The caseload of our Court continues to grow. We had an increase of 6% in filings from 2002 to 2003 bringing the 2003 total caseload to 3,444 which is 287 cases per judge. The number of applications grew at a faster clip than direct appeals, increasing by 9% in contrast to 4% for direct appeals. There were 2,589 direct appeals and 855 applications filed in 2003. In relation to applications, I have found that attorneys often wish to know the frequency in which applications are granted. In 2003, 23% of discretionary and 32% of interlocutory applications were granted. Approximately 55% of direct appeals arose from civil disputes.

You can now find some of our caseload statistics on our web page. In fact, our information technology staff has been improving our web page technology over the past year to provide better service. Our page now gives attorneys and the public the opportunity to review their appeal's progress in the court through our web docket. An announcement section contains general notices about rule changes and court policy changes. We will be continuing the enhancement of the web page in the future as the court begins development of a portal for obtaining electronic documents and providing electronic access to court documents to be completed within the next few years.

Looking back at what we have accomplished this year, our judges issued 1,415 signed opinions in 2003 or approximately 118 per judge. Of the direct appeals disposed by opinion in 2003 about 56% the trial court decisions was wholly affirmed. 42% of oral argument requests were granted resulting in approximately 190 arguments. A particular focus for our Court this year is to update the Courtroom to enhance the argument process for both the parties and the bench. We will soon be renovating the courtroom to include an electronic presentation system including elmo equipment and computer stations at the bench.

In addition to technology enhancement, the Court is currently undertaking one of its routine reviews of the rules. We will be incorporating appropriate suggestions by lawyers or others that would improve the procedures for processing cases through the Court. I invite you to inform our clerk of any rule changes you believe will assist the appellate process to be efficient and just.

A comparison of the 2002 and 2003 calendar year caseloads shows that there was a 9 percent increase in applications from ~~781~~ to 855 and a 4% increase in direct appeals from 2,479 to 2,589 cases. There was an overall caseload increase of 6%. The higher increase in applications particularly affects the workload of the central staff. In 2003 there were 184 more filings which were required to be reviewed by central staff. The number of filings per central staff member increased from 6.97 to 7.36 per week. The staff attorney's workload increased from 1.32 to 1.38 cases per week. Considering that about 20% of the cases are terminated by withdrawal, dismissals or transfers, many of which are the direct result of the work of the central staff, the 2003 caseload of each staff attorney was closer to 1.09 cases per week.

Lynn, Here are the figures. I couldn't find the original memo right now so I just took the filings from our reports and recalculated the percentages. They are the same as I remember in the memo. Hope this is helpful.

2003 Filings

Direct Appeals	2,589

Interlocutory	453
Discretionary	402
Total	3,444

Percent Increase 2002-2003

Direct Appeals	4%
Applications	9%
Total	6%

Please note that the percentages are rounded to the nearest whole number. Also discretionary applications were actually less than last year, but the number of interlocutories was so much higher that the end result was the overall increase in applications.

Memorandum

To: William L. Martin, III
From: H. Sparrow AS
Subject: Time to Disposition or Remittitur
Date: July 23, 2004

Per your inquiry, I did make a comparison of the Jan Term 2002 cases to just the cases that were on the oral argument calendar for that term. There were insufficient numbers of juvenile or criminal cases to make such an analysis, but the civil cases on the calendar had both longer average and median times from docketing to disposition and disposition to remittitur than cases generally. The longer average time from disposition to remittitur reflects the greater number of writs of certiorari that are filed on these cases than civil cases in general.

See the figures below.

	Docketing to Disposition	Initial Disp. to Remittitur
All Jan Term Civil Cases	Ave: 163 Median: 190	Ave: 58 Median: 20
Oral Argument Cases	Ave: 202 Median: 206	Ave: 153 Median: 134

Time is displayed in days.

For reference, the ratio of Georgia intermediate appellate judges per million of population is 1.47.

*Some states have more than one division or circuit. These figures reflect the total number of intermediate appellate judges in each state.

83 2625/mt 2007

Georgia has the GA COA ~~consists~~ of 12 judges. ~~This ratio~~ of judges per million of population is 1.47. Because GA's population was under the 2000 census this means same

Memorandum

To: Chief Judge G. Alan Blackburn
From: W. L. Martin, III
William L. Martin, III
Subject: Pauper Filings
Date: December 17, 2001

Last year you asked me to check the number of pauper filings in our Court for comparison to the pauper filings that may have occurred after the implementation of our Pro Se Litigation pamphlet. I have attached last year's figures for you as well as a new report showing the pauper filings for 2001 as compared to the previous years.

Again, I do not include any criminal cases in this report since most of our criminal cases come as appointed cases anyway. If you have any questions regarding this matter, please do not hesitate to contact me.

Thank you.

* Thirty-nine states have at least one intermediate appellate court.

Oklahoma and Texas have two courts of last resort and one intermediate appellate court. Alabama, Indiana, New York, Pennsylvania, and Tennessee have two courts that have intermediate appellate jurisdiction.

Pennsylvania's report of opinions per judge for 2001-2002 seem unusual in light of previous years reports since in 1999 and 2000 each intermediate appellate court reported less than 60 opinions per judge.

Memorandum

---

To: Judge John H. Ruffin, Jr.
From: WLM
William L. Martin, III
Subject: Docket Year 2000 Filings Report
Date: October 11, 2000

For the Docket Year 2000 there were 2,596 direct appeals docketed in the Court of Appeals of Georgia; 420 discretionary applications docketed and 378 interlocutory applications docketed. In addition, there were 15 Rule 40(b) Emergency Motions docketed for a total caseload filing for the 2000 Docket Year of 3,409. This averages out to approximately 284 cases per judge per year.

The National Standards for appellate court cases per judge per year is anywhere from 100 to 125 based upon standards established by the American Bar Association and the National Center for State Courts.

I have attached a corrected oral argument report for Docket Year 2000 and a cumulative report for every year the Court has operated under the rule change which requires a motion requesting oral argument and approval by the Court.

If you have an questions or if I can provide further information to you, please do not hesitate to contact me.

Thank you.
