellor Walter B. Hill. He is a grandson of the late Chancellor Andrew A. Lipscomb, of the University of Georgia, and much of the ability of that distinguished Georgia educator and scholar descends to the grandson.

Georgians who are looking for a man of unquestioned ability, high character, abundant courage and convictions, experience in his profession and conservatism in his judgment, will find in Mr. Green the man of their choice for the position of judge of the court of appeals. ***

MACON TROOPS CALLED TO ARMS

car today in which pistols were used, but no one was hurt. Great excitement prevails tonight while men parade the streets yelling in most threatening manners.

Further trouble is anticipated, as trolley wires have been cut in East Macon.

Since 10 o'clock quiet has prevailed in Macon and there is now little fear of danger for the night. The directors of the railway system refused to consider a proposition which would have disposed of the differences on the grounds that they had to take care of thirty-five men with whom they had contracted for employment. The union and the citizens' committee urged that all the former employees be put back to work in their regular places, and when the board adjourned there was no possibility of reaching any agreement which may promise a cessation of the strike. Several of the directors are charging Mayor Smith with failure to guarantee protection to the property and in a long statement for publication tonight they have urged that such is the case.

Wild Sunday Feared.

A threshing out of the whole situation goes out in this statement, which was dictated by Jacob Collins, of Savannah, and tomorrow may witness wild scenes. Meetings of strike sympathizers have been called and Sunday will be a day of unrest in Macon.

No attempt will likely be made to run the cars until a settlement is reached.

EDITORIAL ON THE RIOT.

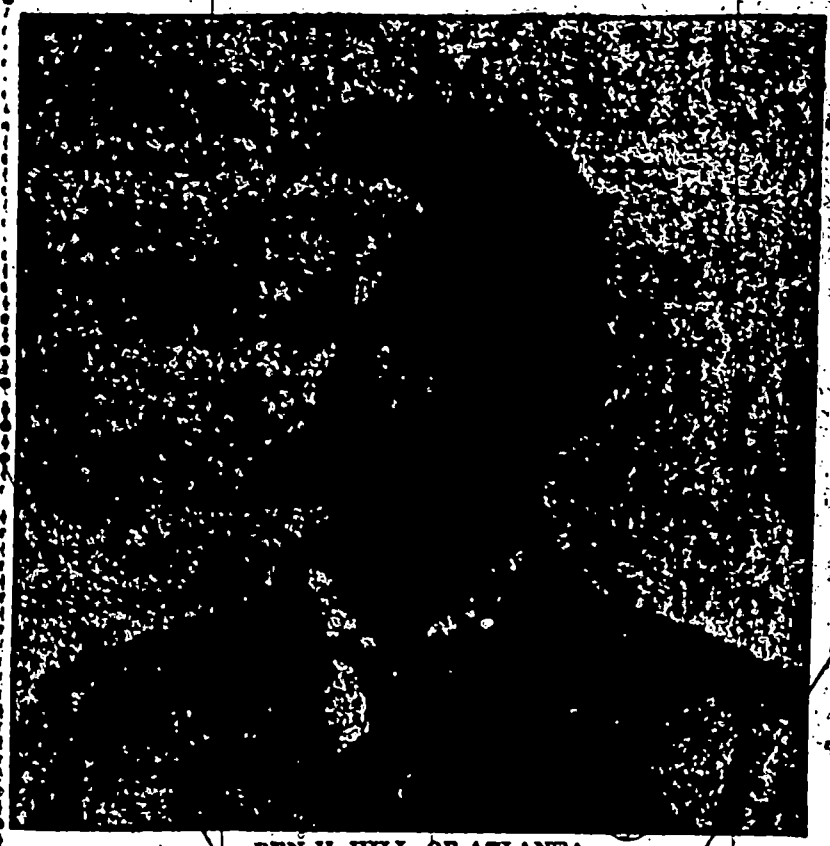

Sensible View of Trouble in Atlanta Taken by The Covington Advocate.

The following sensible editorial on the recent disturbance in Atlanta appeared in The Covington Advocate, Warren Scott Lowery, editor-in-chief:

"No doubt every one of our readers has, ere this, read the full account of the grevious situation in the Gate City, where about three days since Saturday night of last week there was a reign of terror for negroes, about six of whom were killed and a large number of whom were wounded. The cause of all the trouble is traceable to the large number of criminal assaults committed by negroes in that place within the past few weeks.

"There faces this city a vexing problem which we are praying earnestly she will be able to solve without further bloodshed. How to wipe out from among the colored people the tendency to, and the further commission of, the nameless crime, is a question which every white man and every negro of sense and character have their minds centered upon. This thing must stop, and we believe the end of it is not far off, for the class guilty of the commission of these crimes

BENJAMIN H. HILL, CANDIDATE FOR JUDGE OF THE PROPOSED COURT OF APPEALS

BEN H. HILL, OF ATLANTA,
Candidate for Judge of the Proposed Court of Appeals.

Benjamin H. Hill, candidate for one of the three judges of the proposed court of appeals, is the oldest son of Georgia's great senator, the matchless defender of the south's honor, humanity, and civilization. He who born in Troup county and received his education at the University of Georgia, graduating with distinction in the famous class of 1860. He also received his legal training at the law school of the university. In 1872 he came to the city of Atlanta, and with his father began the practice of law. In 1877 he was appointed by Governor Colquitt solicitor general of the Atlanta circuit, and was elected by the legislature for the second term. He declined a third term, and his brother, Charles D. Hill, was elected his successor. During his service as solicitor general he tried many important cases, and made a great reputation as a strong, eloquent advocate, and able lawyer. On the death of his lamented father, in 1882, he was offered the vacancy in the United States senate by Governor Colquitt, the tender being made on the petition of a very large number of citizens of Georgia. He declined the position in a letter, which created much favorable comment at the time throughout the whole country. In 1885 he was appointed by President Cleveland United States attorney for the northern district of Georgia, and per-

to, and the further commission of such nameless crime, is a question which every white man and every negro of sense and character have their minds centered upon. This thing must stop, and we believe the end of it is not far off, for the class guilty of the commission of these crimes, is now on the run the loafers and frequenters of barrooms and crime breeding dives. There is much to be deplored in connection with the situation, but at one thing we do rejoice, that the dives of immorality, the pool rooms, the sham restaurants and other hang-out places for the debased and depraved of the race, are to be closed up for all time. Had this step been taken years ago in Atlanta, we do not believe there would have been cause for the recent outbreak of passion and vengeance.

"Let us throw the mantle of charity over the entire affair and all pray earnestly and fervently that much good may after all be the result, for we all are in need of no little amount of prayer in these hours of trials. It is a tried and never-failing weapon of defense and righter of all ills and wrongs when used in connection with sufficient faith. It is the only weapon our people ought think of using in times so terrible and pregnant for ill as the recent unfortunate demonstration in Atlanta. There are lots of us who stand for order, decency and right, and we hold ourselves ready for directions to perform, whatever duties we can in ridding the southland of the inhuman brutes who allow their passions to get the better of their reason."

declined the position in a letter, which created much favorable comment at the time throughout the whole country. In 1885 he was appointed by President Cleveland United States attorney for the northern district of Georgia, and performed the important duties of that office with credit to himself and satisfaction to the government. Some years ago Justice White, of the supreme court, and Judges Pardee and Newman appointed Mr. Hill standing master in chancery of the United States circuit court. This is a position of great responsibility, the standing master having to try on the law and facts all equity causes in the United States circuit court. Mr. Hill has decided many important and complex equity cases, and in no case has his decision been reversed by the court. The lawyers all over Georgia recognize his fine legal attainments and unusual judicial temperament, and have frequently urged him to seek a position on the bench, but he has heretofore declined. The splendid tribute paid him by the bar of Atlanta in urging him to offer for one of the places on the proposed court of appeals has induced him to become a candidate. His friends feel sanguine of his success, and are confident, if elected, he will add additional luster to a name already beloved and honored in the state. Attention is called to the correspondence between the bar and Mr. Hill given below:

"Atlanta, Ga., August 14, 1906.—Hon. B. H. Hill, Atlanta, Ga. Dear Sir: If the bill passed by the general assembly creating the court of appeals is ratified by the people at the October election, we, as members of the Atlanta bar, would like to have you elected as one of the judges of that court.

"We think that this court should be composed of lawyers of acknowledged ability and of high personal character. We have practiced law with you, some of us, for many years, and we believe that you possess, in a marked degree, the qualifications essential to a good judicial officer.

"You filled the office of solicitor general to the satisfaction of the bar and the people, and your administration of the office of United States district attorney was clean, able and efficient. You have long been standing master in equity of the United States court for this circuit, and your decisions in the many important causes submitted to you have received the commendation of the court and the lawyers.

"Our only interest in this matter is to help secure for this court judges who by their learning and standing as men and lawyers will maintain the dignity of the court, administer the law promptly and impartially, protect the right of our people, and conserve the public good.

"You have had long experience at the bar and have lived an honorable life in this community for many years, and have the respect and confidence of every one. We believe the people generally will select the best material for these high judicial positions, so important to every man, woman and child in Georgia, and we feel assured of your success. Trusting you will become a candidate, we are, yours truly,

"Messrs. R. R. Arnold, Luther Z. Rosser, Spencer R. Atkinson, Burton Smith, Milton A. Candler and others:

"Gentlemen: Your request that I become a candidate for one of the three judgeships of the court of appeals, if the constitutional amendment creating said court is ratified by the people on October the third, has been in my hands for some days. The establishment of this court is of great importance to all the people of this state. Every citizen of Georgia is entitled to have his rights of person or property adjudicated by a tribunal of last resort, and on account of the large increase in the number of cases due to the rapid growth in population and business, this is now a matter of physical impossibility by our supreme court. Both the people and the supreme court therefore, need the relief contemplated by the court of appeals. The democratic executive committee has called a primary for the selection of three nominees for this court on October 3rd the date of the general state election. Subject to this primary, and relying upon your estimate of my fitness for the position, I submit my name to the voters of the state for one of the three judgeships. While always interested in public questions and a loyal member of the democratic party, and an earnest advocate of its principles and its standard bearers, I have never offered for public position before the people. I frankly confess to you that I have an ambition to serve the state in a judicial capacity, and if the voters of Georgia approve my candidacy and elevate me to this high position, I promise them to bring to the discharge of the important duties of the office an earnest purpose to seek truth and justice, and in consecrated service, to declare and protect the rights of all the people under the law. I can find no words fittingly to express my grateful appreciation for the language in which you convey your wish—and I assure you that whatever may be the result whether I win or lose in the contest, to be considered by so large a number of my professional brethren as worthy to occupy this exalted station is an honor I deeply prize and will ever gratefully cherish. It will not be possible between now and the election for me to meet in person all the voters of the state and I beg that each one will consider this announcement as a personal request for his support and influence. Again, assuring each one of you gentlemen of my sincere appreciation, I am,

"Yours truly,
BENJ. H. HILL."

"Union with God in Christ makes us godlike—godlike in thought, in feeling, in purpose and in action. As a child of a king deports himself like his father, so the child of God represents Him. This brings his character into harmony with whatsoever is true and honest, and just and pure and lovely and of good report. In his Christlike spirit is charged with preeminent lovingness; the quenchless germ of the Christ-life is within and becomes the carrier of life and health to every part of the man. True manhood springs from the God-man who is 'formed within us the hope of glory.' 'Ye are complete in Christ.' The complete God-man imparts his all-round completeness to the person who abides through faith in Him. So the manifold graces of Christ construct a character full of benevolence and beneficence. There are different types of believers: 'Star differeth from star in glory.' We are apt to grow one-sided. We are apt to excuse ourselves in the plea 'my temperament is different from yours.' So some justify rudeness by calling it candor, passionateness by calling it zeal, injustice to men by calling it loyalty to God. Put it down as a fact, 'If I don't love man, I don't love God.'

God Shall Supply Your Needs.

"'My God shall supply all your needs.' Knowing the cause he knew the effect. Linked with the central generator of force he could safely assert what that force would do. He could 'bind' when and where God ordered him to 'bind.' The believer becomes 'Keeper of the Holy Grail,' in no sovereign, efficacious sense, but he is God's agent.

"No pagan prison, from which Paul wrote this letter, could fetter his free spirit. The word of God is not bound. Like Elijah saying to the hostile Syrians at Dothan, blasted with blindness, the Christian is empowered both by authority from his king and by the irresistible loyalties and sympathies of his new life with and in Christ, to say to all, 'Come, I will lead you to your Master.'

"Knowing the fountain he commands and commends the stream. Once on that stream he is assured that it can ever run dry nor run into a desert, for he knows 'that everything shall live whither the river cometh.'

"'All your need, according to his riches in glory in Christ Jesus.' What is the measure of supply, 'according to his riches in glory?' The wealth of the infinite, precious, eternal will set his children 'in glory,' the glory of his church militant, and of his church triumphant, the glory at the foot of the rose, and that at the foot of the throne. 'Need—not want—unsupplied evokes allure; need supplied guarantees success.' The sense of highest needs is, God-wrought, and therefore God-supplied.

JUDGE D. W. ROBERTS, OF EASTMAN, GA.,
Who Is Enthusiastically Recommended by the Bar of Dodge for a Place on the New Court of Appeals.

Will Make Hard Fight to Secure His Election ot One of the Judgeship Places.

EASTMAN, GA., September 29.—(Special.)—A very enthusiastic meeting of the bar of this county was held at the court house yesterday for the purpose of commending to the people of Georgia the candidacy of Judge David M. Roberts for one of the appellate court judgeships.

The members of the bar of this county realize that Judge Roberts is one of the strongest and most capable of the candidates running for these places and that from every standpoint his candidacy should appeal to the voters of Georgia. At the beginning of the civil war Judge Roberts, then a mere boy, was among the first to volunteer to fight for the cause of the confederacy and was among the last to lay down arms. After the close of the war Judge Roberts took up the study of law and by sheer force of his splendid, God-given intellect and the keen intelligence of his analytical, judicial mind, he rapidly rose to the high standard of the honorable, successful lawyer. He served for eight years as judge of the superior courts of one of the largest and most important circuits in the state—the Oconee. Judge Roberts was born and reared in Laurens county, within about 20 miles of Eastman. Being now at the very pinnacle of his physical and mental activity, possessing a native talent that is hardly surpassable, having judicial attainments of the highest order and representing in the highest degree the strong, honest, sturdy Georgia, and especially south Georgia, manhood, his friends believe the services of Judge Roberts on the bench of the new court of review would be of the greatest value to the people of the state.

The resolution today adopted by the members of the bar of his home county follows:

The members of the Eastman bar, in a meeting held at the court house on September 27, 1906, Mayor J. P. Highsmith presiding, the following resolution endorsing the candidacy of Judge D. M. Roberts was unanimously adopted:

Resolutions of Indorsement.

"Whereas, The last legislature passed an act creating a court of appeals, consisting of three judges, to be approved by the people on October 3, 1906, and there being such great necessity for the creation of such a court, there can be no doubt about its ratification by the people. And,

"Whereas, It is of the utmost importance that judges of experience and ability and judicial training should be elected to fill these important positions, and having in our wiregrass section of south Georgia a man native and to the manner born of eminent qualification, ripe in experience not only for a general practice, but as judge of the superior courts of the several counties of the Oconee circuit for eight years, and confidently believing that he possesses the four cardinal virtues of a judge—ability, courtesy, patience and industry. Therefore be it

"Resolved, That in the candidacy of Judge Roberts we commend him to the people of Georgia with the assurance that if he should be selected as one of said judges they will never have cause to regret it, as he is not only able and well qualified, but he has the confidence of all people who know him for judicial integrity.

"And without desiring to be sectional, we beg to state that Judge Roberts' experience and training has been in cases involving titles to real property in trespass and ejectment cases, for he is considered one of our best lawyers on the subject of title to land as well as being engaged in a large criminal practice. Judge Roberts has the energy and endurance necessary for the work that may come to the court of appeals.

"We therefore confidently recommend Judge Roberts to the favorable consideration of the people of Georgia and hope they will elect him to one of the judgeships on the bench of the court of appeals.

How to keep the breathing organs right should be man's chiefest study. Like thousands of others, Mrs. Ora A. Stephens, of Port Williams, O., has learned how to do this. She writes: "Three bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery stopped my cough of two years and cured me of what my friends thought consumption. O, it's grand for throat and lung troubles." New York, September 29.—Harry K. Thaw, despite the efforts of his relatives to bring hope and sunshine into the gloomy tombs, is breaking down physically and is melancholy, fretful and irritable. He is carefully watched, it is stated, lest he become violent. The further statement is made that he is dissatisfied with his lawyers, and may change the entire list as he did once before.

Strong Gale Strikes Hong Kong.

Hongkong, September 29.—A strong gale raged throughout last night. The shipping and the inhabitants had been warned of its arrival by a forecast of the observatory.

Sometimes it is a cyclone and it leaves death and destruction to property in its wake and many innocent lives are sacrificed for the general good of all. It is not a visitation of God's wrath, but a law of nature in action. For the past month the moral atmosphere around Atlanta has been close and sultry and a feeling of unrest was felt throughout the city. The storm has come and gone and in its path innocent lives lie strewn and innocent victims have suffered. The result will be a purification of the moral atmosphere.

"Makers of laws and those who are entrusted to enforce them have learned a lesson which cost very heavily, but one that evidently it was necessary to learn.

"The owners of the street car system in their eagerness to get rich quick, overreached themselves in refusing to furnish separate cars for the races and will now at increased expense be driven to adopt measures which should have been more readily acceded to. The law of reaction is swift and sure.

"The dealers in whisky who lent their aid in inflaming brains already heated will reap where they have sown and must pay their share of the debt.

"The law of suggestion played an important part in the tragedy. If a newspaper publishes the details of a suicide, the suggestion is sure to find other weak or distracted minds to follow the example and sometimes one suicide produces a wave of suicides. The same holds good in murders, rapes, bank robberies and other crimes. The extras with sensational headlines should be suppressed.

Columbus, Ga., September 29.—(Special.)—Officials and expert workmen are in the city from Atlanta overhauling the local exchange of the Southern Bell Telephone Company. It is announced that in a week or two the exchange will be in normal physical condition and that good service will be restored.

Columbus, Ga., September 29.—(Special.)—Whit Jackson, a drunken negro with a pistol, who was on the war path, was shot and killed by Night Marshal E. M. The revolving chambers had just brought a loaded cartridge into position when the marshal fired barely in time. He shot the negro twice, killing him instantly. The negro had two loaded cartridges in his pistol. He is said to have been a good, industrious negro when sober.

JUDGE W. R. HAMMOND ANNOUNCES CANDIDACY, AND DENOUNCES FALSE CHARGES MADE AGAINST HIM

To the People of Fulton County—I am a candidate for the court of appeals at the democratic primary of October 3d, and respectfully solicit your support.

I have lived in Atlanta forty-four years, and my record, both public and private, is known to you.

The information has come to me that statements are being made in different sections of Georgia that I voted for McKinley in 1896. The statements are false. I have always been a democrat, and have never voted the republican ticket.

I have also learned that statements are being made in different sections of the state that my candidacy is not meeting with favor in my own home. These statements are false. I am as well backed at home as any candidate here. I have refused to allow my friends to circulate petitions indorsing me, taking the ground that if I was not well enough known in Georgia without this I ought not to be in the race.

These false statements are designed to injure me on the eve of the election without giving me the opportunity to reply. I ask to rebuke them by your votes.

oy parties unknown, and these tickets do not contain the name of Judge Frank Harwell, of LaGrange, who is a candidate for one of the judgeships.

Chairman A. L. Miller, of the state committee, has made it plain that no tickets except those officially issued by the state committee and containing the names of all the candidates for the judgeships will be counted in the primary. There are sixteen candidates, and the names of all of them must be in every ticket voted.

The following communication has been received by The Journal from Hon. J. B. Ridley, chairman of the executive committee of Troup county:

"LAGRANGE, Ga., Sept. 29, 1906.

Under the ruling adopted by the executive committee, these tickets cannot be voted in the primary to be held next Wednesday, and, if voted, could not be counted. In justice to all of the candidates as well as to Judge Harwell, the press of the state should call attention to these tickets so that if any are scattered in the various counties the managers and the people can be cautioned against them.

Judge Frederick J. Foster

Mr. Editor:

Permit me through your columns to call the attention of the people of Georgia to the eminent qualifications of Judge Frederick C. Foster for one of the judgeships of the proposed court of appeals.

This court is a court of last resort, exactly like the supreme court, and it is of the utmost importance that the people select for its judges our very best lawyers. In fact, if this is not done, it is to be hoped that the amendment will be defeated. The appellate court judges should in every respect be the equal of the supreme court judges. They have similar duties and equal responsibilities.

I have known Judge Foster all my life. I have practiced with him as a member of this bar, and before him as judge of the superior courts of the Ocmulgee circuit. While on the bench he made the best judge I have ever known. His ability and purity are attested by the fact that, during his term of office, he was reversed by the supreme court only once.

He is the author of "Foster on Bankruptcy," which is accepted as authority throughout the United States. He is among the very greatest lawyers Georgia has ever produced, and is pre-eminently qualified for any judicial office.

Very truly,

the dagger to him and teach him to regard his benefactor.

Let us take the dagger that Sherman advised the negro to take to us in one of his memorable speeches and see what virture there is in it. It might be of great benefit to us in this moment of insult and injury. Sherman, I often think of him and every time I thing of him my mind has a downward tendency. Golly, I can't help it. I have thought of him when my face would burn. Yes, son wants to take second march to the sea; better bring the whole Yankee nation with him and pass in the night. It would be cooler; It would be too hot to march in day time down here. So it is and I reckon it was to have been just like it has happened or it would not have been. Yankees punching us on one side and low down negroes on the other, we have turned 'round and 'round until we are sore on all sides, and it looks to me like forty years of constant kicking and punching ought to satisfy any degree of animosity, but it has not. Just wait until a foreign war comes along and we will even up things by taking a British musket and departing to the mother country. I'm durned if I ain't tired of Yankee rascality and African musk. Ain't you? But we must protect our women folks. I will suggest a way:

Say there is 200 men in East Atlanta from 16 to 60. We will let ten of this number stay at home one day in each month and patroll this community, relieving one another until all has served his day and then go around again perpetuating this plan. Let us act and act now.

THREE MEN ARE URGED FOR APPELLATE JUDGESHIPS

Editor Journal: I desire that my personal friends all over the state may read this letter. It is a personal letter from me to my close friends and I ask them to take it as such.

Now to the point: I am advocating the following able and distinguished lawyers for the three exalted positions of judges of the proposed court of appeals, which court we will vote for October next.

Arthur G. Powell, of Blakely, Ga., a former pupil whom I love almost as a son, and who is conceeded to be the best lawyer in all south Georgia; my second choice is Hon. Frederick C. Foster, who, like myself, is a native of Morgan county. He and I were both prepared for college in the private schools at Madison and afterwards repaired to Mercer university and afterwards repaired to Mercer did institution of learning.

Hon. Fred. C. Foster is one of the best known and ablest lawyers and law-book writers in Georgia.

As judge of the Ocmulgee superior court, he gave entire satisfaction to bar and public.

My third preference is Hon. Geo. S. Jones, of Macon, one of three leading attorneys of the Central City. He is highly indorsed by such prominent lawyers as A. C. Bacon, Isaac Hardeman, C. L. Bartlett and others.

My friends, help me elect these three good and worthy men. Very sincerely,

STATE OF GEORGIA—Dodge County.
EASTMAN, Ga., Sept. 27, 1906.

By the members of the Eastman bar, in a meeting held at the courthouse on September 27th, 1906, Mayor J. P. Highsmith presiding, the following resolution endorsing the candidacy of Judge D. M. Roberts was unanimously adopted:

Whereas, the last legislature passed an act creating a court of appeals, consisting of three judges, to be approved by the people on October 3rd, 1906, and there being such great necessity for the creation of such a court, there can be no doubt about its ratification by the people.

And whereas, it is of the utmost importance that judges of experience and ability and judicial training should be selected to fill these important positions, and having in our wiregrass section of south Georgia a man native and to the manor born, of eminent qualification, ripe in experience not only from a general practice, but as judge of the superior courts of the several counties of this circuit for eight years, and confidently believing that he possesses the four cardinal virtues of a judge—ability, courtesy, patience and industry.

Therefore be it Resolved, That in the candidacy of Judge Roberts, we commend him to the people of Georgia, with the assurance that if he should be selected as one of said judges, they will never have cause to regret it, as he is not only able and well qualified, but he has the confidence of all people who know him for judicial integrity.

And without desiring to be sectional we beg to state that Judge Roberts' experience and training has been in cases involving titles to real property in trespass and ejectment cases, for he is considered one of our best lawyers on the subject of title to land as well as being engaged in a large criminal practice. Judge Roberts has the energy and endurance necessary for the work that may come to the court of appeals.

We therefore confidently recommend Judge Roberts to the favorable consideration of the people of Georgia, and hope they will elect him to one of the judgeships on the bench of the court of appeals.

According to a telegram received Saturday morning by Major Millard F. Waltz, military secretary of the department of the gulf, Fort Morgan was completely inundated, six people were killed, and property there was damaged to the extent of $100,0000 by the West Indian hurricane which swept along the gulf coast Monday, wrecking Pensacola and working havoc at New Orleans and Mobile.

This telegram was signed by Captain Dyer, who is in command at Fort Morgan, and was sent Friday. It is very brief and contains but a scant account

DARLING, I'M TIRED OF LIVING WITH YOU

MRS. CHAS. COCHRAN RECEIVED THIS MESSAGE OVER LONG DISTANCE PHONE FROM HER HUSBAND.

"Darling, I'm tired of living with you, so I took my clothes and left."

This startling message was received over the long distance 'phone early Saturday morning by Mrs. Charles Cochran, 185 McAfee street, from her husband for whom at the very moment she was waiting breakfast, but who in reality was standing nearly a hundred miles away at the other end of the line in Macon.

Friday evening Cochran who is a barber at Grubb's shop, Marietta and Alexander streets, came whistling into his home, kissed his wife and nine-months-old baby, chatted a little while and then said:

"Honey, you are looking blue. I have to go to lodge meeting tonight, so you and the baby run over to Aunt Martha's and spend the night. I'll be home soon tomorrow, kitsy. Keep cheerful."

That was the last Mrs. Cochran heard of her husband, who is remarkably gifted with endearing epithets, until the 'phone rang Saturday.

Only Official Ballots Will Be Voted in Primary

Chairman A. L. Miller Gives Out Another Important Statement About Judgesnip Primary--Tickets will Contain All Names.

The receipt in La Grange of a number of alleged official ballots for the court of appeals judgeships, bearing the names of but fifteen candidates, has caused Chairman A. L. Miller of the state committee to again reiterate that no tickets can be voted in the judgeship primary of October 3rd unless the name of every candidate running for one of the judgeships appears thereon.

The tickets received in La Grange are said to have been minus the name of Judge Frank Harwell, himself of La Grange. They are said to have been sent out by another judgeship candidate living in a different section of the state.

The following dispatch to The Journal from Macon explains the matter:

MACON, Ga., Sept. 28.—"None but official ballots can be received by the manager of the primaries," said Chairman A. L. Miller, of the state Democratic executive committee, in referring to the dispatch from La Grange that ballots had been received there, with one of the candidates for the court of appeals, omitted.

"I have already taken the matter up," continued Judge Miller, "with Judge Harwell and the chairman of county, and have informed him that only the official ballots sent out from Macon can be voted. I have sent out the ballots to every county, but have declined to allow candidates have the ballot copied for fear that some typographical error might occur. I informed the candidates that I would be glad to furnish them official ballots with the names of all the candidates thereon at their expense. You can say that no ticket can be voted in the primary unless the names of all candidates appear thereon. The executive committee has been very careful about this matter and intends to see its ruling carried out."

BENJAMIN H. HILL,

Candidate For One of The Judges of The Proposed Court of Appeals.

Ben Hill, as he was affectionately called by his admirers, was the greatest lawyer and orator the south ever produced. His wonderful speeches on the hustings and in the courthouse are still remembered by thousands of Georgians who were thrilled by their eloquence. This marvelously gifted man devoted his genius to the defense of his country and the vindication of its humanity and civilization. The south owes him a debt of gratitude which it can never fully pay. His two sons, Ben H., Jr., and Charles D., have inherited much of their father's legal and oratorical gifts. Ben is regarded by the profession as a lawyer of learning and unof the United States for this district. The position of "standing master" is really that of an equity judge and is a place of great responsibility, requiring both learning and ability of a high order with great industry and labor. Mr. Hill has tried many important equity causes, and so satisfactorily that not one of his decisions has ever been reversed either by the circuit court or the circuit court of appeals.

Ben Hill's friends of the bar, recognizing his fine judicial equipment and peculiar fitness for judicial honors, have frequently urged him to offer for the bench. At the beginning of this year, his name was presented to Governor Terrell as a suitable successor of Judge John S. Candler for the vacancy on the supreme bench.

Ben Hill, as he was affectionately called by his admirers, was the greatest lawyer and orator the south ever produced. His wonderful speeches on the hustings and in the courthouse are still remembered by thousands of Georgians who were thrilled by their eloquence. This marvelously gifted man devoted his genius to the defense of his country and the vindication of its humanity and civilization. The south owes him a debt of gratitude which it can never fully pay. His two sons, Ben H., Jr., and Charles D., have inherited much of their father's legal and oratorical gifts. Ben is regarded by the profession as a lawyer of learning and unusual ability and a speaker of force and logic. Charles D. is universally looked upon as a most brilliant speaker and the most forceful criminal lawyer in Georgia. These two brothers have never been aspirants for political office, each having held only the position of solicitor general of the Atlanta circuit. Ben served the state most efficiently for eight years as solicitor general and made a reputation as an able, faithful and just public official. He declined re-election for a third term and was succeeded by his brother, C. D. Hill was first elected by the legislature in 1885 by a majority of one vote, since which time he has held the office practically without opposition and will probably hold it as long as he lives. His ambition seems to have been satisfied by this office and although he has made great reputation and popularity and repeatedly urged by many friends to seek higher political honors, he has always declined and never entered politics and never made a speech outside of the courthouse. In 1882, on the death of Senator Hill, Ben, Jr., was offered the appointment to fill the unexpired term in the United States senate by Governor Colquitt. The tender was made on the petition of a great many prominent citizens of the state, but the son in a letter to the governor, which was highly complimented, refused the honor. In 1885 he was appointed United States district attorney for the northern district of Georgia by President Cleveland and served for four years with credit to himself and satisfaction to the government. At the expiration of the term he formed a partnership with his brother and has since been practicing law in Atlanta, taking no active part in politics, except to help his friends and to support Democratic principles and standard bearers. Some years ago, Justice White, of the supreme court, and Judges Pardee and Newman, of the circuit and district courts, appointed him "standing master in chancery" of the circuit court of the United States for this district. The position of "standing master" is really that of an equity judge and is a place of great responsibility, requiring both learning and ability of a high order with great industry and labor. Mr. Hill has tried many important equity causes, and so satisfactorily that not one of his decisions has ever been reversed either by the circuit court or the circuit court of appeals.

Ben Hill's friends of the bar, recognizing his fine judicial equipment and peculiar fitness for judicial honors, have frequently urged him to offer for the bench. At the beginning of this year, his name was presented to Governor Terrell as a suitable successor of Judge John S. Candler for the vacancy on the supreme bench, but the governor thought it wise to select a man from the southern part of the state. He was then asked by many friends to run before the people for one of the three positions on the supreme court to be filled October 3 next, but he declined to antagonize either one of the three judges who had been appointed by Governor Terrell, on the ground that he had joined the bar in asking the governor to appoint Judge Lumpkin and Judges Beck and Atkinson were his close personal friends, whose services and ability entitled them to election by the people. It will thus be seen that Ben Hill is not a personal office seeker. His friends all over Georgia are now pressing his claim for a place on the proposed court of appeals. The lawyers of Atlanta have, in a splendid tribute to his personal character, legal attainments and peculiar fitness, urged him to enter the race, and in this tribute declare that "he possessed in a marked degree all the elements that go to make a good judge," ability, learning, fairness and industry. In reply, Mr. Hill states that "relying on their estimate of his fitness, and in response to an ambition to serve the people in a judicial capacity," he consents to become a candidate. And why should not the people of Georgia elect Ben Hill to this position? His character is unblemished, and habits are temperate and above reproach, he has lived an honorable life and has the respect and confidence of all who know him. His professional brethren declare that he is fully equipped to discharge the duties of this high office. He has never vexed the people by appeals for office and he has a name beloved and honored by the entire south. Without disparaging the claims of the other candidate, I express the earnest hope that the people of the state will select him as one of the members of the proposed court.

S. G. McLendon, who is opposed by T. C. Crenshaw, and is running as an independent candidate. Mr. McLendon was nominated on the floor of the convention as the democratic nominee to succeed Joseph M. Brown, railroad commissioner, whose term of office expires on October 15, 1907. Judge A. L. Miller, chairman of the state democratic executive committee, declined to print Mr. Crenshaw's name on the official ballot.

The only other contest offered to the voters of Fulton county in the election of Wednesday is that between Robert F. Maddox, Dr. George Y. Pierce and Thomas M. Poole, all of whom are candidates for the position of commissioner of roads and revenues to succeed Hubert L. Culberson, who resigns that position on December 31 to assume his duties as treasurer of Fulton county.

All other candidates for county offices were nominated in the democratic primary of August 22, and are without opposition.

New Court of Appeals.

Particular attention is called to the question of the ratification of the amendment to the constitution establishing the new court of appeals. Voters are one and all urged to vote for this amendment, the establishment of this court being a matter in which every citizen of the state is vitally interested. The state supreme court has been heavily overburdened with business and unless relief is afforded by the establishment of the court of appeals cases now pending on appeal before the supreme court will be affirmed by operation of law, and the decision of the lower court thus affirmed without the merits of such cases being determined by the court of last resort. If the amendment is ratified by the voters on Wednesday the court will be established and begin its sessions on January 1, and many cases now pending in the supreme court will be at once transferred to the new court.

Voters are also urged to vote for the ratification of the amendment to the constitution creating the county of Ben Hill, of which Fitzgerald will be the county seat, and for the amendment authorizing the legislature to provide additional superior court judges when the business in any circuit justifies such action.

In addition to voting for the regular democratic nominees for state and county offices on Wednesday, the people will also vote in a separate ballot box for the nomination of three judges of the court of appeals, which is to be established January 1, provided the people at this election ratify the proposed amendment to the constitution, and that they will do so there is no doubt. The three judges thus nominated will be elected at the congressional election to be held in November.

This slue primary election will be a hat-box election in Fulton county, twenty-two large, new hat boxes having been provided yesterday morning by Secretary Charles N. Allen for the reception of the votes cast in this primary election, Daniel Bros. Company having furnished this democratic nominees for state and county offices on Wednesday, the people will also vote in a separate ballot box for the nomination of three judges of the court of appeals, which is to be established January 1, provided the people at this election ratify the proposed amendment to the constitution, and that they will do so there is no doubt. The three judges thus nominated will be elected at the congressional election to be held in November.

This side primary election will be a hat-box election in Fulton county, twenty-two large, new hat boxes having been provided yesterday morning by Secretary Charles N. Allen for the reception of the votes cast in this primary election, Daniel Bros. Company having furnished this novel election paraphernalia. The hat boxes have the usual slip cut in the top, and will be securely sealed and in every way made as safe as the wooden, battle-scarred boxes in which the ballots for the state and county nominees will be deposited.

None but ballots bearing the names of all sixteen candidates for the three places on the new court of appeals can be voted at the state democratic primary to be held next Wednesday, October 3. This is the ruling of State Chairman Miller and reiterated by him in a statement given out to the press today.

The names of all sixteen candidates, three of whom "must" be voted for by every voter depositing a ballot, are as follows: Frank Harwell, Barlow S. Willingham, Howard Van Epps, Richard B. Russell, D. M. Roberts, P. P. Pruitt, A. G. Powell, H. C. Peeples, George S. Jones, Charles G. Jones, Benjamin H. Hill, W. M. Henry, W. R. Hammond, Thomas C. Green, Frederick C. Foster and Thomas J. Chappell.

When Judge Miller's attention was called to the protest from Lafrange, he said:

"I have already taken the matter up with Judge Harwell and the chairman of the county, and have informed him that only the official ballots sent out from Macon can be voted. I have sent out the ballots to every county, but have declined to allow candidates have the ballot copied for, fear that some typographical error might occur. I informed the candidates that I would be glad to furnish them official ballots with the names of all the candidates thereon at their expense. You can say that no ticket can be voted in the primary unless the names of all candidates appear thereon. The executive committee has been very careful about this matter and intends to see its ruling carried out."

Official Democratic Ballot.

The official democratic ballot for state and county officers is as follows:

For Governor—Hoke Smith.

For Secretary of State—Philip Cook.

For Comptroller General—William A. Wright.

The polling places in the city will be located as follows:

First Ward—Curtis drug store, corner Forsyth and Mitchell streets.

Second Ward—County court house.

Third Ward—Cole's store, corner Fair and Fraser streets.

Fourth Ward—Pierce's store, corner Auburn avenue and Jackson street.

Fifth Ward—A. J. Martin Hardware Company's store, 248 Marietta street.

Sixth Ward—94 North Pryor street.

Seventh Ward—Mrs. M. I. Florence's store, 206 Lee street.

Eighth Ward—Judge Langston's court room, 824 Peachtree street.

Polls open at 7 o'clock a. m. and close 7 o'clock p. m.

In the country precincts the polls will be located at the same places in the following districts as they were on the day of the democratic primary election held on August 22: Adamsville district; Battle Hill, Edgewood, Collins, Hapeville, Cook's, Oak Grove, Peachtree, South Bend, Black Hall, East Point, Bryant's, Buckhead and College Park.

Polls open at 8 o'clock a. m. at the country precincts and close at 3 o'clock.

DOG RAN AMUCK BITING TWO

Family of S. M. Carson Visited by Second Tragedy This Year.

Covington, September 29.—(Special.)—Several days ago a mad dog ran amuck near Mansfield and before it was killed had bitten two persons. The first victim was the little 7-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Carson. The little girl was attacked by the dog while playing in the yard and was bitten on one of her hands. Accompanied by Dr. W. E. Knight, of Mansfield, Mr. Carson carried the little girl to Atlanta for treatment at the Pasteur institute.

From the Carson place the dog proceeded to Newborn, and after biting a negro child, was killed by Robert Harwell. The head of the dog was immediately shipped to Atlanta, where an examination developed evidence of hydrophobia.

The family of Mr. Carson was visited by a similar, though more tragic, misfortune about this time last year, when a young child was accidentally run over and killed by a two-horse wagon loaded with cotton.

Hon. B. H. Hill Commended By Georgia Newspapers

South Owes Hill Debt.

The people of Georgia—in fact, the whole south—owe a great deal to Ben Hill. He saved us from the worst of the humiliations of reconstruction times and was the first southern congressman to reply to the taunts of northern congressmen against the south. Our yoke was heavy and an ungenerous foe who didn't know the meaning of magnanimity were making our burden almost heavier than we could bear; and when Ben Hill rushed on the floor of representatives and replied to Blaine's insults the whole country was astounded. The north mocked while the south was all anticipation.

In two hours after the speech was delivered he was the hero of the whole south. We owe this man's memory more than we owe to the memory of any man, and we dare say that four-fifths of the old soldiers, ku klux and sons of old soldiers who were old enough to understand these things will vote for Ben Hill, Jr., for judge of the court of appeals on account of our debt to his father. The old soldier don't forget such men as Ben Hill. Besides all this, Ben Hill, Jr., is a good lawyer and in every way competent to make an acceptable judge.—Cordele Rambler.

Hill's Ability Unquestioned.

At the solicitation of a numerously signed petition by the Atlanta bar, Hon. Benj. H. Hill has announced his candidacy for one of the places on the proposed court of appeals. Mr. Hill is well known to a great many people of the state and especially here in Augusta, and there is no doubt of his great ability and fitness for the office for which he aspires.—Augusta Herald.

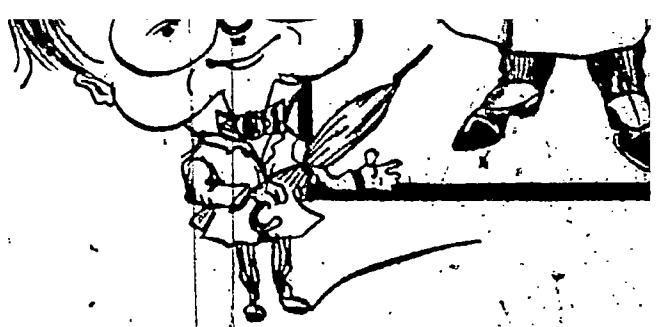

Possesses Fine Legal Ability.

Mr. Hill is one of the ablest and most prominent lawyers and Democrats in the state, and his many friends throughout Georgia will read his announcement with much pleasure.

After his graduation he practiced law, being associated with his distinguished father, the late United States Senator Benjamin H. Hill, with whom he remained until the latter's death. During his career he has held some of the most important legal positions in the state, and in all of them he has acquitted himself with great credit. He is a man of fine legal ability, and would make the state a most excellent judicial officer.—Columbus Ledger.

Honor Belongs to Him.

Announcement is made that Benjamin H. Hill is a candidate for a seat on the bench of the court of appeals. The elevation of this able and distinguished citizen to that position would reflect the highest credit on that branch of the judiciary and by almost common consent he would be selected as a man to whom such honors properly belong. He comes of a family which ranks high in the judicial annals of the state. His father was one of the most eloquent and gifted men the south has ever produced. It would be in the nature of the entire fitness of things for such a man as Mr. Hill to be elevated to the position for which he has been proposed, and it would add strength and strength to the recently

It would be in the nature of the entire fitness of things for such a man as Mr. Hill to be elevated to the position for which he has been proposed, and it would lend dignity and strength to the recently established court of appeals.—The Atlanta Georgian.

Lawyer of Unusual Learning.

There are many candidates for the proposed court of appeals, and, without intending to disparage the claims of any of the eminent lawyers who aspire to judicial honors, we desire to state that we will be glad to see Benjamin H. Hill, of Atlanta, selected by the people as one of the three judges if this court is created.

Mr. Hill is known throughout the state as a lawyer of unusual learning and power. He has followed strictly his profession and has never been tempted aside by the allurements of political position.—Dalton Argus.

Stands High as Lawyer.

Hon. Ben Hill is one of the most prominent and well known candidates for a judgeship in the proposed circuit court of appeals and stands high as an able and efficient member of the state bar.

Just how the vote will go in Macon for the three judges is yet to be seen, but one thing seems evident and that is that Mr. Hill will come in for a good big vote in Bibb county.—Macon News.

Name Appeals to Georgians.

The names of Hill and Stephens appeal to all Georgians, and just at this time the people are going to have an opportunity to honor the son of one of them by voting for Hon. Benjamin Hill for judge of the court of appeals.—North Georgia Citizen. (Dalton.)

No Man Surpasses Him.

Among the many candidates for the new court of appeals to be voted on October 3d, is Benjamin H. Hill, of Atlanta. In the organization of this important court it is highly important that lawyers of unquestionable ability and high personal character should be selected. There is no more responsible position under the government than that of appellate court, and the people should see to it that none but the best men are put upon this bench. It is the consensus of opinion that no man in the race surpasses Mr. Hill in legal attainment and personal fitness. We hope that the people of the state will elect him one of the three judges on October 3d, as we believe that in so doing they will secure the services of an able and valuable public servant.—North Georgia Citizen. (Dalton.)

Worthy Son of Worthy Sire.

B. H. Hill, Esq., of Atlanta, is a candidate for judge of the court of appeals, which was recently established by the legislature of Georgia.

Mr. Hill is eminently fitted for the position to which he aspires, is endorsed by all of his brother lawyers of the Atlanta bar and by all other people who are familiar with his standing as a lawyer.

He is a son and namesake of the illustrious Ben Hill, one of the most famous men Georgia ever produced, and is a worthy son of a worthy sire.—Coweta Gazette.

Deserves Support of Veterans.

Editor Augusta Chronicle:

On October 3d we are to vote for three judges for the new appellate court. I imagine there are thousands of people in Georgia, who like myself, are not acquainted with either of the candidates for this high judicial position. It has been a matter of some concern to me as to who I should vote for, because I am not acquainted with any of the candidates. My mind has been fully set upon one of the gentlemen, however, and he shall have my unqualified support. I refer to Hon. B. H. Hill, Jr. A man with such a name and descending from such an ancestry, deserves the support of every old Confederate soldier, and every Georgian—if not for himself alone, then for what his honored father did in his brave and able defence of the southern people in the United States senate and on the Georgia hustings. We cannot forget the great B. H. Hill for what he did, and then let us old Confederates show our appreciation by voting for his son. May he emulate the virtues of his gifted father, and become the traditional mouthpiece of the south.

TECH BEGINS WITH MANY STUDENTS

NINETEENTH ANNUAL SESSION OPENS MONDAY WITH LARGEST ATTENDANCE IN HISTORY.

The nineteenth annual scholastic session of the Georgia School of Technology was opened Monday morning with the largest enrollment of students in the history of the institution.

Class and shop work was begun immediately after the term was opened by Dr. K. G. Matheson, president of the college, who in a few appropriate remarks outlined the duties of the students during the coming year.

The first administration of Dr. Matheson as the active president begins under the most favorable auspices. While he was chairman of the faculty last year, Dr. Matheson began several improvements in the curriculum of the college, which will be perfected under his presidency.

The new school of mines, under the direction of Assistant State Geologist S. W. McCallie, the equipment of the new chemical laboratory, and the appointment of four additional members of the faculty, testify to the school's advancement.

The last examination was concluded Saturday and from now on the students will be steadily at work.

Regular State Election To Be Held Wednesday

In Addition to Election Court of Appeals Judgeship Primary Will Also Occur.

The regular state election, coupled with the appellate court judgeship primary, will be held on Wednesday—the first Wednesday in October, as the law provides. Hon. Hoke Smith, of Atlanta, will be formally chosen as chief executive of Georgia, to succeed Governor J. M. Terrell, whose term of office will expire next June, and the other candidates nominated by the state Democratic convention will be formally elected, as will also several supreme court justices and superior court judges for every judicial circuit in the state.

The Democratic nominees, in most instances, will be opposed by Socialist nominees. J. B. Osborn heads the ticket of his party, and will oppose Hoke Smith for governor. The other nominees of the Socialist party have been published in The Journal.

Hon. S. G. McLendon, the regular Democratic nominee for railroad commissioner, to succeed Hon. Joseph M. Brown, has opposition in the person of Hon. T. C. Crenshaw, who is running independently.

In addition to formally electing the Democratic candidates, the voters on Wednesday will express themselves relative to the proposed court of appeals and also upon the creation of the proposed county of Ben Hill. Both are constitutional amendments, and a majority of the voters participating in the election must ratify the amendments before either of them becomes a law.

The same managers who conduct the general election will also have charge of the judgeship primary. Separate boxes for the primary have been provided.

There are sixteen candidates—all Democrats—running in the judgeship primary. In the event the constitutional amendment creating the court of appeals is ratified in the general election, the three candidates for the judgeships receiving the highest number of votes will be declared the Democratic nominees for the positions. They will be formally elected in November.

The success of the court of appeals amendment is practically assured, and, as a result, considerable interest is felt throughout the state in the nomination of the three judges. Under the rules of the Democratic party all voters participating in the primary must vote for three candidates, no single-shotting being allowed.

The state committee has provided that no tickets not bearing the names of all the candidates shall be counted in the primary.

South Owes Hill Debt.

The people of Georgia—in fact, the whole south—owe a great deal to Ben Hill. He saved us from the worst of the humiliations of reconstruction times and was the first southern congressman to reply to the taunts of northern congressmen against the south. Our yoke was heavy and an ungenerous foe who didn't know the meaning of magnanimity were making our burden almost heavier than we could bear; and when Ben Hill rushed on the floor of representatives and replied to Blaine's insults the whole country was astounded. The north mocked while the south was all anticipation.

In two hours after the speech was delivered he was the hero of the whole south. We owe this man's memory more than we owe to the memory of any president of the Southern States Smith, was arrested and bound over to the district court yesterday on the charge of living unlawfully with five wives.

The complaint was sworn to by a Mormon deputy sheriff, the warrant was served by order of a Mormon sheriff and the committing magistrate is also a Mormon.

President Smith was arraigned immediately after his arrest and waived preliminary hearing. After being bound over he was released on his own recognizance.

The complaint was made from a distinctly anti-Mormon source. The county attorney refused to approve a prosecution on this charge. The attorney was then cited to appear in court and show cause why he should not be compelled to act in the matter.

After the hearing the court found that the attorney was justified in refusing to prosecute, because the complainant offered no evidence that the mother of the child was not the wife of President Smith.

SPECULATION RIFE AS TO JUDGESHIP COMBINE

Report Goes Rounds in Macon That Three Candidates Join Chances.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

MACON, Ga., Oct. 2.—There is a report going the rounds in Macon today that Judge R. B. Russell, late candidate for chief justice of the supreme court, governor of Georgia and now candidate for a judge's place on the court of appeals, has formed a combine with two other judges in the race, and that the combination is playing hard to win. Just who the other two candidates are hasn't developed here, but from letters received from the Ninth congressional district by parties in Macon it is believed that the combination exists.

The people of Macon, however, will hardly vote for Russell this time, but will support George S. Jones, the Macon candidate, Henry C. Peeples, of Atlanta, and Arthur Gray Powell, of Blakely. It is the general belief here that these three men are the best ones in the race, and that they are going to win, despite the combination made by Russell.

A good vote is going to be polled here on the day of the election, and although there was some opposition to the amendment for the new court at first there has been very little of it lately. It is thought that the amendment will go through so far as this county is concerned, and the general opinion seems to be here that the people of the state as a whole will vote for the amendment.

Mr. Jones' friends here are very confident of his success. He has been endorsed by the people of the county and has been voluntarily given the unanimous endorsement of the Macon bar.

PHYSICIAN KILLED ON STEPS OF TROLLEY

(By Associated Press.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Oct. 2.—Dr. Randolph Croft Soney, a well known physician was instantly killed and two other passengeras were seriously injured while standing on the steps of a northbound Devisidero car last night. A car approaching in the opposite direction left the track at a switch, said to have been defective, and crashed into the first car. W. B. McRae and Clarence Howell were also caught between the cars.

Dr. Stoney was a son-in-law of J. J. Wilson, president of the San Francisco National bank. He came of a well known Charleston, S. C., family. He achieved distinction as a military surgeon in the Spanish war.

HON. THOMAS F. GREEN FOR JUDGE OF THE NEW COURT OF APPEALS

Hon. Thomas F. Green, of Athens, is now considered one of the foremost candidates in the race for a position on the new court of appeals in this state, should the people adopt the amendment creating the court at the election next Wednesday.

From every section of the state, from personal friends, from acquaintances and from men who know him only by reputation, come assurances of hearty and active support in his race. The people have been doing some investigating on their own motion and they have found that the candidate put forward by the Athens bar with its unanimous indorsement, is one of the ablest and best lawyers in the state, well qualified in every way for the position he seeks.

Mr. Green has been at the bar for the past seventeen years, having graduated from the University of Georgia in 1889. His experience as a lawyer has been wide and varied. He has been given an insight into all branches of the law, as well as a thorough knowledge of the procedure of all the courts. His mind is naturally judicial, and he possesses every qualification for a judge. He is wise, conservative, careful, upright.

In addition to an unquestioned ability, he possesses a character unblemished, and is an advocate at all times of sobriety and morality. His position in the community in which he lives is attested by the solid front of the people of Athens in support of his candidacy.

Mr. Green is at present lecturer on federal law in the law department of the University of Georgia, a position held up to the time of his death by the late Chancellor Walter B. Hill. He is a grandson of the late Chancellor Andrew A. Lipscomb, of the University of Georgia, and much of the ability of that distinguished Georgia educator and scholar descends to the grandson.

Georgians who are looking for a man of unquestioned ability, high character, abundant courage and convictions, experience in his profession and conservatism in his judgment, will find in Mr. Green the man of their choice for the position of judge of the court of appeals. Adv.

GENERAL STATE ELECTION IN GEORGIA WEDNESDAY

Coupled With Election Will Be the Appelate Court Judgeship Primary.

The qualified voters of Georgia—white and black—will on Wednesday, October 3d, participate in the regular state election, when a governor, state house officers, supreme court justices and superior court judges will be formally chosen. Coupled with this election will be a white primary for the nomination of three judges for the proposed court of appeals, and in the primary only white people will be permitted to vote.

Hon. Hoke Smith, Democrat, is opposed for governor by Hon. J. B. Osborn, Socialist, and a number of the other regular Democratic nominees are opposed by candidates of the Socialist party.

Hon. S. G. McLendon, of Thomasville, Democrat, is opposed by Hon. T. C. Crenshaw, an independent, for railroad commissioner.

Mr. McLendon, one of the best qualified men in the state, was nominated for the railroad commissionership by the Democratic party of Georgia in convention assembled at Macon. His nomination was unanimous.

Mr. Crenshaw has in times past been honored by the Democratic party, and hundreds of people throughout the state are at a loss to understand his present conduct. He has bolted the nomination and is running independently, though it is understoood he would have gladly accepted the nomination of the Macon convention had it been tendered to him.

Mr. Crenshaw has served as a railroad commissioner.

As it is practically assured that all the Democratic nominees will be elected, none of the opposition having developed any strength, interest centers in the court of appeals amendment and the primary for the nomination of three judges to serve the court in the event the amendment is ratified.

A majority of the voters participating in the primary must record themselves as in favor of the amendment, otherwise the proposed court will be defeated. It is believed, however, that the amendment will be ratified by a safe majority.

Sixteen candidates are running for the three judgeships, and in the primary for their nomination every voter participating must vote for three. No single-shotting will be allowed. The three candidates receiving the highest number of votes will be declared the Democratic nominees for the positions, and they will be formally elected in November.

GEORGIA MAN KILLSSELFIN CALIFORNIA

JACKSON, Ga., Oct. 2.—O. S. Carmichael, the 23-year-old son of David S. Carmichael, prominent and wealthy farmer of Butts county, is reported to have shot himself to death on the streets at Stockton, Cal., on the night of September 28th.

It was at first reported that A. J. G. Carmichael was dead in Stockton, Cal., but the family of the dead man have received information that it was O. S. Carmichael, he being identified by J. W. Lummus, who served with him in the Spanish American war, and who is now in California.

Mr. Carmichael comes from one of Butts county's most prominent families, but for several years he has been out west. The sad news has caused a gloom on his friends here.

PRESS PUSHES PEEPLES

Newspapers of Georgia Advocate Atlanta Candidat For Court of Appeals.

To Henry C. Peeples and his thousands of friends throughout the state nothing is more gratifying than the manner in which his candidacy is being received by the press of Georgia.

The natural reluctance of newspapers to urge upon their readers the fitness of one of a large number of candidates for judicial honors has not interfered with their high commendation of Mr Peeples.

The following editorial comments from leading newspapers in different sections of Georgia indicate the widespread strength of the candidacy of Mr Peeples.

From the Savannah Press.

Mr. Henry C. Peeples, of Atlanta, will be a candidate for one of the places on the court of appeals of the state of Georgia to be decided upon next month in the state election. Mr Peeples was a former law partner of the Hon Hoke Smith and is one of the best and ablest men in the state. He is a son of the late Cincinnatus Peeples and is a lawyer of great ability and acumen. He took first place at the bar shortly after entering upon the practice of his profession. He has never been a candidate for any public office. But his ambition leads him naturally to ask for a place upon the bench of this new appellate court. Mr Peeples will have a following all over the state from lawyers and friends anxious to see him occupy this place and anxious to see the court so well fortified and so well equipped. If the Press had its way it would certainly award a place to Henry Peeples among the three jurists to be chosen on the 3rd instant.

From the Americus Times-Recorder.

Hon. Henry C. Peeples, of Atlanta, is a candidate for judge of the appellate court judgeship, the election to take place October 3rd. Mr. Peeples is unquestionably one of the best lawyers in the state, and is a gentleman of rare attainments. He is not a politician, but has made the profession of law his life work. For many years he was a partner of Mr. Hoke Smith. He is a son of the late Judge Cincinnatus Peeples, one of Georgia's most distinguished jurists, and a grandson of Hon. Elbridge Cabaniss, of Forsyth, who after a well spent and honorable career as lawyer and churchman went to his reward twenty-five years ago. Mr. Peeples is in every sense a high-minded, distinguished lawyer, and if elected Georgia will have cause to be proud of him on the bench.

From the DeKalb New Era.

There is Henry C. Peeples, lately a partner of Hon. Hoke Smith, the Democratic nominee for governor. Mr. Peeples is a man of the highest moral and professional character. He has had much experience as a reporter of the supreme court, and is thoroughly familiar with all the duties of an appellate judg

JUDGE HENRY'S ADDRESS TO VOTERS OF NORTHWEST GA.

ROME, Ga., Oct. 2.—Judge W. M. Henry, of Rome, is one of the leading candidates for judge of the court of appeals, the primary to select a candidate coming off tomorrow.

Judge Henry held the position of judge of the superior court of the Rome circuit for twelve years, and is one of the best known lawyers in Georgia.

He is strongly endorsed by the bar of the Rome circuit and will receive an immense vote throughout north Georgia, and will get a large vote wherever he is known.

Bellow is a letter addressed to the people of northeast Georgia:

"TO THE PEOPLE OF NORTHWEST GEORGIA:

"I am a candidate for the nomination, at the primary election to be held on Wednesday, as one of the three judges of the court of appeals.

"You readily understand that, in making a race like this, covering the entire state, and necessarily made in a few days, it is utterly impossible to make a canvass by seeing the people, or even by writing them letters. So I take this method of speaking to you, and of respectfully soliciting the votes of the good people among whom I have always lived and whom I served for many years on the bench.

"In this election, counties do not count, but the three men who have the highest aggregate number of votes, in the whole state, will be the nominees.

"May I not therefore respectfully urge that each of you not only go to the election on the 3rd, but also ask your neighbors and friends to do so and vote not only for your state and county nominees, and for your constitutional amendments, but also for three judges of this court which will be second in its importance and usefulness to no court in Georgia?

"Cherokee, Georgia, with a white population, in character second to none in this or any other state, and in numbers equal to one-fourth of the entire white population of the state, has had no representative on the supreme court bench for nearly forty years. Surely this splendid section of the state is now entitled to representation on the court of appeals bench.

WILLINGHAM FOR APPELLATE JUDGE

Well Known And Able Forsyth Attorney One Of The Strong Candidates. Something Of His Career.

HON. BARTOW S. WILLINGHAM.

Of the numerous candidates for a place on the cour tof appeals, none are better qualified for the position than B. S. Willingham, of Forsyth, Ga. He is in no sense a politician, and if elected will devote his entire time and energy to the office. He has for twenty-two years devoted himself exclusiyely to his profession, and enjoys a practice to no lawyer in his section. Possessed of robust constitution, studious habits, keen analytical mind and fine moral character he would make an ideal judge. He enjoys the confidence to the fullest extent of all who know him as is evidenced by the enthusiastic support given him from every section of the state.

We print below several chippings, showing how his candidacy is being received in different parts of the state:

Hon. Bartow Willingham.

McDuffie Journal.

It may not be generally known, but McDuffie county has a candidate for one of the three positions on the new court of appeals, and the indications are that he will be one of the successful contestants. Hon. Bartow Willingham, of Monroe county, who has entered the race, is an old McDuffie boy who had won fame and fortune in his adopted county. He has had many positions of honor and trust conferred upon him by the people of Monroe county, and in addition to this stands at the head of the legal profession in his section of the state and is well qualified for the position he seeks. A primary election has been called to be held on the same day the state election is held, to nominate three justices for the court of appeals, and we believe that the voters of McDuffie county will give Mr. Willingham a very large majority in his old home county.

ing safety to the public good:

Mr. Willingham a Candidate.

From Americus Recorder.

Hon. Bartow S. Willingham, of Forsyth, Ga., has announced his candidacy for judge of the court of appeals—the court that was created recently by an act of the legislature. The editor of the Times-Recorder has had a long personal acquaintance with Mr. Willingham and knows him to be one of the ablest and most scholarly lawyers of the state. He is a man of unflinching honor and enjoys the highest respect and esteem of all who know him. Georgia has few men who have his high political integrity, and the Times-Recorder takes great pleasure in commending him to the voters of this section. Mr. Willingham has a high appreciation of the responsibility of the office, and the ethics of the situation will prevent him entering into any combination. He should be elected to this office without a scramble. No man deserves better the position than does Bartow S. Willingham, of Monroe.

From Milledgeville News.

When that state appellate court is established—if ratified by the voters at the next election—good men and not politicians should be put on the bench. Our friend, Col. B. S. Willingham, of Forsyth, would make a good one to draw two more to.

From the Rome Tribune:

Colonel B. S. Willingham, of Forsyth, Ga., is in our city shaking hands with his friends, and he wants everybody to be his friend just now, and at all times in fact, but he is engaged in widely extending his circle of friends and acquaintances on this particular visit, as he is a candidate for appellate judge, if we have any. And why not? He is a fine fellow and would make a good one.

Hon. B. S. Willingham.

From the Golden Age:

One of the prominent men before the people of Georgia now is Hon. B. S. Willingham, of Forsyth. He has announced himself for a place on the bench in the court of appeals to be established by the present legislature, and while the Golden Age is not a political paper and is intended to be a servant, especially of the whole south, we count it wholly within the province of this publication to commend in Georgia and everywhere else any man for any position, political or otherwise, when that man has such a record for moral bravery and Christian statesmanship as Bartow S. Willingham has made both in private life and public endeavor.

As author of the famous Willingham bill—one of the strongest temperance measures ever offered to the people of Georgia—he won not only a state-wide, but almost a national, reputation. His able advocacy of that bill proved that he was a man of superior strength and unflinching courage. An astute lawyer, with a rare equipoise of mind and a refreshingly regnant conscience, he blends the judicial qualities as few men do.

We do not know how many good men are going to offer for the court of appeals; but we believe that one of the three places ought to be filled, and will be filled by Hon. Bartow S. Willingham; for the whole state recognizes the fact that he would meet the demands of this highly responsible position with distinction to himself, honor to the judiciary and inspiration to who know him. Georgia has few men who have his high political integrity, and the Times-Recorder takes great pleasure in commending him to the voters of this section. Mr Willingham has a high appreciation of the responsibility of the office, and the ethics of the situation will preclude him entering intl any combination. He should be elected to this office without a scramble. No man deserves better the position than does Bartow S. Willingham, of Monroe.

From Milledgeville News.

When that state appellate court is established if ratified by the voters at the next election—good men and not politicians should be put on the bench. Our friend, Col B. S Willingham, of Forsyth, would make a good one to draw two more to.

From The Athens Banner.

COLONEL WILLINGHAM, OF FORSYTH

Spent Yesterday in the City — Is a Candidate For Judge of Court of Appeals.

Hon. B. S. Willingham, of Forsyth, spent yesterday in the city. Mr. Willingham is a candidate for one of the places as judge of the proposed court of appeals and has many friends throughout the state who are enthusiastic for him. Mr. Willingham lived in this city for a while and has many warm friends here who will give him their support. He is an able lawyer and well qualified to fill the office of judge.

From the Milledgeville Recorder.

Colonel B. S. Willingham, of Forsyth, was in the city this week circulating among his many friends. He is in the race and hopes to be elected one of the three judges of the proposed new appellate court of the state. He is a good fellow and is in every way qualified to fill the office. If the voters want to put the best men at the head of this new and necessary court they will include Colonel Willingham on their ticket as one of the three judges.

From Henry County Weekly.

Hon. B. S. Willingham, of Monroe county, is a candidate for one of the judgeships on the proposed court of appeals. Mr. Willingham is a man of fine intellect and fully equipped with the attainments necessary to successfully fill this important position. He is the only candidate from the Flint circuit, and should receive the solid support of Henry and other counties in the circuit.

Col. B. S. Willingham.

From the Monroe Advertiser:

Colonel B. S. Willingham has announced that he will be in the race for one of the places as judge of the court of appeals recently created by the legislature.

Colonel Willingham ranks as one of the ablest attorneys in Georgia. He has splendid executive ability and has represented his county in the legislature with credit. He has many supporters throughout Georgia who will give every encouragement. Colonel Willingham has every reason to believe that his candidacy will meet with favor throughout the state and that he will be one of the successful aspirants.

From the Moultrie Observer:

Hon. Bartow S. Willingham, of Forsyth, was in this section a few days ago in the interest of his candidacy for one of the places on the appellate court. Mr. Willingham made a favorable impression upon south Georgians on this trip and received the warmest assurances of support on all sides.

His friends sa ytlhat he will carry the middle section of the state almost solidly and they feel quite sure that he will be one of the winners for the appellate court judgeship.

Mr. Willingham is one of the ablest lawyers of the state and enjoys a lucrative practice, second to no lawyer in the Flint circuit. He has the endorsement of the bar of his circuit and the other counties in that section of the state where he has practiced his profession for more than twenty years. He is not a politician and has never been in politics further than to serve his county in the general assembly, where he pushed the Willingham prohibition bill to passage in the lower house of the assembly the first and only time that this measure has been passed. He has for several years been one of the most active temperance leaders in the state.

Mr. Willingham is a man with a judicial turn of mind and with his long experience at the bar and natural endowments and high character he is peculiarly fitted for the position he seeks and entitled of all who know him. Georgia has few men who have his high political integrity, and the Times-Recorder takes great pleasure in commending him to the voters of this section. Mr Willingham has a high appreciation of the responsibility of the office, and the ethics of the situation will preclude him entering intl any combination. He should be elected to this office without a scramble. No man deserves better the position than does Bartow S. Willingham, of Monroe.

Judge Frederick J. Foster

Mr. Editor:

Permit me through your columns to call the attention of the people of Georgia to the eminent qualifications of Judge Frederick C. Foster for one of the judgeships of the proposed court of appeals.

This court is a court of last resort, exactly like the supreme court, and it is of the utmost importance that the people select for its judges our very best lawyers. In fact, if this is not done, it is to be hoped that the amendment will be defeated. The appellate court judges should in every respect be the equal of the supreme court judges. They have similar duties and equal responsibilities.

I have known Judge Foster all my life. I have practiced with him as a member of this bar, and before him as judge of the superior courts of the Ocmulgee circuit. While on the bench he made the best judge I have ever known. His ability and purity are attested by the fact that, during his term of office, he was reversed by the supreme court only once.

He is the author of "Foster on Bankruptcy," which is accepted as authority throughout the United States. He is among the very greatest lawyers Georgia has ever produced, and is pre-eminently qualified for any judicial office.

Very truly,

Madison, Ga., Sept. 29, 1906. EMERSON H. GEORGE.

Hoke Smith and J. B. Osborn Candidates for Governor.

Voters Will Cast Ballots For or Against the Establishment of a Court of Appeals, and Will Also Vote for Judges.

Tomorrow, as the law provides, the regular state election, coupled with the appellate court judgeship primary, will be held.

Hon. Hoke Smith, the democratic nominee, will be opposed by J. B. Osborn, the socialist candidate. In several instances, democratic nominees will be opposed by socialists. Hon. S. G. McLendon, the regular democratic nominee for railroad commissioner to succeed Hon. Joseph M. Brown, has opposition in Hon. T. C. Crenshaw, an independent.

Voters, in addition to electing a governor and other officials, will express themselves on the proposed court of appeals, as well as the creation of Ben Hill county, both being constitutional amendments, and a majority of voters casting ballots being necessary to become a law.

Great interest is felt in the judgeship race. There are sixteen candidate in the race, and in case the court is created the three candidates receiving the highest number of votes will be declared nominees, and will be regularly elected in November.

Chairman A. L. Miller has issued the following statement regarding the official ballot:

"The attention of the election managers who will hold the general election and the primary on Wednesday next, is called to the following matter:

"I am informed that certain ballots, with the name of one of the candidates for the proposed court of appeals omitted therefrom, are being distributed in the state. These ballots are also defective in other particulars.

"No ballot should be received and counted by the election managers in the court of appeals primary, except the official ballot furnished by me to the county chairmen and candidates. This ballot contains the names of all the candidates, and contains full instructions at the head.

"Democratic papers throughout the state are requested to publish this notice.

A. L. MILLER,

ROOSEVELT BACK AT WHITE HOUSE

Family Ride in Special Car On Pennsylvania.

President Heavily Guarded by Squad of Policemen and Headquarters Detectives as He Walks to His Carriage.

Washington, October 1.—President and Mrs. Roosevelt and three of their children, Miss Ethel and Archie and Quentin, returned to Washington at 4:20 o'clock this afternoon from their summer home at Oyster Bay, Long Island, where they have spent the last three months. The president looked the picture of health as he stepped from the train and cordially greeted a number of acquaintances who were awaiting his arrival. He and Mrs. Roosevelt entered their carriage and were driven to the white house.

The president and his party occupied a special car, which had been attached to the regular Pennsylvania train from New York. In addition to his family those with him included the wife of Secretary Loeb and her infant child, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Richardson, of New York, intimate friends of the president and Mrs. Roosevelt, and who are to be guests at the white house, and M. C. Latta, the assistant secretary to the president, and several of the white house clerical staff.

The president's car was detached from the train before reaching the station, and shifted to a side entrance, where the carriage was in waiting. Here various officials of the government had gathered to welcome the chief executive on his return home.

The president was the first to make his appearance as his special car came to a stop. Surrounded by a squad of policemen and headquarters detectives, Mr. Roosevelt made his way to his carriage, the remainder of the party following his lead. It was raining slightly when the president arrived and the hood of the carriage had to be raised as it proceeded up Pennsylvania avenue to the white house.

CHARLES HUGHES ON TRAIN, CONFERS WITH PRESIDENT

West Philadelphia, October 1.—The conference between President Roosevelt and Charles E. Hughes, which began fifteen minutes before the time for the president's train to leave Jersey City, had not been concluded when the train was about to leave, and the president invited Mr. Hughes to accompany him on his journey. Mr. Hughes left the train at Trenton, and returned to New York. This trip added over an hour to the conference, which was ample for a complete discussion of the New York political situation. At the conclusion of the conference the president said he had nothing to say for publication regarding it, except he was very much interested in the situation which he had discussed thoroughly with Mr. Hughes.

JUDGE C. G. JANES STRONGLY INDORSED

JUDGE C. G. JANES,
Who Is Strongly Backed by the Bar of the Tallapoosa Circuit for One of the Places on the New Appellate Court Bench.

To the Voters of Georgia: The undersigned members of the bar of the Tallapoosa circuit heartily indorse the candidacy of Hon. Charles G. Janes, of Polk county, for one of the places on the court of appeals. Judge Janes presided for twelve consecutive years, from 1891 to 1903, over the courts of the Tallapoosa circuit, making a fine record. We commend him to the people of the state as a man whose learning, ability and character, eminently fit him for the position he seeks.

J. M. Hunt, J. L. Tison, H. H. Carpenter, F. A. Irwin, judge city court of Polk; Joseph A. Blance, G. R. Hutchens, W. C. Bunn, senator thirty-eighth district; W. H. Trawick, C. C. Bunn, Jr., W. W. Mundy, Paul R. Turner, William Janes, L. F. Mundy, nominee for representative; A. J. Camp, R. E. L. Whitworth, F. M. Richards, C. D. McGregor, E. S. Griffith, ex-representative Haralson county; J. M. McBride, ex-representative and ex-senator Haralson county; Walter Matthews, S. B. Weatherly, Lowell McEwen, Herbert McBride, I. G. Brock, S. L. Craven, J. N. Cheney, J. S. James, ex-United States district attorney; W. T. Roberts, ex-solicitor general Tallapoosa circuit; L. Z. Dorsett, J. R. Hutcheson, W. A. James, B. G. Griggs, L. J. Spinks, Price Edwards, nominee judge Tallapoosa circuit; W. G. M. Simmons, president Poke Smith Club Polk county; J. A. Peek, president Estill Club Polk county; W. J. Harris, chairman Polk county democratic executive committee; W. S. Coleman, president Georgia Weekly Press Association; E. B. Russell, editor Cedartown Standard.

Admitting that locality should not control in the selection of the judges of the court of appeals, we beg leave, however, to submit the following statement: The section of the state in which Judge Janes was born and has always lived, called northwest or Cherokee Georgia, embraces about twenty-five prosperous and progressive counties, containing more than one-fifth of the white people of Georgia. In the days of reconstruction this section did much to save the state, and without it the negroes would now constitute a majority of the inhabitants of the state.

Nevertheless, since its creation we have been represented on the supreme court for only the short time of five years, and in the last forty years we have had no representative on the court. We wish also to call attention to the fact that the supreme court is made up of city lawyers. While there is no objection to a fair recognition of the city lawyers, it would be unfair and unwise to take all judges of the two highest courts from the cities alone.

Under the circumstances ought not we be given one of the judges of the court of appeals? Ought we not to have at least one of the nine judges of the two highest courts? We offer a candidate as well qualified for the position as any man in the field, and earnestly appeal to the people of Georgia to support him. With the utmost confidence in their sense of justice and fairness, we confidently expect from them a "square deal."

J. A. Blance, ex-senator thirty-eighth district; F. A. Irwin, judge city court of Polk county; W. C. Bunn, senator thirty-eighth district; Price Edwards, nominee for judge Tallapoosa circuit, and J. M. Hunt, committee.

Doctor Recommends Postum From Personal Test.

No one is better able to realize the injurious action of caffeine—the drug in coffee—on the heart, than the doctor.

When the doctor himself has been relieved by simply leaving off coffee and using Postum, he can refer with full conviction to his own case.

A Mo. physician prescribes Postum for many of his patients because he was benefited by it. He says:

"I wish to add my testimony in regard to that excellent preparation—Postum. I have had functional or nervous heart trouble for over 15 years, and part of the time was unable to attend to my business.

"I was a moderate user of coffee and did not think drinking it hurt me. But on stopping it and using Postum instead, my heart has got all right, and I ascribe it to the change from coffee to Postum.

"I am prescribing it now in cases of sickness, especially when coffee does not agree, or affects the heart, nerves or stomach.

"When made right it has a much better flavor than coffee and is a vital sustain-

Socialists Have Put Out a Ticket Against the Nominees of the Democratic Party—T. C. Crenshaw Is Opposing S. G. McLendon.

This is the day of the general state election, in which state house officers, from governor down through the list, will be voted for, also county officials.

The most important feature of the ballot which will be voted today is the ratification of the amendment to the constitution establishing a court of appeals, which, should the amendment be ratified, will commence its sessions on January 1. Three judges will preside over this court, and they are to be selected today from sixteen candidates for these three positions. Immediately after casting their votes for state and county officers and for the ratification of the amendments to the constitution creating the court of appeals, creating the new county of Ben Hill and conferring on the legislature the power to create additional judges of the superior courts when the business of a circuit necessitates such action, voters cast the separate ballot which will be furnished them with the names of the sixteen candidates for the three judgeships of the new court. From this list of sixteen names the voter must scratched thirteen, leaving the names of the three candidates he is voting for, unscratched. This ballot is to be deposited in a hat box, which will serve for a ballot box at each polling place. Neither more nor less than three candidates may be voted for.

Three general tickets in addition to the court of appeals ticket will be presented to voters at each of the twenty-two polling places in the city and county, the polls opening in the city at 7 o'clock a. m. and closing at 6 o'clock p. m., and opening in the country districts at 8 o'clock a. m. and closing at 3 o'clock p. m. One of these tickets is the official democratic ticket, issued under the directions of Chairman Miller, of the democratic state executive committee; a second will be the ticket issued by T. C. Crenshaw, independent candidate for railroad commissioner against S. G. McLendon, who was nominated in the state democratic convention at Macon for that position, and the third ticket will be that put forth by the socialist party, on which

PAVEMENT SOON FOR PEACHTREE

Street Committee Will Act Early Part of Next Week.

The street committee of the city council will meet early next week to consider the bids made for the repaving of Peachtree street. Three bids are to be considered, which were published in yesterday's Constitution.

Those who have analyzed the bids say that the bid of the Asphalt Paving Company of Georgia to relay asphalt on the street is the best for the city and the property holders. The bid of this company was $1.24 a square yard, and $1.08 if county convict labor is furnished to take up the old pavement.

The bid of the Southern Bitulithic Paving Company was to place bitulithic pavement on the street at $1.15 a square yard if county convict labor was furnished, an 99 cents if the city furnished the stone along with the county labod and plant.

Some of the property holders on Peachtree had wavered between asphalt and bitulithic pavement, believing that the experiment might save a large sum of money. Since the bids have been opened they seem now to think that asphalt is the pavement to be used.

The street committee will make its report when council meets next Monday week.

railroad commissioner against R. G. McLendon, who was nominated in the state democratic convention at Macon for that position, and the third ticket will be that put forth by the socialist party, on which J. B. Osborne, the blind orator and socialist, is a candidate for governor against the democratic nominee, Hoke Smith. A full state house ticket is put out by the socialist party with the exception that they have no candidate for railroad commissioner and no candidates for the judgeships of the court of appeals.

The ticket put out by T. C. Crenshaw, independent candidate for railroad commissioner, is headed "Straight Democratic Ballot," and differs from the official democratic ballot in that Crenshaw's name appears as a candidate for railroad commissioner in place of the name of McLendon. Secretary Charles N. Allen, of the county democratic executive committee, also calls attention to the fact that the Crenshaw ticket may lead to confusion in voting that ticket for commissioner of roads and revenues. The ticket does not specify that C. L. Anderson and E. V. Carter have already been nominated, and the instructions to strike two candidates may lead to voters scratching one or both of these candidates. Two of the following candidates for county commission, to succeed H. L. Culberson, should be scratched by the voter: Robert F. Maddox, Dr. George Y. Pierce and Thomas M. Poole.

In the appellate court judgeship race the probable winners are Judge R. B. Russell, who is leading in about eighty-five counties, Judge A. G. Powell, who is reported to be leading in about sixty counties and H. C. Peeples, who has a lead in about forty of the counties so far reported.

The regular state election held in Georgia yesterday resulted in the practically unanimous election of the democratic nominees, headed by Hoke Smith for governor.

The completed returns from the state will probably not change the standing of the above three candidates, who are in the lead for the new court of appeals bench.

With 16 candidates in the race the returns were necessarily slow in coming in, and as the election is based upon the the popular vote throughout the state, instead of upon the vote of counties in convention as is the case in the selection of state house officers, it will take the official vote to determine the precise standing of the candidates and the exact pluralities of the winners.

Some idea of the general result may be obtained from the consolidated vote (unofficial) of a number of the larger counties of the state.

In Chatham, Judge Russell received 1,619, against Peeples 1,126 and Powell's 989.

In Muscogee, the consolidated vote showed Chappell 827, Russell 338, Powell 321, Hammond 303, Van Epps 173, Hill 112, Harwell 122, Green 119, Peeples 119 and Foster 65.

In Richmond the vote was Foster 429, Chappell 336 and Peeples 284.

Accuse Japanese Using Fire Arms in Bering Sea.

Victoria, October 3.—In consequence of interference with their business in Bering sea by Japanese vessels, a large fleet of which were in the sea this summer, hunting within the prescribed limits and using firearms, the British Columbia sealers are to present a protest to the imperial government. The British Columbia sealers are, bound by the terms of the modus vivendi to remain outside a 60-mile zone and use spears only to take seals. The sealers claim the use of firearms by the Japanese makes the seals so restless that it is only with great difficulty that they can be taken with spears.

CAR ACCIDENT INJURES TWO

R. W. White and M. D. Stowers are lying in the Grady hospital badly injured as the result of a peculiar street car accident which occurred about 2 o'clock this morning, at the corner of Decatur, street and Piedmont avenue.

The car was bound for the Soldiers' home, one running to that point every morning, and White, who is a conductor, was acting as motorman. An express car had just passed the switch at the point of last night's accident and apparently it had been left open, for when White's car reached the place, instead of going straight down Decatur, it suddenly took the curve of the track leading to the power house on Piedmont with such violence that White and a passenger, M. D. Stowers, of East Fair street, were thrown out, sustaining many painful bruises, and it is feared internal injuries. They were taken to the hospital immediately in an ambulance. The injured conductor resides at 81 McLendon street.

The car continued on its course unguided and had gone half a block when W. E. Bender, of 17 Cherokee avenue, who had been hurled under a seat by the sudden swerve, jumped to the platform and stopped its flight between Decatur street and the railroad tracks on Piedmont avenue.

Friends of all Candidates Voted for Nominees of the Primary.

The regular state election held in Georgia yesterday resulted in the practically unanimous election of the democratic nominees, headed by Hoke Smith for governor.

Returns received up to a late hour last night from 110 counties show that the amendment providing for the court of appeals was carried by a safe majority, although there was strong opposition to the amendment in some sections of the state.

In the appellate court judgeship race the probable winners are Judge R. B. Russell, who is leading in about eighty-five counties; Judge A. G. Powell, who is reported to be leading in about sixty counties, and H. C. Peeples, who has to lead in about forty of the counties so far reported.

In the second division are probably Hill, Chappell, Willingham and Green.

For railroad commissioner, Hon. S. G. McLendon carried practically every county against T. C. Crenshaw, his only opponent.

Returns received by The Constitution from every part of the state indicate that the balloting in almost every county was phenomenally light. Little interest was shown in the state ticket, as all factions conceded the finality of the primary result of August 22. The nominees were generally supported by the friends of all the candidates. The regular state ticket made a clean sweep of the field.

The day was practically uneventful. The weather and crop conditions throughout the state probably had its effect in keeping the farmers away from the polls. Not even the constitutional amendments submitted for ratification, nor the contest for three judgeship places on the new appellate court, excited enough interest to overcome the general lethargy of the voters.

The polls closed last night throughout the state at 6 o'clock, but the count of the ballots was rather slow, as there were fifty or sixty names on the lengthy state ticket. Moreover, the election clerks and managers were hampered by the fact that they were expected to keep track of two elections at the same time and look after two ballot boxes. The ballots for state house nominees and the ballots for court of appeals justices were cast at the same voting precincts, though not in the same boxes. Necessarily, the work of consolidating the returns was a little slow and it will be impossible to tell definitely the winners until the official consolidation which occurs in all counties of the state at 12 o'clock today.

The Constitution therefore makes no attempt to present the itemized figures of the election, as the naming of the new

Democratic Candidates for Governor and State House Officers Received Practically Total Vote.

CANDIDATE J. B. OSBORNE GOT 8 VOTES IN FULTON

Many Freak Ballots Were Cast by Voters Yesterday, One Man Scratching All the Candidates but the Coroner.

While the primary election held on August 22 was marked by strenuous effort on the part of all the candidates, the scenes around the twenty-two polling places in the county abounding in excitement and cheers, yesterday's general election was in marked contrast. Only about one-third of the registered voters of the county exercised their right of franchise, and there was not in a single precinct or ward anything which bore the least semblance of excitement.

Few, indeed, were the scratches for state officers. As a whole this ticket was voted straight through from governor on down through the list. Quite a number lost their votes on the question of voting for the ratification of the amendment to the constitution establishing the court of appeals by failing to scratch either the proposition for ratification or against it, and so it was with the other proposed amendments to the constitution, one to confer on the legislature the power to create additional superior court judges, the other to create the new county of Ben Hill. All of these amendments were passed upon favorably, however, by a large majority.

Freak voting was the order of the day. In one city ward a voter cast a ballot on which he had scratched every candidate with the exception of the candidate for county coroner, and on another ballot the coroner and county surveyor were the only two candidates voted for.

Owing to the complexity of the ballot, the returns in the city wards were not compiled until a late hour, the count in the second ward, in which the vote was heaviest, not being completed until 12:30 o'clock this morning.

Hon. Hoke Smith, democratic candidate for governor, received but 55 scratches in the county, and his opponent, J. B. Osborne, the socialist candidate, received but 8 votes in the county. All other state house candidates, county officers and judges and solicitors of the superior courts of the various circuits received the same vote.

The vote for governor in the several wards and precincts of the county was as follows:

	Total vote Cast.	Hoke Smith.
First ward	400	395
Second ward	862	860
Third ward	478	467
Fourth ward	442	437
Fifth ward	462	449
Sixth ward	781	771
Seventh ward	238	231
Eighth ward	279	272
Adamsville	34	31
Battle Hill	36	36
Blackwell	58	58
Bryans	36	34
Buckhead	90	90
Col[illegible]	94	88
Col[illegible] Park	56	56
Co[illegible]	183	183
Ea[illegible] Point	160	160
Ed[illegible]wood	61	60
Hapeville	35	35
Oakgrove	77	77
Peachtree	44	43
South Bend	104	104
Total	4970	4514

B. Osborne, the socialist candidate for governor received the eight votes cast for him in the following wards and precincts, it being notable that he received but one vote outside of the city: First ward 1, third ward 1, fifth ward 1, sixth ward 2, seventh ward 1, Adamsville district 1; total 8.

For ratification of the amendment to the constitution establishing the court of appeals, 3,185 votes were cast in Fulton county, while 240 were voted against the proposition.

The vote in favor of the establishment of Ben Hill county was 3,395, the negative vote being only 105, and the proposition to confer upon the legislature power to create additional superior court judges received 3,248 favorable votes, 279 voting against it.

CRENSHAW GETS SMALL VOTE.

Out of Over Four Thousand Votes in Fulton He Received 40 for Railroad Commissioner.

The vote of T. C. Crenshaw in Fulton county for railroad commissioner was disappointing to his friends. In the entire county he received only 40 votes out of a total of over four thousand. In this county he simply was not in the race at all.

G. McLendon received a total vote of 3,813 to Mr. Crenshaw's forty.

In many precincts Mr. Crenshaw did not receive a single vote.

In the city his vote was only thirty-three and in the country he received just seven votes.

Mrs. Cooke's visits to Atlanta are always a source of great pleasure, and she received a warm welcome from the coterie of close friends invited to meet her yesterday. She was quite as beautiful, bright and charming as she was when Miss Sallie Johnson, one of Atlanta's acknowledged belles. Since her residence in Virginia, she has been the recipient of many attentions, and her home in Roanoke is one of the centers of Virginia's most exclusive social life. Mrs. Cooke wore yesterday a handsome tailor gown in black, the coat opening over a lingerie waist, combining pale blue silk and Valenciennes lace.

Mrs. Robinson, the lovely young hostess, wore a pale pink chiffon gown, trimmed in thread lace.

Mrs. Don A. Pardee wore a Parisian gown of pale blue silk, trimmed in Irish lace, and a black plumed hat.

Mrs. A. W. Hill wore a smart tailor gown in brown cloth, with a hat of brown to match.

Mrs. Robert Alston was a stylish figure in a lavender linen gown, embroidered, and a becoming hat in black.

To Miss Witham.

ONE of the earliest and prettiest of the fall events was Miss Susie May Pope's luncheon yesterday at her home on Peachtree, when she entertained in honor of Miss Laura Witham, a bride-elect of October, ten of Miss Witham's close friends being the guests of the occasion.

The plan of the luncheon was a graceful compliment to the bride-elect in its elaborate bridal suggestion. The table had for center piece a tall cut-glass vase of bride roses, and white tulle was drawn from the chandelier to the four corners of the lace-covered table. The bride's place was marked by a bouquet of white roses, and the outer place cards were hand-painted pictures of the various dainty articles that go to make up a bride's trousseau. At the close of the luncheon a miniature suit case was presented to the bride-elect, and she opened it with a silver key to find it a jewel case. On the back of each place card the guests had written toasts to the bride-elect, and these they dropped into the suit case as souvenirs. The toast judged the best won for the composer a juged the best won for the composer a

The luncheon was an elegant one, its last course wedding slippers in white and green.

OFFICIAL VOTE

Vote as Consolidated by the Election Officers at Noon Yesterday.

At noon yesterday the managers of the various city wards and county precincts of Fulton county met at the office of Ordinary Wilkinson and, under his supervision, consolidated the votes cast in the general election yesterday for state and county officers and the primary for the nomination of three judges to preside in the court of appeals, established by the votes cast yesterday ratifying an amendment to the constitution establishing that new branch of the state judiciary.

The state house ticket proper was practically without opposition. Hon. Hoke Smith, democratic governor-elect, receiving 4,904 votes; his opponent, J. B. Osborne, the socialist candidate, receiving but 6 votes in the county. None of the socialist candidates for state house offices received a single vote with the exception of A. M. Thomas, candidate for state school commissioner, who received 1 vote, his democratic opponent, W. B. Merritt, receiving 4,951 votes, this vote, together with Commissioner of Agriculture T. G. Hudson and Prison Commissioner Clement A. Evans, leading the ticket with the same number of ballots to their credit.

The official consolidated returns for the nomination of three judges of the court of appeals were as follows:

Frederick C. Foster	422
Thomas F. Green	220
W. R. Hammond	1,490
Frank Harwell	307
W. M. Henry	128

P. P. Proffitt	44
D. M. Roberts	71
Richard B. Russell	1,820
Howard Van Epps	2,259

Robert F. Maddox	3,578
T. M. Poole	941
G. Y. Pierce	408

Judges of the supreme court, judges and solicitors of the superior courts and county officers elected at yesterday's election received practically the same vote as that cast for the democratic nominee for governor and other state house officers.

Both are victors and both have farmers who know the possibilities of the soil from which they derive a livelihood and have the intelligence, the patience and the capacity for hard work that will develop its greatest fertility and make it produce the utmost of which it is capable under the most advanced science.

J. R. Miller, the man who collected and installed the prize winning Bulloch county exhibit, and who has been appointed to take charge of Georgia's agricultural display at the Jamestown exposition, has produced this year five separate crops on one piece of land. No better man lives in Georgia.

Bartow county has long been noted for its fertile farms, its energetic citizenry and its abundant agricultural resources. It is not to be supposed that this prosperous county believes it possible, or will permit the palm for agricultural supremacy in Georgia to go to the southern part of the state, without a fight. All of Georgia will watch the contest with interest.

For Clerk of Court of Appeals.

Elberton, Ga., October 20.—(Special.)—Colonel George C. Grogan, of the Elberton bar, has applied for the position of clerk of the new court of appeals. He is endorsed by the local bar and prominent men throughout the state, and his friends predict his election. Colonel Grogan is one of the most prominent lawyers and eloquent speakers in the section.

comes at once a real rate-making factor for Georgia, and when Birmingham and Atlanta are reached, connecting at these two points with systems ramifying the entire country, it will occupy the unique distinction of being able to dictate its own traffic terms.

It would be difficult to overestimate the advantages that will accrue to Georgia in the building of this line, which is entitled to, and will receive, the hearty support not only of the territory it traverses, but of the whole state, for the completion of the work in hand by this company means more in the readjustment of freight rates in Georgia to their normal level than anything the railroad commission has yet done, or is likely to do.

It is the natural outcome that freight rates between Atlanta and other Georgia points to the east should be based upon the routing via the state coast. Up to this time the demand has been that the railroads be given the LONG haul to the east, instead of the SHORT haul to the Georgia coast. By ownership of competing lines, by mergers, or the "community of interest" evasion, they have been able to control the situation, and the only way by which that power will be effectually broken is through the instrumentality of independent competition.

Mr. Atkinson's entire plan is based upon the idea that the rates between Georgia and the east should be based upon the short railroad haul to the coast, and the long water haul to the east—an exact reversal of the conditions controlling today.

And God speed him in the work, and keep him free from entangling alliances! If he works out his plans he will build a monument to himself and his associates more enduring than in any other industrial achievement now standing in Georgia to the credit of any man.

ELECT JUDGES NEXT TUESDAY

People Will Also Vote for Congressmen.

There Is Little Interest Manifested in the Election, Due to Lack of Opposition—The Democrats Are Urged to Vote.

Little interest, apparently, is manifested in the election for congressmen and appellate judges which will be held in Georgia next Tuesday, November 6. The democratic candidates for judges of the new court of appeals are unopposed, and there is no noteworthy opposition to any of the candidates for congress—at any rate, there is none which is attracting any attention.

Three judges of the state court of appeals and eleven congresmen are to be chosen in this election. The democratic candidates, all of whom will be elected, are, for the court of appeals, Richard B. Russell, Ben H. Hill and Arthur G. Powell, and for congress in the order of the districts, Charles Edwards, of Savannah; J. M. Griggs, of Dawson; E. B. Lewis, of Montezuma; W. C. Adamson, of Carrollton; L. F. Livingston, of Newton county; Charles S. Bartlett, of Macon; Gordon Lee, of Chickamauga; W. M. Howard, of Lexington; T. M. Bell, of Gainesville; T. W. Hardwick, of Sandersville, and W. G. Brantley, of Brunswick.

The democratic candidates for congress in particular are all anxious to get out a large vote. Owing to the fact that they generally have no opposition in the regular election, their vote is generally a very small one, a fact which is a source of some criticism on the part of the northern members who do not understand the situation in Georgia.

Chairman A. L. Miller, of the state democratic committee has issued a strong appeal to the voters all over the state to turn out on Tuesday and to give the candidates a good vote. It is due them and it is to be hoped that they will get it.

Congressmen and New Court Judges To Be Named.

Democratic Candidates for the Court of Appeals Have No Opposition. All Democrats Are Urged To Cast Their Votes on That Day.

Tuesday morning is congressional election day, and while in Georgia the result is a foregone conclusion, it is nevertheless desirable that a full vote be polled, the light vote cast in congressional elections being the basis of many arguments made in the halls of congress in support of the position that southern representation in congress be appointed according to the voting population as thus officially registered.

In this state the electors have but to designate their representatives in congress for the eleven congressional districts in the state, and to formally elect the three democratic candidates chosen in the primary to fill the position of judges of the newly constituted state court of appeals.

Judge Richard B. Russell, Hon. Benjamin H. Hill and Hon. Arthur G. Powell are the three jurists whom the democracy of Georgia have chosen to wear the ermine on the bench of the court of appeals, and, being without opposition, will receive the full vote cast.

In this, the fifth congressional district, Hon. Leonidas F. Livingston, the present representative in congress, is without opposition, and will be returned to represent the district which he has so ably represented for a long number of terms.

The democratic candidates for congress, in the order of districts, are as follows:

Charles Edwards, of Savannah; J. M. Griggs, of Dawson; E. B. Lewis, of Montezuma; W. C. Adamson, of Carrollton; L. F. Livingston, of Newton county; Charles S. St. Louis, November 4.—The election in Missouri arouses particular interest, in hat it will be the first of the party organization since the republican landslide f years ago. SOUTHERN SHOPS IN FULL BLAST Strike-Breakers Have Left and Union Men Fill Their Former Positions at Advanced Wage Scale. Money Received From National Union.

Striking Union Machinists Return to Work.

The cheerful ring of hammer upon anvil was heard in the Southern railway machine shops Sunday morning when fifteen of the striking journeymen mechanics returned to work, pursuant to the agreement reached between the railway officials and the representatives of the union at Washington last week.

The remainder of the 136 machinists who walked out of the shops on a strike on the morning of October 8 returned to work yesterday morning, with the exception of a few men who had left the city and who have been telegraphed to return to fill their old positions.

The men struck for an increase of 2½ cents per hour, and, by the agreement reached in Washington last week, they return to work at an increase of 1½ cents per hour, the question of the additional cent per hour being left for future arbitration of a board to be composed of three arbitrators, one of whom will be named by the machinists, one by the railway officials and these two will select the third.

The strikebreawers who were imported from the east by the railway officials were paid off Sunday and left the shops.

Secretary F. W. McCabe, of the union, was busily engaged in distributing checks for the second week's pay of the strikers, the check from the national union for this purpose having been received yesterday morning.

J. L. Jones, chairman of the strike committee, will arrive in Atlanta this

GOSSIP AT THE CAPITOL

EFFORTS are being made looking to supplying the state militia with the new Springfield rifle, which has some time since replaced the Krag in the regular army, the Krags having been placed in the hands of the state troops. The adjutant general's office here learns that the United States war department will submit a bill to congress at its coming session authorizing the government to issue in exchange to the state militia, the new Springfield rifle for the Krag, to conform to the requirements of the Dick bill. Now that the regular army has been supplied with the new rifle, there would seem to be no reason for further delay in issuing them to the state troops as fast as they can be turned out by the arsenals.

Lieutenant Colonel Robert J. C. Irvine, Twenty-first infantry, United States army, appointed from Augusta, Ga., has been found incapacitated for active service on account of disability incident thereto. He has been retired from active service, and will proceed to his home.

The three democratic nominees for the court of appeals bench, Hon. Benjamin H. Hill, Judge Richard B. Russell and Hon. A. G. In Fulton county the people will be called upon to vote for Hon. L. F. Livingston, the present democratic congressman from the fifth district, and the three democratic candidates for the court of appeals bench.

The democratic candidates for congress, in the order of districts, are as follows:

BEN HILL LEADS JUDGES' TICKET

Official Vote for Judges of New Court of Appeals Is Announced.

The official vote for judges of the new te court of appeals, cast in the elec-n of November 6, with the exception Spalding county, from which no re-rns have yet been received, was an-unced by Secretary of State Philip ok yesterday, as follows:

Ben H. Hill, of Atlanta, 33,051.
Arthur G. Powell, of Blakely, 33,042.
R. B. Russell, of Winder, 32,989.

looks like a case of the last shall first. Judge Russell, who led in the mary, drops to the bottom in the reg-r election; Mr. Hill, who was third the primary, goes up head, and Mr. well holds his own.

t will be noted that the vote was an usually small one. Maybe the people had done so much voting this year they had gotten tired of it, and then there were no contests to call them out.

The vote in the state election in Octo-, when there were no contests of any ment, was 77,182 for secretary of te, that being the highest. It was re than double that of the November election. The state primary vote went above 160,000.

Only two counties in the state, Chat-ham and Bibb, showed a larger vote in the November than in the October elec-tion. In the case of Chatham this is accounted for by the fact that there was a contest in the first district for con-gress.

Fulton, 4,696—915; Chatham 1,833—2,139; Bibb, 846—1,115; Richmond, 877—362.

The vote for congressmen will be an-nounced upon Governor Terrell's return to the city tomorrow.

L. & N. CHANGES ARE ANNOUNCED

Passenger Agent Hollenbeck Makes City Appointments.

Mr. Hollenbeck Receives Many Congratulations on His Promotion. Much Competition Expected With Opening of New L. & N. Service Sunday.

J. G. Hollenbeck, who was yesterday appointed division passenger agent of Louisville and Nashville, with ...dquarters at No. 4 Peachtree street, yesterday announced the appointment of a ticket agent, assistant ticket agent and chief clerk for the city offices of the new road between Atlanta and Cincinnati.

H. H. Milner has been appointed city ticket agent and yesterday began upon his new duties and preparing for the stock for the new Atlanta railroad office which is expected daily. Mr. Milner is well known in Atlanta as one of the younger railroad men and has a number of friends here. Although his home is in Midway, Ala., he has been in the ticket offices of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis for the past three years. Previous to his coming to Atlanta he was ticket agent at West Point for the West Point Route, and ticket agent at Selma for the Louisville and Nashville. He takes his new position with an enviable record for ability, and the kind of experience fitting him for his present work.

G. C. McIlheny, of Louisville, has been appointed assistant ticket agent. Mr. ...heny is a man of wide experience, ...g been in the Louisville ticekt offices of the Louisville and Nashville for several years. His arrival is expected daily, and he comes to Atlanta with a fine record, as one who is intimately acquainted with the methods used in the home office of the Louisville and Nashville.

APPEALS COURT NOW ORGANIZED

Judge Hill, of Atlanta, to be Presiding Judge.

Logan Bleckley Made Clerk and J. H. Pittman Named as Sheriff Until October 1, After Which P. W. Derrich Will Serve for Four Years.

The new state court of appeals was formally organized yesterday and is ready to begin business next week.

The members of the court, Judges B. H. Hill, of Atlanta, Arthur G. Powell, of Blakely, and Richard B. Russell, of Winder, met yesterday morning at 10 o'clock in the office of Governor Terrell, who administered the oath of office in the presence of a number of capitol officials and presented them with their commissions.

Following this, the court held two meetings, and then met in the supreme court room at 3 o'clock, where formal announcement was made of the court's organization.

An order was passed, the effect of which was to name Judge Hill, as chief or presiding judge of the new court on the ground that he is the oldest member. Usually the date of the commission determines such questions, but in this case all the commissions bear the same date, and the selection was put upon the ground stated.

Logan Bleckley, the well-known deputy clerk of the supreme court, was elected clerk of the court of appeals. His long experience and careful attention to detail will make the new court an able and an accurate official.

J. H. Pittman, an Atlanta lawyer and former member of the house of representatives from Troup county, was named as sheriff to serve until October 1, 1907.

P. W. Derrick, of Henry county, was named as sheriff of the court of appeals for a period of four years from [illegible]

His arrival is expected daily, and he comes to Atlanta with a record as one who is intimately acquainted with the methods in the home office of the Louisville and Nashville.

E. E. Barry, an Atlantan, is appointed chief clerk. Mr. Barry was for some time in the office of J. C. Beam, Jr., when he was division passenger agent. When Mr. Beam was appointed assistant general passenger agent of the Southern railway, with headquarters in St. Louis, he sent for Mr. Barry. While Mr. Barry states that he liked St. Louis, he also insists that there is no place like Atlanta, and he returned to enter the office of Division Passenger Agent Hollenbeck.

Mr. Hollenbeck, or "Jake," as he is intimately known to a very great number of friends, was yesterday kept busy answering telegrams, shaking hands and thanking his many admirers for their sincere and enthusiastic congratulations. While his promotion was confidently expected by the citizens of the Atlanta railroad world, its official announcement yesterday was the occasion of many kinds of pleasant sentiments.

Mr. Hollenbeck is one of the best known members of the local cinder colony. He entered railroad work in the offices of Superintendent J. J. Turner, of the Indianapolis and Vincennes road of the Pennsylvania lines, who is third vice president of the Pennsylvania system. Later, Mr. Hollenbeck went with the Wabash, and then seven years ago went to the Florida East Coast road as chief clerk of the passenger department. It was about five years ago that he accepted the position of district passenger agent of the Louisville and Nashville, with headquarters in Atlanta. Upon his arrival he entered the Louisville and Nashville offices in the Brown building, on North Pryor street, then the Transportation Row of Atlanta. Since his coming to Atlanta he has made a most enviable reputation and has secured some of the largest movements calling for special trains as well as securing quite his full share of the regular passenger traffic. That his good work has been appreciated by the Louisville and Nashville is proved by his promotion to the position of division passenger agent, a most responsible position, in that he will have in charge the opening up of Atlanta's new road to Cincinnati. The circular issued yesterday is signed by General Passenger Agent C. L. Stone and Traffic Manager C. B. Compton.

This new service, which has been anticipated by Atlantans for so long a time, will be inaugurated by a train leaving Cincinnati at 7:55 p. m., and Louisville at 8 o'clock p. m. This train will run over the Louisville and Nashville, arriving here the next day, Monday, at 12:40 noon.

At first with the opening up of the road there will be but one through train each way, although it is expected that this service will soon be increased to meet the heavy passenger traffic over this road long experience and careful attention to detail will make the new court an able and an accurate official.

J. H. Pittman, an Atlanta lawyer and former member of the house of representatives from Troup county, was named as sheriff to serve until October 1, 1907.

P. W. Derrick, of Henry county, was named as sheriff of the court of appeals for a period of four years from October 1, 1907.

Edward C. Hill, of Atlanta, W. A. Cameron, of Sylvester, and Miss Marion Bloodworth, of Atlanta, were named as stenographers to the new court. Mr. Hill will serve Judge Hill, Mr. Cameron, Judge Powell, and Miss Bloodworth, Judge Russell. The selection of a woman as court stenographer is rather unprecedented. Miss Bloodworth is at present stenographer in the office of Walter Brown.

To Use Great Seal of State.

An impression seal of the new court was adopted to consist of the obverse side of the great seal of Georgia, which shows a ship at anchor at a wharf, boats being loaded and a man plowing in a field, illustrative of the industries of the state, and around which will be inscribed "Court of Appeals of the State of Georgia, 1907."

The impression seal of the supreme court is the reverse side of the great seal of the state, so that the entire great seal will be represented in the seals of the two courts.

George W. Stephens was sworn in as reporter for the court of appeals, he having been designated in the law creating the court, and at his suggestion John M. Graham, assistant reporter to the supreme court, was designated as assistant reporter to the court of appeals.

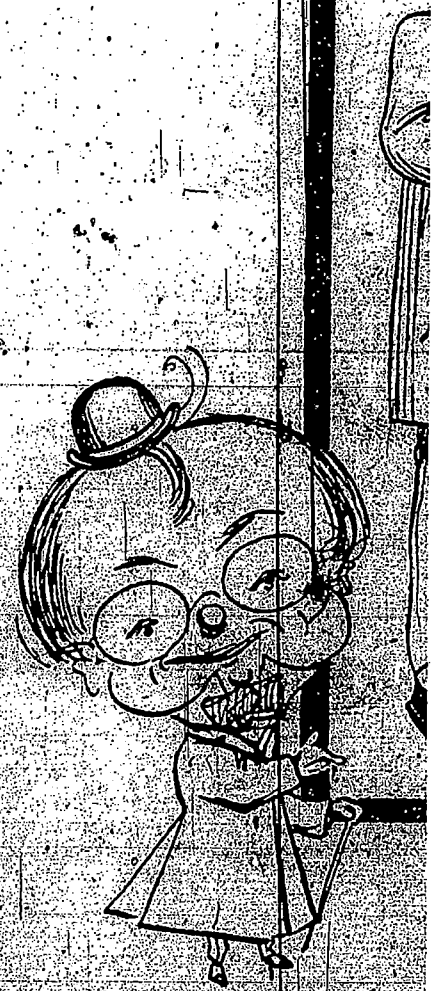

W. E. Daley, of Atlanta, was sworn in as deputy clerk of the court of appeals, and will assist both Clerk Harrison, of the supreme court, and Clerk Bleckley, of the court of appeals.

The court of appeals will meet on Monday at 1:30 o'clock p. m. for the purpose of transacting such business as it may deem advisable, and will meet again Tuesday at 1:30 p. m. to begin hearing argument in cases. The call at that time will run from case No. 1 through No. 53 of the court of appeals docket, as heretofore published, and as announced by the clerk of the supreme court at the request of the judges of the court of appeals. No further notice of this call of the docket will be given.

Argument in First Case Will Start on Tuesday.

Initial Case on the Docket Is That of the Gainesville Midland Railway Against Judah Jackson, From the City Court of Hall County.

The first session of the new state court of appeals will be held this morning.

There are now on the docket 156 cases to be tried by the new court. One hundred and fifty-five of these cases were transferred from the supreme court under the provisions of the law creating the court. The other case which has been docketed is that of the Gainesville Midland railway v. Judah Jackson, from the city court of Hall county. The suit is one for damages, and was won in the lower court by the present defendant in error in the court of appeals. H. H. Dean is attorney for the plaintiff, and W. B. Sloane and H. H. Perry for the defendant in error.

Monday's session will be more or less perfunctory, and argument will not be taken up until Tuesday at 1:30 o'clock, when cases 1 to 53, inclusive, taking in the Brunswick, Atlanta and Middle circuits, will be heard in order.

The terms of the court of appeals after this one, which is irregular, will be held coincident with those of the supreme court and cases will be docketed in the order they are received and called by circuits in their order, there being no return days in the new court.

The reports of the decisions of the court of appeals will be published separately from that of the supreme court.

COURT BEGINS WORK WITH TWO DISSENTS

JUDGE POWELL AGAINST WOMEN STENOGRAPHERS

Latter Puts His Opposition on the Ground of Legal Prohibition. Court of Appeals Promulgates Rules and Admits Attorneys to Practice.

The new state court of appeals started out with two dissenting opinions, filed before argument in a single case had been made.

Judge R. B. Russell filed his dissent to the rule designating a presiding judge in accordance with age, and Judge Arthur G. Powell filed a dissent to the order naming a woman as one of the court stenographers, on the ground that this is a state office, and cannot be held by a woman.

This did the state court of appeals begin its formal sessions at 1:30 o'clock yesterday in the supreme court room.

The court met yesterday for the purpose of attending to such preliminary matters as it had to deal with in advance of beginning the regular docket, and right interesting these preliminaries were.

Here is the order making provision for a presiding judge, to which Judge Russell takes exception:

"The established order of precedence in presiding in this court shall be the same as obtained in the supreme court prior to the creation of the separate office of chief justice of that court, that is to say, that the president or chief judge of the court shall be the oldest judge in commission, and, as between two or

Judge Powell against the appointment of a woman as stenographer to the court. In the selection of stenographers, Judge Russell named Miss Marion Bloodworth, of Atlanta, this being the first instance in the state's history in which a woman has been named as stenographer in an appellate court.

Presiding Judge Hill concurred in the appointment of Miss Bloodworth, expressing doubt as to whether the position is one of "a civil officer" or merely a clerk, and giving the benefit of the doubt to the appointee. Hence she will serve in that capacity.

Judge Powell, however, took the emphatic view that the position is that of a civil officer, hence that a woman is not eligible. Here is what Judge Powell said on the spbject:

"I feel it my duty to dissent from so much of the above order as provides for the appointment of Miss Bloodworth as one of the stenographers of this court. This dissent is based solely, however, upon the following reasons:

"By express provision of law, civil code section 1810, females are declared ineligible to hold any office or perform any civic functions, unless specially authorized by law. By civil code section 5507, the stenographers of the supreme court are declared to be civil officers. The constitutional amendment creating this court provides that in all respects, except as otherwise provided in the constitution, the laws relative to the supreme court shall apply to the court of appeals. To my mind, it therefore necessarily follows that females are ineligible to hold the office of stenographer in the court of appeals. If I could find any escape from what seems to me an irresistible legal conclusion, I would take great pleasure in joining with my brethren in the selection of this most excellent young lady."

Miss Bloodworth, however, was selected by the votes of Judges Hill and Russell, and she will hold the position.

Admissions to Practice.

Practically the only work done by the court of appeals at its session yesterday was the adoption of the court rules, which differ materially in many respects, from those of the supreme court, on account of varying conditions, and to admit a number of attorneys to practice in the new court.

The following attorneys were admitted to practice in the court of appeals:

George W. Stevens, John M. Graham, John S. Candler, Clifford L. Anderson, R. R. Arnold, Samuel N. Evins, Eugene R. Black, John M. Slaton, Henry A. Alexander, Henry C. Peeples, Robert C. Alston, Charles T. Hopkins, Harold Hirsch, John L. Tye, Sanders McDaniel, [illegible] Hopkins, Philip H. Alston, Walter

Here is the order making provision for ... presiding judge, to which Judge Russell takes exception:

"The established order of precedence in presiding in this court shall be the same as obtained in the supreme court prior to the creation of the separate office of chief justice of that court, that is to say, that the president or chief judge of the court shall be the oldest judge in commission, and, as between two or more judges whose terms of service with this court begin on the same date, the oldest man shall, for the purpose of this rule, be regarded as the oldest in commission. In the absence of the chief judge, the next oldest shall preside."

Under this order, since the commissions of all three of the judges bear the same date, Judge B. H. Hill, being the oldest in years, becomes the chief, or presiding judge.

Judge Russell's Dissent.

Judge Russell's exceptions to the foregoing order are interesting. They were read as follows and placed upon the minutes of the court, no further action being taken:

"My opposition to the adoption of the above rule is twofold. In the first place, the court cannot exercise legislative functions and create an office not contemplated in the act constituting the court of appeals. The act in section 3 says specifically that the officers shall be a clerk and a sheriff. The court is delegated no further power on that subject.

"The legislature had the power to create such an office as the presiding judge, or it may do so in the future. It did not exercise that creative power which is exclusively its own, and not a prerogative of this court.

"To my mind, the legislative intent that all the justices should be equal is clear. But if it be said that the necessity for a presiding judge is so urgent, that authority to create one must be presumed as among the implied powers of this court, then, in my opinion, it is the duty of this court to follow the manner pointed out by the legislature in determining the choice of terms for two, four and six years respectively—namely, by lot.

"This was the legislative suggestion as to the determination of the only distinction it contemplated. It is so suggestive of harmony and fairness as to be worthy of imitation. I deny that any decision or statute of Georgia affords a precedent for the construction that 'oldest in years' means oldest in commission, or vice versa.

"The rule proposed is therefore purely arbitrary—one in which the proposed presiding judge, though unnamed, is fully identified. Being arbitrary and personal, this rule must be considered and operated upon grounds of public policy instead of by the rules of law.

"And should I participate at all (in what, for the reasons above stated, I deem myself by law unauthorized) in the creation of this new office, I am constrained to say without the least disparagement of the eminent qualifications of either of my distinguished brethren) that I have never yet and cannot give from those of the supreme court, on account of varying conditions, and to admit a number of attorneys to practice in the new court.

Judge Hill's Remarks.

"I ask the indulgence of the members of the bar for a few minutes. The constitutional amendment creating the court of appeals provides that it 'shall consist of three judges.' No distinction whatever is made between the judges, and no provision is made for the selection of a presiding or chief judge. This matter if left entirely by necessary inference to the decision of the three judges themselves. Of course it is absolutely necessary that some one of the three judges should be selected to act as presiding judge in order that the business of the court can be properly conducted, and a majority of the court adopted a special order on the subject, following the precedent established by the three judges in the organization of the supreme court.

"It is not claimed that there was any statute or decision on the subject, but the method adopted by the three judges established the precedent referred to. This honor, therefore, falls upon me, solely because of my venerable age. I assure my young and distinguished colleagues that I would gladly exchange the honors of seniority for the strength and pleasures of adolescence. But as this cannot be done, I accept the honor of the position as one of the compensations of age, and trust I shall be able to discharge its duties in such manner as to win the respect of my associates, and the learned members of the bar who will practice in this court.

"The establishment of the court of appeals was for the purpose of furnishing double relief. Relief to the overburdened judges of the supreme court, and to the people who on account of this condition were threatened with a denial of justice. Our resolute English ancestors, the barons at Runnymede, wrung from a reluctant king the declaration that he would 'neither deny nor delay justice or right to any subject.' This guaranty is justly regarded as one of the most precious rights secured by the Great Charter. "The achievements and services of our young men are, perhaps, the pre-eminent glories of American history.

Judge Russell's dissent was simply ordered recorded on the minutes.

The History of It.

The reasoning by which the rule in question was brought about is said to have been as follows:

Prior to 1866, when the office of chief justice of the supreme court was first created, and soon after the organization of the supreme court under the act creating it, the legislature passed an act providing, among other things, with regard to the three judges of that court, that

"They, or two of them, may hold said court, and the oldest judge in commission is the chief justice, or president thereof, but without any greater powers than his associates."

This act as amended so as to make it applicable only in case that the chief justice is absent, still appears in the state code, section 5503.

All the laws relating to the supreme court are made part of the law creating the court of appeals.

By actual construction from the date of the organization of the supreme court, that court has always held that the expression "oldest judge in commission" as between two judges of the same date of commission, meant the older man in years.

In the first supreme court, Justice Lumpkin, who was born in 1800, was thus given precedence over Justice Warner, who was born in 1803, and upon the death of Justice Lumpkin, Justice Warner became chief justice in precedence over Justice Nesbitt, born in 1804, although all these commissions bore the same date.

As to Woman Stenographer.

The other dissent filed in the court of appeals at its first meeting was that of ...pleasures of conscience. But as this cannot be done, I accept the honor of the position as one of the compensations of age, and trust I shall be able to discharge its duties in such manner as to win the respect of my associates, and the learned members of the bar who will practice in this court.

"The establishment of the court of appeals was for the purpose of furnishing double relief. Relief to the overburdened judges of the supreme court, and to the people who on account of this condition were threatened with a denial of justice. Our resolute English ancestors, the barons at Runnymede, wrung from a reluctant king the declaration that he would 'neither deny nor delay justice or right to any subject.' This guaranty is justly regarded as one of the most precious rights secured by the Great Charter. What the king was forced to yield to the humblest of his subjects, the people of Georgia have voluntarily given to every citizen. In this great state it has always been the right of every man, however humble, or insignificant his case, to be fully and fairly heard by a court of last resort. This court will labor to fulfill the reasonable expectations of the people in creating it. It cannot hope to do so, Gentlemen of the Bar, without your earnest sympathy and active support. Courts must rely for a proper construction of the law, and for any measure of success, upon the learned and conscientious members of the bar. Lawyers are severe critics, but are rarely unjust in their judgment. They fully understand the labors, duties and responsibilities of the judicial office, and when they accord to the judges learning, integrity and courage, their opinion will be accepted by the general public as the true estimate of the judge's character, and so the court will thus obtain public confidence and respect. In the beginning of our judicial career, we earnestly invoke your active and considerate help, and we promise in return consecrated service, recognizing only one master—the law. With strict fidelity, without fear and without favor, with clean hands, and with a pure purpose, we will strive to serve all the people in an impartial, and patient execution of the high trust committed to us. 'To administer justice without respect to persons, and to do equal rights to the poor and the rich.' Reverently we repeat the words of our sheriff on opening the court, 'God bless the people of Georgia and the court of appeals.'"

Gavel With a History.

Sheriff Pittman, in opening the first term of the new court of appeals, used a gavel which has an interesting history. Chief Judge Hill gave him the gavel, which was used by his father, Senator Hill, at Macon in 1867, in organizing the democratic party, that nominated John B. Gordon for governor against R. B. Bulloch, and which inaugurated the great fight against the reconstruction measures of congress.

RUSSIA EQUALS UNITED STATES

In Matter of Women and Child Wage Earners, Says Prof. Devine.

New York, January 22.—The United States government was declared on a par with the Russian government in failing to legislate for the protection of women and child wage-earners at a mass meeting held last night in Carnegie lyceum under the auspices various charitable labor and sociological bodies. One of the speakers said that in comparison with Great Britain, the United States now stood in the development of its child labor laws where Great Britain stood in 1844. Another charge was that instead of advancing in such legislation, the country has been steadily retrograding for the past eleven years.

A resolution was adopted by the meeting calling upon congress to appropriate $300,000 to defray the expense of a thorough investigation of all women and child labor in the United States. The meeting was presided over by H. T. Devine, of Columbia university. He criticized President Roosevelt for declaring in one of his messages to congress that it is practically impossible for the federal government to legislate so as to improve the conditions complained of.

Discharged Negro Troops Arrested.

Valentine, Neb., January 23.—Two of the negro soldiers of the Twenty-fifth infantry, which were discharged from the army by President Roosevelt in the Brownsville affair, are under arrest here for introducing whisky into the Rosebud Indian reservation and for selling it to the Indians. The negroes give their names as Long and Williams. Both were stationed here before the Twenty-fifth was sent south.

there have just been added to the school fund some items not heretofore counted on, including $16,639.71 from the sale of products raised on the state farm near Milledgeville, and $8,680.62 received as the result of compromises with those now occupying land lots which were set apart by the legislature nearly ninety years ago for school purposes. There was also a slight increase in the show tax, while the net receipts from the inspection of fertilizers and oils showed a decrease on account of appropriations made direct from that fund.

The estimated school fund for the year 1906 was $1,711,844, though there was collected for this fund $1,735,000. It is probable also that the school fund receipts this year will show an increase over the estimate.

None of these estimates include in the receipts from convict hire, which amount to about $225,000 a year, available for school purposes. With this amount included the state school fund will run over $2,000,000 this year for the first time in the history of the state.

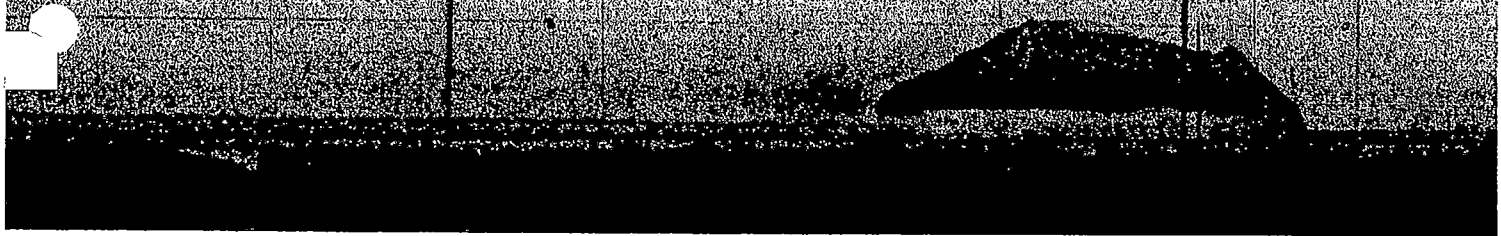

Captain Dixon's Resignation.

Adjutant General S. W. Harris yesterday accepted the resignation of W. T. Dixon as captain of the Chatham Artillery of Savannah, the property in possession of the battery having been receipted for by First Lieutenant W. B. Stillwell. Captain Dixon's bondsmen are still liable until a final accounting is made. Captain Dixon left Savannah some time ago for the purpose of perfecting himself in music, hence his resignation.

The battery has informally chosen R. J. Davant, of Savannah, as its new captain, and he will be formally elected at an election to be held next Monday by order of the adjutant general. It is generally understood now that the new modern four gun light battery which has been given to the state by the war department, and which is now being completed at the Rock Island arsenal, will go to the Chathams as soon as it is turned over to the state.

RESPITE FOR ANDREW BELL.

Was to Have Been Hanged at Dublin Today, but Is Given Another Chance.

Andrew Bell, colored, who was to have been hanged today for the murder of a negro, was yesterday granted a respite by Governor Terrell until March 1.

The respite was granted as the result of a strong petition from citizens and officers, who urged that Bell be given another chance to make a showing before the prison commission with a view to securing a commutation to life imprisonment.

Want Put Under Civil Service.

Savannah, Ga., January 24.—(Special.)—Mayor George W. Tiedeman announced today that it is his purpose, if possible, to have all of the city positions put under civil service rules and the tenure of office made dependent upon this service performed. Promotions, too, should be made in the same manner.

The mayor strongly opposes the old plan of having politics rule the filling of the city positions.

Wanted Change in the Land.

At the meeting of the trustees of the new agricultural school for the fifth congressional district, held Wednesday at Monroe, the board declined to accept the tract of land tendered for the school in its present shape, and asked that certain changes be made so as to put it in more desirable shape for the school: It was promised that the required changes would be made within five days, the time set by the board, and in the event this is not done, another tract to the south of Monroe will be accepted.

The board appointed a committee of three, consisting of C. M. Candler, of Decatur; G. F. Hunnicutt, of East Point, and A. D. Hathmock, of Conyers, to whom will be referred all applications for positions as teachers, instructors and the like, and all applicants should communicate with them. This committee will make a report to the board at its next meeting.

The matter of letting the contract for the erection of the necessary school buildings was deferred until a decision is reached with regard to the tract of land to be accepted for the school. This will be decided within the next week.

up the question of investigating the physical condition of the Georgia railroad, complaint about which has been made by Bowdre Phinizy of Augusta. This matter will come before the commission merely in an informal way, but it is expected that some decision will be reached as to the course of procedure. There is little doubt that the commission will make a complete investigation of Mr. Phinizy's charges, and will take such action in the premises as it is authorized to do under the law, in the event that there should be found necessity for it. Mr. Phinizy, it will be remembered, charged that the Georgia railroad had been allowed to run down in its physical condition until it is unsafe for travel.

GOSSIP AT THE CAPITOL

An interesting point was decided by the state court of appeals yesterday in the case of Joe Hammock vs. the State, from the city court of Macon. In the decision rendered by Judge Arthur G. Powell, the decision of Judge Robert Hodges, of the city court of Macon, was reversed, which practically means the acquittal of the defendant.

It seems that a deputy sheriff, whose name is not given in the decision, suspected Hammock of carrying concealed weapons, arrested him, searched and found a pistol on his person. There was no other charge or complaint against Hammock, yet he was convicted and sentenced for carrying concealed weapons.

The state court of appeals in reversing the decision, holds that this was a case of illegal arrest and search against which the citizens of the state are protected by the state constitution. In other words, in the case of the arrest of a man for carrying concealed weapons a warrant charging the crime must first be served, for it is against the constitutional rights of the citizen to summarily search him on suspicion and then use the evidence found to incriminate him. The constitution, it is held, protects the citizens of the state against unlawful search and seizure, and any evidence found under such circumstances cannot be used against him.

Notwithstanding this interesting decision, there still remains to be decided that question of search and seizure, which is common to police courts. A man may be arrested for a plain drunk, and when the police search him at the police station a pistol may be found upon his person. Can he then be prosecuted for carrying concealed weapons, and this evidence be used against him? This is an interesting question, which the court of appeals or the supreme court may soon be called upon to decide.

Concealed Weapon Law.

Georgia's court of appeals has just rendered an interesting decision anent the carrying of concealed weapons.

In effect, the case was this: A man standing at a bar taking a drink was arrested by a deputy sheriff without a warrant and upon no specific charges, except, perhaps, the suspicion that he was carrying a concealed weapon. A search developed the correctness of the suspicion and the man was convicted and sentenced solely upon the deputy sheriff's testimony, he having secured from the defendant, by force, the evidence to make out his case.

In reversing the decision of the lower court, the state court of appeals declares this to have been a case of unlawful seizure and search, against which the persons and homes of citizens are protected by the constitution of the state. It was held that the officer of the law had no authority to forcibly arrest the man, search him, and then use the incriminating evidence found by such search to convict him of a crime. To have made such an arrest, the officer should first have had a warrant sworn to and founded upon probable cause; otherwise the seizure and search were in violation of the individual's constitutional rights.

There can be no doubt about the correctness of the decision of the court of appeals, despite the fact that it means a sort of protection to the "pistol-toter." The citizen must, of course, be protected in his constitutional rights, even if this sometimes interferes with the detection of mis-

It means a sort of protection to the "pistol-toter." The citizen must, of course, be protected in his constitutional rights, even if this sometimes interferes with the detection of misdemeanors.

It therefore behooves the officer of the law to be more diligent in the detection of crime through legitimate methods. It is agreed generally that the "pistol-toter" is a menace to the community and ought to be suppressed. Where there is ground for suspicion, therefore, it is the duty of the officer to watch for some overt act that will disclose guilt, without forcing the evidence from the man who may wear a demeanor of peace and good order.

The decision of the court of appeals in this case suggests a further interesting inquiry. A man is arrested for violating a city ordinance. At the police station he is searched and a pistol is found on his person. The arrest is legal and so far as appears, so is the search. But in such a case as this can the incriminating evidence be used for the conviction of the man of an offense with which he was not charged, an offense for which he is amenable to an entirely different court?

This is a question on which the Georgia appellate courts have not passed, and while we are inclined to think there can be no question as to the right of search and the discovery of evidence in the case of a legal arrest, the point is one which may sometime demand consideration.

Perhaps the real remedy lies, in so far as the "pistol-toter" is concerned, in a more severe penalty. A few chaingang sentences without alternative fines might have a very salutary effect.
